State Legislature Opens Its 30-Day Session Tomorrow

BATON ROUGE, May 11, (AP)—An unpredictable Legislature, hunting more money but forbidden to raise taxes, starts work on Gov. Earl Long's new budget of nearly 470 million dollars in a 30-day fiscal session opening Monday.

Lawmakers will be shocked when they learn how little money will be left for their own pet projects.

There may be indignant screams shaking the tranquility Long's administration seeks in this cut-and-dried session confined to budget and fiscal matters.

While the figures won't be made public until the general appropriations bill is introduced, probably Monday night, administration sources said Long wasn't kidding when he warned he will find it hard to sign any special appropriations. These bills are the heart of individual re-election campaigns.

Second Of Type

The second fiscal Legislature in Louisiana history convenes at noon.

Sen. W. M. Rainach, legislative segregation leader, indicated few if any proposals are planned right now. His committee has been headquarters for repeated legislative efforts to hold off the federal integration drive.

Sen. Jack Davis, Shreveport, said he will ask permission to submit a proposal writing the ousted right to work law into the state Constitution.

But nonfiscal legislation must have a three-fourths majority approval for introduction, an almost impossible hurdle. Senate and House screening committees will decide whether measures meet the fiscal rules.

Was Tossed Out

The 1956 Legislature under Long tossed out the then two-year-old law banning compulsory unionism for all but farm workers. Sen. Davis said sponsors would March back every session "with a new right to work bill." The repealed law was adopted in 1954 after the hottest legislative brawl in modern state history.

While the Legislature is almost certain to let off steam because of tight money, members visiting the Capitol recently expressed hope the session will be calm and settle down to quick work.

They are aware of the warning in Gov. Long's budget committee report, emphasizing the taxpayers "are ready for and demanding a strict supervision of the spending of the tax dollar."

Roof May Fly

The state's 23,000 teachers, who considered such harsh steps as a strike last winter as the only way to obtain the full salary schedule approved in the 1956 Legislature, are certain to raise the roof unless they get the full schedule next year. They got half this year.

Long's austerity budget, a new record in spending but held tightly to anticipated revenues and available surpluses, grants teach-

Middle East Kings Meet To End Feud

BAGHDAD, Iraq, May 11 (UP)—The Kings of Saudi Arabia and Iraq met Saturday to end a blood feud and ally their oil-rich lands more closely with the West in the face of Egyptian and Syrian overtures to Russia.

American and other Western diplomats predicted the meeting would herald a shift of Middle East powers into a new alignment.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia and a retinue of 80 flew to Baghdal for conferences with Iraqi King Feisal aboard three special planes. The trip was the first by a Saudi monarch to Iraq and symbolized the end of a bitter quarrel that stemmed from the fact that Saud's father ousted Feisal's grandfather from Arabia after World War I.

Both monarchs made a ceremony of their meeting. Saud, in flowing white Arab robes, was greeted by Feisal and Crown Prince Abdul Ilah wearing field marshal uniforms at Baghdad airport.

Warm Embrace

The 22-year-old Feisal warmly embraced and kissed the cheeks of Saud, 34 years his senior.

They drove in a carriage drawn by six white horses to Feisal's palace through streets jammed with cheering Iraquis and bedecked with the green and white Saudi flags.

Saud was expected to spend three or four days here in close conference with Feisal and his premier, Nuries Said, on their mutual position as oil-rich countries in the turbulent Middle East.

There were reports that Jor-

East Germany Backs Down In Face Of Revolt

BERLIN, May 11 (UP) — A student strike tonight forced East German Communists to back down on an order suspending 122 veterinary students who boycotted classes after their dean fled to the West.

The Communists alerted their militia to prevent student demonstrations from growing into a full-fledged anti - government outburst.

Expelled 122

The Reds first expelled 122 veterinarian students at Humboldt University in East Berlin, then reinstated them when the entire student body began a protest strike.

The Communist backdown was disclosed in a statement broadcast over the East German Radio. It said the suspensions were intended to be only "temporary" and the students could now resume their studies.

Some 122 students — the entire junior class of Humboldt Veterinary school — refused to attend lectures Thursday given by professors substituting for Dean Guenther Scheutzer. The dean fled to the West last week when the Communists threatened him with disciplinary action for supporting a student anti - Communist movement.

Anti-Red Center

Humboldt University has been a focal point of anti-Communist unrest in East Germany since independence fever spread from Poland and Hungary through the satellites last fall.

There have been numerous official warnings to students and last winter an instructor was arrested as a "counter revolutionary."

The crackdown today resulted from a student strike which began last Thursday.

Queen Expected To Visit America

WASHINGTON, May 11 (UP)—Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain is expected to visit the United States for about 10 days early in October, informed sources said today.

She will be accompanied by Prince Phillip, they said.

The visit has been under discussion between the U. S. and British governments for some months. Reliable sources here said the Queen is about ready to accept a U. S. invitation.

The formal invitation must come from President Eisenhower, and it has not been issued yet. But it will be as soon as details are completed, perhaps in two or three weeks, it was said.

Besides visiting Washingtin, he royal couple is expected to travel to other American cities. All the other cities to be visited are not known, but the royal couple is almost certain to visit Jamestown, Va., which is celebrating the 350th anniversary of its founding.

AFTER LOSS OF EYE-SIGHT

Courageous Pastor Seeks Comeback

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

"I feel that God is omnipotent, and through Him we can do all things," said the Rev. Walter C. Mason yesterday, in explaining his expectations of returning to the Methodist ministry, although he has suffered the loss of his eye-sight.

Sitting in the solarium on the fourth floor of St. Francis hospital in Monroe, Rev. Mason, who will celebarte his 50th birthday today, discussed his future cheerfully. Recently recovered from diabetes, he still has a long road to cover before his strength is regained.

There is Hope

Suffering from glaucoma, a hardening of the arteries in the eyes, the reverend has completely lost the sight of his right eye, but there is a slim possibility that an operation to relieve pressure on his left eye might restore the sight there.

His life story can stand as an inspiration to all who have suffered hardships. Orphaned as a small boy, he was reared by an aunt and uncle in his native state of Virginia, on a farm in the hill country near the Virginia-West Virginia border.

When he was in his teens, he felt that he could best dedicate his life as a minister of God, and worked in the coal mines to provide for his education.

Mason traveled as an evangelist before coming to Louisiana in the 1930's. His first church here was located in Lockport. In Louisiana, he met a young lady from West Virginia, and they were married. He is now a widower; his wife succumbed to cancer four years ago.

'Mighty' Modest

"He's a mighty modest fellow. For a good many days after he came to the hospital, we didn't know that he was a preacher," was the way another patient described him. Very quiet about his accomplishments, he revealed little about his work in Louisiana. A close friend, Eugene Scott, was pleased to note some of the work done by Mason.

"He founded the Memorial Methodist church in Monroe, and reorganized the McGuire Methodist Church in West Monroe. While he was pastor at the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, he had high blood pressure, from overwork. He also suffered from bleed-

Trucker Killed Near Vivian

VIVIAN, La., May 11 (AP) — A strip of wood torn from a log truck in a car-truck collision near here fatally injured the driver of the car when it pierced his heart and lungs.

The victim was identified as Homer Nix, 27, of Shreveport.

State patrolmen said Nix's car sideswiped the log truck while attempting to pass another vehicle last night.

Wilson Says Defense Cuts At Peril Point

HOUSTON, May 11 (UP)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said tonight he already has reduced the new defense budget to the 'peril point" and denounced the "meat-ax boys" who want to cut it further.

He said a good case can be made for increasing rather than decreasing his proposed 38 billion dollar military spending program for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

For the second time in two weeks, he sharply criticized the U.S. Chamber of Commerce for demanding a $1,500,000,000 reduction in new defense spending. Last week he did it at a news conference; tonight, at a face-to-face meeting with a group of chamber members.

Aimed At Congress

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Houston Chamber of Commerce, Wilson said:

"I am against anyone going after it (the military budget) with a meat-ax, no matter whether it is the U.S. Chamber of Commerce or any other group of individuals."

His remarks obviously were aimed as much at the economy bloc in Congress as at the chamber.

Last week, the blunt-talking Wilson said the chamber's call for a cut in defense spending was "disgusting." He said the chamber represented "some of the richest people" in the world and that for them "to squawk" about military spending "gives me a pain."

'Peril-Point" Budget

"No one enjoys paying taxes," Wilson said tonight. "I have thought my taxes were too high for 25 years but I haven't squawked about it.

TIME BANK FOR MOTHER'S DAY

Forget To Buy A Gift? Here's A Way Out

By VIVIAN BROWN

Forget to buy a Mother's Day present Shame! But it's never too late to create one yourself. You can still do it today, and with little effort.

It's a time bank, and you can make it yourself without even going to the work bench. It doesn't need to be gold, studded with diamonds, just a piece of paper will do. If you're the sentimental type, make it heart-shaped.

On it, all you need do is scribble the time that Mom puts in at the job of being mother.

First you put down 6 a.m., when her day starts. Or if she's a late sleeper, 6:30.

As the family chef, she eadns at least a five-hour deposit in the bank each day, unless she's one of those lucky souls with an electronic oven that can bake a cake in 10 minutes.

As waitress, bus boy and dishwasher, she earns at least another three hours.

Then there's the job of family chauffeur, taking dad to work or the station, the youngsters to school, trips to the market. Then there are the side trips, Jane to a baby-sitting job, junior to the Boy Scouts, delivering paraphernalia for school projects. That's good for another two or three hours, plus an occasional stop at the garage to get a dented fender straightened. (So take an hour some day to teach her how to park).

She's the cleaning woman, good for one hour a day at least. As family laundress (washing and ironing) she's likely to run up an average of an hour in every 24. As seamstress—buttons for Dad's shirts, a new zipper for junior's trousers, some fancy applique for Sis' new dress—fast though she is, there goes another hour.

As nursemaid to Baby there's none better, and it's clock work feeding, not to mention lengthy burps between times. It'll cost two hours a day for four feedings; slow eaters will use up more. Baths and bedtime stories, another hour.

Then there are those extracurricular activities, seasonal as they are. Figure them on an average basis. Tending petunias, spraying tomatoes use up precious minutes. So does that fill-in job for Dad—cleaning the car. In fall there's leaf raking, springtime gardens to prepare for seed. Summertime calls for lawn mowing, and Mom "really needs the exercise" the family has said (or it wouldn't let her do it.) She's good with the axe too, when log-burning time comes 'round.

She doesn't need much sleep she keeps saying (fortunately) so she's likely to wait up nervously for the children out on late dates. Ditto, Dad, if he can't make it for supper. She's awake in an instant to any little cough dropper in the house, too, and her bedside manner is the best, as any little patient will testify.

All in all we figure Mom averages about 20 working hours a day. That leaves her four hours for sleep, minus the time spent getting a glass of water for a thirsty child who as often as not is too sleepy to drink it.

Communist China Blasts U.S. Moves

HONG KONG, May 11 (AP)—Communist China charged tonight that the United States is turning Formosa into a "base for atomic warfare" by stationing Matador missiles on the Nationalist island.

A sharply worded foreign Ministry statement broadcast by Peiping radio warned: "The Chinese government hereby solemnly declares: The determination of the Chinese people to liberate their own territory is unshakable. The United States must bear full responsibility for its action of aggression.

Follows Announcement

The statement followed by three days a U. S. announcement that advance units of American Matador missile units, capable of hurling atomic warheads several hundred miles into Red China, had arrived on Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek's stronghold, 100 miles from the mainland.

As expected, the announcement drew hotly worded reactions from the Communist Chinese press and radio.

The Red Chinese freely boasted that the Matadors would not deter Peiping from its intention of taking over the Nationalist sanctuary.

Heiterate Goal

The official statement tonight reiterated that goal. But it avoided the saber-rattling of past years and made no mention of Red military might.

Instead, it said, the move had caused "great indignation" throughout the Communist mainland, and that a strong protest had been lodged with the American government. Such a protest customarily would be relayed through British diplomats in Peiping. The United States has no diplomatic relations with Red China.

ACCUSES U. S.

The broadcast statement accused the American government of refusing to discuss "seriously" a settlement of, the issue in the talks that have been going on since August 1955 in Geneva between Ambassadors U. Alexis Johnson of the United States and Wang Ping-nan of Red China.

The United States has said that the Matadors, which could reach some of Red China's biggest air bases, were solely for defensive purposes in case of attack. The action has been hailed with satisfaction by the Formosa press, which said it was evident the United States had no illusions about the talks in Geneva and had ruled out "appeasement" of the Chinese Reds.

Jes' Ramblin'

Today is Mothers' Day and we feel that the time is highly suited to pay tribute to one above all others who is the one to whom all owe the very deepest devotion. Too often in the bustle and struggle of life we forget Mother. It should never be thus. Here is a worthwhile tribute from Joaquin Miller, as a suitable tribute to pass along:

'THE BRAVEST BATTLE'

"The bravest battle that ever was fought!
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
'Twas fought by the mothers of men.
"Nay, not with cannon or battle-shot.
With sword or noble pen:
Nay, not with eloquent words or thought
From mouths of wonderful men!
"But deep in a walled-up woman's heart-
Of a woman that would not yield,
But bravely and silently bore her part-
Lo, there is that battlefield!
'No marshaling troops, no bivouac song
No banner to gleam and wave;
But oh these battles, they last so long —
From babyhood to the grave.
"Yet faithful still as a bridge of stars,
She fights in her walled-up town-
Fights on and on in the endless wars,
Then, silent, unseen, goes down.
"Oh ye with banners and battle-shot,
And soldiers to shout and praise!
I tell you the kingliest victories fought
Were fought in those silent

380,000 ACRES FLOODED

BATON ROUGE, May 11 (AP)—Agriculture Commissioner Sidney McCrory said today 380,000 Louisiana acres are flooded in 10 parishes.

He said he has sent a telegram to Agriculture Secretary Benson asking the soil bank program be reopened for flooded cotton farmers.

Gov. Earl Long last week appealed for federal designation of a disaster area.

In Avoyelles, Bossier, Caddo, Catahoula, Grant, LaSalle, Natchitoches, Rapides, Red River and Winn parishes, McCrory said, "there are 110,000 acres of pasture temporarily destroyed, 20,000 acres of feed grain crops totally destroyed, 250,000 acres of woodland pasture flooded and out of use."

Should a disaster area be declared, farmers would be able to get free grain owned by the Commodity Credit Corp.

Some 80,000 head of cattle, 3,000 hogs and 1,000 sheep have been moved.

"While most of the livestock has been moved," McCrory added, "they are in hills lacking forage . . . No hay has been harvested in the area."

In his telegram to Benson, with copies to Louisiana's congressional delegation, McCrory said "due to flood waters and excess rains, there are cotton farmers who will be unable to prepare their lands in time for planting this year."

Tractor equipment has been moved and is blocked from returning by washed out bridges.

The state commissioner urged Benson to reopen the soil bank program "to those cotton farmers in the flooded areas. . . who will not be able to prepare their lands in time to plant cotton this year."

Dripping Skies Prospect Today

Wet skies are in prospect for Louisiana and Arkansas areas today, according to the federal weatherman.

Urgent Call Seeks Boats, Heavy Motors

By UNITED PRESS

New flash floods, built up by seven-inch cloudbursts in two hours time, struck central Texas tonight.

Creeks in the already saturated area swept out of their banks, flooding out highways and leaving an undetermined number of persons marooned at two small towns.

The Department of Public Safety issued an urgent call for boats with heavy motors for rescue work.

A helicopter was requested for the Army to rescue three persons who were swept away in their automobile but managed to grab and hold on to a tree.

Rivers Running Over

The new crisis developed in Central Texas as new and continuing cloudbursts sent at least six rivers charging to dangerous heights earlier today, washing out a railroad track between two approaching trains.

At least one person was killed. She was Mrs. Monroe Miller, 66, sister-in-law of Maj. Gen. Adler (Ret), of San Antonio, who was swept from the highway along with five women in an automobile near Del Rio, on the Rio Grande.

The flash floods tonight struck the same areas that had undergone flash flooding on three previous occasions since an unparalleled siege of heavy weather struck the state on April 19.

Pair Cling to Tree

The creeks that went out of their banks tonight were the Bullhide and Cow Bayou, about 15 miles south of Waco.

United Press correspondent Rabell said at Waco that the streams were moving with unbelievable swiftness. He said rainfall at Waco only totaled 1.14 inches but it was still raining.

At Austin, the Department of

POINTS UP CONTROVERSY ON RARE WHOOPING CRANES

NEW ORLEANS, May 11 (AP)—Two brown, blotched eggs at the Audubon Park zoo here have been plopped into the middle of a great whooping crane controversy even before they are hatched.

The question that has split conservationists in this country and Canada is whether to let nature take her course on additional whooper families or whether to provide a bit more planned parenthood with at least one more captive bird.

Meantime, the struggle for existence by this man-size wader — tallest and perhaps the rarest of American birds — continues to focus public interest such as never was concentrated before on a species near extinction.

Unaware of all the excitement, the parent birds, Jo and Crip, stand guard in their zoo enclosure, warming and reshuffling their eggs, even as other whooper parents have stood guard since the Pleistocene age.

It is Jo's sixth attempt at raising a family. All told she has laid nine eggs. Not once has she brought a chick to maturity. If she can pull it off this time, a new era may dawn for the whooper.

In America today there are only 25 other whooping cranes — one captive in the San Antonio zoo, 23 that should now be at their summer home in the Great Slave Lake region of Canada, and one that has lagged behind in the flock's winter quarter, the Arkansas refuge on the coast of Texas.

Intensive efforts to preserve the cranes have been made since 1938. It was not until last fall, however, that John Lynch of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service proposed that a mate be found for the San Antonio zoo bird, captured in Texas a few months previously. Although the problem is complicated by the fact that nobody knows for sure whether the captive is male or female, Lynch has received considerable support.

On the other hand, some members of the whooper council, an advisory group of scientists, have cautioned against captures, and a spokesman for the National Audubon Society in New York asserts:

"We feel strongly there should be no capturing of wild birds. The 66 per cent loss to gunners in years past has been cut considerably, so if we can protect the birds while migrating the wild flock has a good chance of gradually increasing."

A divergent view is taken in Washington by the Fish and Wild Life Service's Dr. Frederick C. Lincoln, one of the nation's foremost ornithologists. Saying that Canadians are generally behind such a project, he adds:

"Its advisability depends to some extent on the success of Jo and Crip, but I think it is worth taking a chance on anyway."

A decision will have to be made eventually by Dr. H. Janzen, director of sports fishing and wild life. All three present captives are cripples.

The whoopers have always had more attention than warranted by numbers, because of their bugle like calls that could be heard for miles across the plains, and because ot their spectacular appearance. Standing nearly five feet tall, they have red tops, snow white bodies and jet wing tips.

Even at their best in historic times, they probably never numbered more than 1,400, but their margin of safety now is so thin that there is not telling what will happen. They have diminished not only because of their prominence but because the wet grasslands that they love have disappeared.

By 1920 there were about 50 birds left, wintering in Louisiana and Texas. Later the Louisiana flock was wiped out. By 1941 only 21 of the birds were known to exist. Since then there has been a peak of 34, as the numbers have fluctuated from year to year.

Every fall the Texas flock flies to the Aransas refuge from its hidden haunts in Canada. These breeding grounds actually were unknown until 1952 when an aerial search finally located birds in the Great Slave region.

Jo moved into the propogation picture in 1949. A captive in Louisiana for eight years, she was loaned to the Aransas refuge as a mate to Pete, captured 13 years before in Nebraska.

In a fenced, 150-acre hideaway, under nearly natural conditions, they went right to work and laid two eggs. But the union was too late. The eggs proved infertile and the old birds smashed them. Pete died that same year, presumably of old age.

Then Crip was captured and introduced to Jo. The very next year they hatched a youngster dubbed Rusty. It disappeared in four days, probably the prey of some animal.

Thes following spring Jo tried again but a high tide flooded the next.

Thereupon the people at the Audubon Park zoo demanded the return of Jo. They persuaded the fish and game authorities to order her back to New Orleans, along with her new mate, for breeding attempts in a smaller enclosure. Amid moans from Texas naturalists, the transfer was made.

In 1952 the birds went into their high bounding, wing flopping nuptial dance but nothing happened. Three years later Joe laid an egg but got excited by a man outside the enclosure and stepped on it.

Last year two eggs were hatched. One chick, seized by an owl or rat, disappeared two days later. The second died of a fungus disease after 45 days, the longest lived whooping crane hatched in captivity.

During Easter week this year, Jo and Crip brought forth two more eggs, described by zoo director George Douglass as the most precious Easter eggs in the world. After May 17, shell picking should begin, signalling a struggle for life by two more whoopers. The Fish and Wild Service is sending an aviculture expert, George Scott of the Brooklyn Zoological Society, to New Orleans to help out.

Generous Donors Help Build Museum In Monroe

By DORIS TYNES

Some of the nicest people in the world live right here in north Louisiana. Members of the museum committee of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society are convinced of that, for we have been meeting them day in and day out as we visit in their homes collecting the relics which they wish to loan or donate to the museum.

Just to prove our point, we might mention Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith of Monroe who, just this week made us feel that southern hospitality and generosity is the best to be found anywhere. Mr. Smith, who served his country in the First World War, has loaned a copy of the "Soldier's Memorial" which lists members of company D, first regiment of the Louisiana infantry (National Guard), all from the Monroe - West Monroe area. The Smiths were kind enough to go to the trouble and expense of framing this memorial, before turning it over to us. This company was calle dnito service by the president of the United States March 31, mobilized at Camp Nicholls New Orleans, La. on April 10th, then mustered into the United States service April 18th, in the year 1917.

To prove further how nice our own people are, whenever we have asked for particular items which we would like to put on display, someone has always responed with the very item or items we needed. To mention a few, we recall our request last year for a coffee mill, and Mrs. Hazel Landerneau of Caldwell parish supplied us with one. At the same time we were wishing for Confederate money (which by the way we still do not have enough of) and Mrs. Landerneau was kind enough to let us have a ten - dollar bill plus some other old money which we have already told you about. When we asked for a side - saddle, A. D. Brown of West Monroe loaned one which had belonged to his mother. Isn't this proof enough that we Louisianans are pretty nice people!

Just recently we mentioned our urge for a fluting iron. This request has been answered this past week by Mrs. Paul Smith of West Monroe who has loaned one of the most unusual fluting irons ever seen. It is so constructed that it may serve as either a flat iron for ordinary ironing, or as a fluting iron for dressing up those full petticoats or crisp white curtains.

This kindness and generosity has prompted us to ask for other specific contributions. For instance, Mrs. Katherine Strong of Monroe has loaned a butter paddle, but we do not have the butter-mold or the churn and dasher as yet. Mrs. Lewis Slater has contributed an old rolling pin, estimated to be about 150 or 200 years old but no one has come through with a wooden dough - bowl. To go with the black lace and satin dresses loaned by Mrs. E. H. Miller and Mrs. E. T. Nichols of Monroe, we need the high-buttoned shoes worn by the ladies of that period. You may remember we already have a pearl handled button hook loaned by Paul Hodges. We even feel venturesome enough to ask for a cap to go with the Spanish - American War coat loaned by Mrs. Alma P. McKee of West Monroe.

In conclusion may we again express our appreciation for the cooperative spirit of our people, and request that if you have anything you would like to either loan or donate to the museum that you call Mrs. R. N. Milling, FA 3-2481 or Mrs. Travis Tynes, FA 2-6476. And to those who haven't had their items picked up as yet, we're working as fast as we can, and hope to catch up this next week. Don't give up hope; we'll see you real soon. And for now, just keep those telephones ringing!

Monroe Woman Knew Secret Of Mamie's Turban

Congressional wives presented Mrs. Eisenhower a new white silk organza hat in Washington the other day — and 'way down here in Monroe, Mrs. George Pappas, of Hotel Frances, was "thrilled to pieces."

How come Mrs. Pappas was so stirred - up about the First Lady's new millinery? There's reason a-plenty.

For one thing, she had been in on a three - month - old secret, and was at the point of "popping" to let it out. Another thing was that the hat, with two white doves sweeping down the right side to symbolize "Peace on Earth," was designed by her "very special" friend, Mrs. Chryse Demetry, of Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Pappas, who, with her husband, came to Monroe last year from Atlanta, said Mrs. Demetry had been asked to design the hat by Mrs. James C. Davis, the wife of Georgia's Fifth district congressman.

Mrs. Demetry, who makes custom hats at her home, wrote Mrs. Pappas she had been informed by Mrs. Davis, by telephone, that when the presentation was made, the President's Lady promptly took off her own red hat and replaced it with the new profile-draped turban. This gesture, Mrs. Pappas was told, drew loud applause from the more than 600 women who gathered for the traditional Congressional Club spring "breakfast" in honor of the wife of the President.

Besides the acknowledged fact that women go a bit "overboard" about hats, anyway, another reason for Mrs. Pappas' thrill: She and the First Lady have the same birthdate, in the same year.

What year? If you care to know, you're welcome to go and look it up. Mrs. Pappas, naturally, didn't say; and "politeness," for once, caused the reporter to refrain from asking.

Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where the 500 - mile race is held on Memorial Day is a 2 and one-half mile paved oval. It also contains a golf course.

PROBLEMS BESET INDUSTRY

Salesmanship Takes Over To Fight Home-Buyer Resistance

By ROBERT F. COLL

WASHINGTON, May 11 (UP)—The home building industry, caught between the credit shortage and rising construction costs, is setting out as never before to woo the prospective buyer.

With the majority of new construction in the $15,000-plus category, builders are faced with mounting resistance from the buyer. During World War II and the post-war period of housing shortages the builders were in much the same position as the automobile salesmen. They were primarily order takers who could afford to let the buyer come to them.

But in recent years, particularly since the "tight money" pinch on mortgages, contractors have opened up a whole new bag of salesmanship gimmicks to attract the buyer.

"Looker" of Today

The buyer of yesterday is the "looker" of today. So the builder must open up his sales campaign the moment the prospective owner turns down the street.

The industry is urging its members to start selling with what it calls "curb appeal." This is an attractive landscape. Once over that hurdle, many builders furnish some sample houses — perhaps with a different decor in each. To this end an increasing number of contractors have hired interior decorators to bring out the most in their houses.

Some builders admit ruefully that this may have gone too far. Many of the weekend hordes of "lookers" are merely shopping around for the latest decorating ideas.

Increasing Importance

In the campaign to sell, two areas have gained increasing importance—the kitchen and the bathroom.

Buyers generally want more than one bath in the modern home. And kitchens, after a half-century in eclipse, once more have become a center for living in the home.

Gone is the cramped breakfast nook. In its place is the "breakfast bar." Kitchens also are bigger, with a whole array of work-saving equipment.

The builders also are trying to make the buyers happy by eliminating post-sale complaints. They have warned contractors that probably the strongest force at work is word-of-mouth advertising. An unhappy buyer airs his gripes to his friends.

A sign of the industry's desire to meet the wants of the public is the close attention paid to some suggestions made by women who attended the Congress on housing here last year. Many of the features the women wanted already have been incorporated in new homts.

"You never saw such determination as he has though. He feels that if he ever regains his strength even without his eyesight, he will return to revival work," Scott continued.

Revealing the deep faith which Mason possesses, Scott stated that the minister has found it hard to understand why he has had to bear so many afflictions, but feels that "there's bound to be a reason known by God, and he wants to continue to devote the rest of his life to the Lord's work."

Mason will celebrate his birthday with his daughter, Miss Mary Ella Mason, an 18-year-old junior at Louisiana Tech at Ruston. She is majoring in Business Administration.

New Defense Alignment

Observers here said that Iraq, a member of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact, and Saudi Arabia, which subscribes to the Eisenhower Doctrine, might forge a new defense alignment against communism which indirectly would be opposed to the leftist brand of Arab neutrality fostered by Egypt and Syria.

But a spokesman for King Saud said at the airport while Saudi jet fighters passed overhead in formations and welcoming cannons boomed that Saud has "but one purpose and that is to gather all Arabs into one untiy."

Saud, after the greetings, began talking immediately to Iraqi Premier Es Said, a staunch friend of the West.

In Damascus Saturday, Syria switched from emphasis on Jordan to the Israeli issue which unites all Arab states.

It protested to the United Nations Armistice Commission that Israeli troops were building a bridge in the demilitarized frontier zone across the southern end of Lake Huleh.

Suspect Is Held In Assault Case

Monroe police arrested Robert Lee Jenkins, 22 - year - old Negro, at noon yesterday and booked him on a charge of aggravated rape against a 10-year-old Negro girl. Officers said that Jenkins has admitted the offense, which allegedly occurred shortly before 11 p.m. Friday night.

Jenkins, who has no permanent address, spent the night at the home of a Negro family whom he had known for many years. All members of the family, except the child, were away from home when Jenkins arrived, and he allegedly promised the girl money not to tell her mother what had happened, officers said.

The man claims to have been intoxicated at the time, officers said. Coroner J. T. French said that the child was badly injured, according to police reports.

Jenkins was placed in the Ouachita parish jail.

J.M. Doyle of Ferriday has been named Project Engineer, according to Hill.

Two Women Die In Auto Wreck

NEW ROADS, La., May 11 (AP)—Two Prairieville women, Mrs. Julia McCrory, 54, and Mrs. Winnie Johnson Martin, 62, were killed today when their car and a truck collided about six miles west here.

State trooper Levin Walker said the truck was driven by Jeffrey Anderson, 29, Ventress, who received apparently minor hurts.

Walker quoted a witness as saying the car occupied by the women left the highway, skided on the shoulder and came back directly into the path of the truck.

Youth Drowns In Jump From Boat

MARKSVILLE, La., May 11 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Maxie Cortez of nearby Mansura drowned in a bayou about five miles east of here today when he sank into a deep hole.

The victim was the son of Mrs. Buvens Prevot.

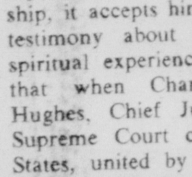
BAPTISTS BELIEVE...

BELIEVERS HAVE EQUAL PRIVILEGES IN THE CHURCH

There is no debate over woman's suffrage or legal age limits within a Baptist church. There is no dispute over the balance of power between ministers and laymen. These matters are settled because of what the New Testament teaches on the place of the individual believer.

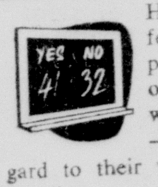
Why? Because all believers, regardless of age, sex, or occupation, are equal in privileges in a true New Testament Church, in which "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus" (Galatians 3:28).

When a Baptist church accepts someone into its membership, it accepts him on his own testimony about his personal, spiritual experience. It is said that when Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, united by letter with a Baptist church, a Chinese laundryman also joined the church.



Every person becomes a church member by vote of all the members present. A Baptist church transacts all its business in this same democratic manner.

Every member has an equal opportunity to serve according to his willingness and ability. The primary question is "Who then is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the Lord?" (1 Chronicles 29:5). The teacher of a men's Sunday school class who had been elected by the church, was a clerk in a store. He taught business men of ability and means, college professors, and men from various walks of life.



His church offered similar opportunities to others who were willing and able—and without regard to their wealth or social standing.

The equality of individual believers in a Baptist church makes each person important. The church assumes responsibility for instructing, training and enlisting in service every member from the youngest to the oldest.

Because a Baptist church grants to every member the same rights and privileges, it provides all members with Bible teaching. It trains them in church membership and keeps them informed about missions. It encourages them to give liberally of their money and time to Christian activities. It instructs them in the way of righteousness and social and civic duties.

Many Baptist churches are far ahead of their communities in meeting the needs of youth. Baptists also make adequate provision for older people and for babies in their Sunday schools and other church services.

Baptist churches take seriously their responsibility for training each and every member. The activities of their several organizations—the Sunday school, the Training Union, the men's Brotherhood, the Woman's Missionary Union—prove this.

Central Texas Areas Isolated

Public Safety said that a woman and a man were clinging to a tree near Lorena. It said two Highway Patrolmen tried to rescue the pair in a boat but the boat overturned and left Patrolman Robert A. Knowles hanging to a stop sign. The other patrolman, John Dendy, managed to climb the tree.

Bell said the heaviest rain in the area was at Moody, 30 miles south of Waco, which had 6.81 inches and heavy rains were still falling there.

He said at least one road between Moody and McGregor was under water.

Cars Stalled

United Press correspondent Harry Gaines said five inches of rain fell at Eddy, between Temple and Waco, stalling 102 automobiles or forced them off the highway.

Highway Patrol Capth. Sam Gardner issued the appeal for boats. It was reported that residents at Golinda, a town of between 100 and 150 people were marooned. Fears were also raised for residents of the little town of Troy.

The weather bureau issued its 125th severe weather forecast for the year today, warning of the possibility of tornadoes. One tornado did hit near Channing, in the northwest corner of the Texas Panhandle, knocking down power lines.

According to United Press count, Mrs. Miller was the 22nd person to die—most of them by drowning—in the series of cloudbursts, tornadoes and floods that have swept Texas.

Red River Spreads

Old floods, created by earlier rains, bulged the levees of Red River between Campti and Clarence, in northwestern Louisiana, and spread over thousands of acres along the mouths of the Brazos and Trinity Rivers in South Texas.

Sheriff Earl Morris said at Natchitoches, La., that the levees of Red River were still holding at critical points and that if they can last for a day or two until the river starts to recede, the business section of Clarence will escape flooding.

The business section of Clarence, a town of about 400 persons, is on higher ground than the residential area, where backwater lies up to 15 feet deep. Backwater has made a lake of many square miles of rich lowland in northwest Louisiana.

Lowland Flooding

In Texas, river forecasters warned of lowland flooding along the Middle Colorado River, which is in West Texas, from the town of Ballinger to Lake Buchanan, north of Austin. The distance from Ballinger to the lake is 100 air miles, but probably twice that along the windings of the river.

The Pecos and Devil's Rivers in Southwest Texas rose swiftly between their canyon walls, discharging a flood into the Rio Grande, which was expected to wash over approaches to the international bridge at Del Rio, breaking the road link between the United States and Mexico at that point.

The Middle and South Concho Rivers rose in the San Angelo area of West Texas, threatening a repetition of a flood Thursday that forced helicopters to rescue flood victims from their rooftops in the San Angelo-Christoval area.

Ready Evacuation

The Civil Defense organization at San Angelo stationed emergency crews at strategic points to begin helping out flood victims, if they are endangered again. The Middle and South Concho converge in San Angelo at the municipal waterworks.

Up to seven inches of rain fell at Langry, near Del Rio, where Judge Roy Bean in the old days of the West administered "law West of the Pecos" from the front porch of his saloon and general store.

Hail as big as baseballs hit Langtry, knocking out lines to its three telephones. Comstock, 30 miles from Del Rio, reported 3.65 inches of rain. Del Rio itself had 3.65 inches.

The rain washed out a hole 30 feet deep under 78 feet of the Southern Pacific Railroad's tracks above Del Rio. The Sunset Limited train from California and the Argonaut, bound west to California from Houston had to stop on opposite sides of the washout.

Trains Trade Passengers

None of the passengers was endangered. They traded trains to continue their trips, while emergency crews were rushed in to repair the break.

Mrs. Miller and five friends were bound back to San Antonio from Ciudad Acune, across the river in Mexico, when a wall of water rushed across U. S. 90.

It washed the automobile into a flooded borrow pit. The other five women clung to the doors of the automobile and were saved, but Mrs. Miller was washed away.

Two of the women were hospitalized at Laughlin Air Force Base near Del Rio for shock. Four other persons swept from the road in an automobile also were reported rescued in the same area.

ers exactly half the 51 million pay raise they hoped for in the new fiscal year starting July 1.

The budget for teachers pay simply carries forward the temporary 16 million salary boost Long granted from surplus money this year, but raising the amount to nearly 27 million for retirement expenses and the load of new teachers.

Long said the general appropriations measure, earmarking state operating expenses for the new fiscal year, is the entire administration offering. Revenue Collector James S. Reily, his top fiscal officer, cautioned any attempt to rehash the budget would stir a financial crisis.

The tough budget is regarded by some legislators as a possible buildup for a tax increasing special session. Long has said he won't oppose such a session if lawmakers find enough tax votes to act. It takes a two-thirds majority vote to pass taxes, though, and the administration has found that a stark barrier.

But the governor says he doubts there will be a special session, indicating he doubts the two-thirds vote can be constructed in the face of growing public reaction against new taxes.

Education sources, asking not to be identified by name, predicted floor amendments would be sought giving teachers their full salary schedule. But the administration will fight.

The Louisiana Teachers Assn. said it will seek a special session if necessary to gain the full 51 million. But a special session couldn't be convened until at least 30 days after this Legislature.

Rep. Horace Lynn Jones, Calcasieu Parish, who sponsored an unsuccessful gas gathering tax raise for teachers pay last year, said while he favors putting educational needs first, "if the administration has reached the bottom of the bucket — then that's the way it will have to be.

"Gov. Long always has been fair to the teachers," he said, "In 1948 they got their first minimum teachers salary schedule under his administration."

The administration, whipped in 1956 tax raising efforts, this time is playing as its theme song, 'that's all there is, there ain't no more.'"

Long opposes these odd-year fiscal legislatures, first tried in 1955, branding them an open gate to heavier spending. The new budget is up 30 million over current spending.

Long will try to knock out the fiscal sessions again in 1958, after the people rejected his first attempt last year.

A freshet of special appropriations bills is expected, but House Speaker Robert Angelle has labeled them primarily a shot for benefit of constituents.

The people of Louisiana, shocked at the personal behavior of Gov. Long in the 1956 session, when he stomped up and down House aisles, cursing lawmakers who opposed him, are in for a surprise.

There is a new Long, they will find, a new personality, but the same old political general. Last year, he frequented both chambers in open collared formality, brandishing a red bandana handkerchief looking like an extra in a calypso jamboree.

Long seems to be striving to still his old firebreathing ways. State officials report he is the soul of politeness. Reporters are aware of the new Long. Once he treated them with indifference. Now he serves coffee and strawberry shortcake in news conferences, although he remains aloof from individual calls. And Long never appears in public unless attired with the conservatism of a banker.

Students End Year Of DE Work, Study

Twenty-eight students at Ouachita High are concluding a year of study and on-the-job training in the distributive education course, with a total of 23,735 hours of working experience gained.

In the cooperative training program, students have attended school during the mornings, and received instructions in proper sales techniques, advertising, display and business principles. During the afternoons, practical experience has resulted in better trained business people in the field of distribution.

While receiving high school credit, these students have also earned $14,705 and have taken a responsible place as consumers of goods, tax payers, and supporters of church and charitable work.

The student "D.E." club has assisted in community and charitable drives, sponsored school social and civic activities and has been active in state and national club activities according to H. E. Ruppert, coordinator of distributive education at the high school.

Students who have participated in the program are: A. M. NEW!

for women in "MIDDLE LIFE"

Wrinkles—Age Spots—Weathered Blemishes
—Frayed Nerves—Weariness—
Give way to new youthfulness

Now women in "Middle Life" can look younger, feel younger, act younger thanks to a new two-pronged attack on the body's aging process called "Integrated Therapy." The first such treatment of its kind, "I. T.", as it is called, acts to hold back the heart-breaking effects of getting old—fades age spots, acts on wrinkles and crow's feet, revives and enlivens the skin tissues, and erases surface blemishes caused by weather and neglect. Even weathered brown spots fade. At the same time it helps internal glands stay active, adds energy, vivacity, helps the "joy of living" to return.

What Is "Integrated Therapy?"

Integrated Therapy is a brand new combination of an approved internal "booster" capsulate and an effective external application. It is the development of a trustworthy 36-year-old laboratory. The capsules, taken one each day, are loaded with non-fattening vitamins, minerals and other medically improved tonic ingredients especially recommended for aging people. The ointment provides the maximum daily allotment of female hormones to the skin, effectively counteracts the skin darkness and dry, spotted look of middle aged women.

Why I. T. Was Created

I. T. was specially created because youthful beauty begins to fade, women grow nervous, irritable, feel frustrated and useless as "middle life" approaches. Since the symptoms show up externally in wrinkled skin, the sagging throat line and spotted, darkened hands, as well as internally in frayed nerves and lowered glandular function—both external and internal corrective measures are used to provide what has never before been offered—an integrated plan for reviving youthfulness—thus Integrated Therapy.

When to Expect Results

In just 10 days you should see and feel results, as skin takes on a new tone, wrinkles grow dimmer, skin is softer, smoother—you begin to look and feel younger. After 30 days your outward appearance and internal feeling of well being will amaze you, your family and friends. You should begin to enjoy a new participation in all the pleasures of youthful living you thought were lost forever.

Special Introductory Price

To try INTEGRATED THERAPY, take advantage of this unusual offer: The two components of this new therapy are priced at 3.50 each—or 7.00 for both. During this introductory period, you can purchase both units for only 6.00—a savings of 1.00. The two units will give you a 30-day supply of both the external preparation and the internal "booster" therapy. In just 10 days you should look younger, feel younger, even act younger. At the end of the 30 days, you can be thrilled at the transformation in your appearance—wrinkles going or gone, dark areas or spots lightened, skin dryness conquered—at the new lightness in your step, the new brightness in your eyes, the return of confidence and joy of living. Start following Integrated Therapy today. Look younger—feel younger—act younger.

Scholarships Are Awarded To Four Crossett Youths

CROSSETT, Ark — Winners of the fourth annual competition for Crossett Company sponsored college scholarship were announced yesterday.

Winners named by Crossett Company President P. F. Watzek are: Edward Emory Locke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Locke; Martha Juliette Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sims; Sidney Ervin Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Johnson; and Emogene Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wallace. The first three winners are seniors at Crossett High School and the fourth is a senior at T. W. Daniel School.

Twelve Crossett students are now attending college with the assistance of Crossett Company Scholarships.

The Crossett Company's Scholarship Program provides four grants each year — three to Crossett High School and one to T. W. Daniel School. Selection of the winners is made for The Crossett Company by an impartial board from students who rank scholastically in the upper one-third of the senior classes of the two schools and are qualified to enter college upon graduation. The selection is made on the basis of scholastic aptitude as demonstrated by progress in school, potential for growth, character and financial need.

The scholarships pay tuition and fees up to $700 and provide each student with two-thirds of the average living expenses up to $500 each year. While scholarships are usually granted to the University of Arkansas and to Agricultural Mechanical and Normal College at Pine Bluff, a student may receive approval of the Scholarship Board to attend an out-of-state school.

Members of The Crossett Company's Scholarship Board are: James Scott, Assistant Dean of men, The University of Arkansas; Dr. Lawrence A. Davis, president, A.M. & N. College; T. W. Stone, president, Arkansas National Bank Hot Springs; and J. G. Williamson, attorney, Rose, Meek, House, Barron and Nash, Little Rock. R. P. Meredith, personnel director of The Crossett Company, serves as a non-voting secretary of the Board.

Winnfield Hi To See Exhibit

WINNFIELD — Winnfield High School students will have the opportunity of getting acquainted with the wonders of our present age at a special assembly program Tuesday. Featured on the program will be "This Atomic World," a traveling atomic-energy exhibit of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The exhibit will be sent to Winnfield from the Museum Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, which manages the exhibit, as well as the American Museum of Atomic Energy in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, for the Commission.

"This Atomic World" is one of several traveling exhibits which the Commission has made available to towns and cities all over the United States. It is designed to meet the needs of principals, science teachers, and civic leaders in stimulating a deeper interest in the peacetime uses of atomic energy.

In Tuesday's program, a staff member of the Museum Division will take the audience on an excursion into the atomic age. Utilizing exhibits and demonstration equipment, the demonstrator will explain in simple language the fundamentals of atomic energy and how it compares with other types of energy; how atomic energy is released through radiation and fission; and how atomic energy is used in agriculture, medicine, industry, and other fields.

Illustrative charts, panels, models, and equipment will play important roles in the demonstration. One of the outstanding attractions of "The Atomic World" will be a demonstration model of the Van de Graaff electrostatic generator. This device, which generates 250,000 volts of static electricity, will be used to explain how large models are used in physics laboratories to study atomic structure.

START HONOR STUDENTS—Miss Greta Jo Senn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Senn, has been named valedictorian of the graduating class, having an overall four-year average of 3.73. Running a close race with a 3.59 average was Miss Patricia Ann Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Fuller.

All Life Permeated By Thought Of Mother

Heavily permeating all life is the mother idea. Man calls them Mother Nature and Mother Earth, and many peoples prefer to designate their native haunts the motherland.

Mother love is idealized as one of the greatest forces in human relationships, as indeed it is. Many a good mother has, by the strength of her love, overcome the handicaps of environment and outrageous fortune to shape a child's life for success and happiness.

This is the ideal of motherhood and challenges mothers to live up to it. Just as Mother Nature, Mother Earth and the mother country are frequently appalling in their cruelty to the children in their spheres, so the individual mother, sometimes unwittingly but oftener selfishly, can twist and warp a child so that his real capabilities are never attained.

Motherhood is a privilege, but it is also a great responsibility. The life that is born is largely in her keeping during the formative years. If she fails, a life may fail of achieving all that it might.

A Roman mother, in the company of a gaudy woman boastful of her rich possessions, finally displayed her two sons, saying proudly: "These are my jewels." That is the essence of good motherhood—self-forgetfulness and concentration on the life of the child.

Thrice blessed is the child who has a good mother. He who has not starts out with one of life's severest handicaps.

Meeting Viewed As Travesty On Religion

The proceedings of the Conference on Christian Faith and Human Relations held at Scarritt College in Nashville, Tenn., last week—the first southwide, interracial, interdenominational meeting on race relations since the Supreme Court decision—were degrading to both races.

The meeting was attended by some 300 persons, designated by the newspapers as "church leaders", but they certainly in no way represented the great body of church laymen in their attitude and in their thinking toward race relations; in fact, the group apparently contained no churchmen of any particular prominence.

However, the meeting received a great deal of publicity and, supposedly representing the viewpoint of the church on the subject of integration, perhaps made some impression on those who do not do their own thinking. Actually, the whole meeting was as bad in its way as is a meeting of Ku Klux Klanners in their way, perhaps worse, because rabble-rousing in the name of religion is even more to be condemned that rabble-rousing in the name of patriotism.

And this was a rabble-rousing meeting. It was completely integrated and it stood for complete integration. It contemplated with scorn, derision, sarcasm and satire all those who are not for complete and immediate integration. No moderate approach for them. You are not a Christian if you do not believe in integration. You do not believe in democracy if you do not believe in integration. You are not a law-abiding citizen if you do not believe in integration. You are just not fit to associate with high-minded, decent people if you do not believe in integration. Thus it went.

Who are they to tell us these things? It would seem to be time the lie were applied to all such assertions, whether made by so-called churchmen or not. Too many of us have perhaps been afraid to take issue with these people simply because they are engaged in church work, assuming that they must therefore represent the viewpoint of religion and the teachings of Jesus Christ. Such is not necessarily the case at all. We know of many sincere laymen in the Church and of many other church leaders who do not agree with them in their views at all whom we consider much more religious and much more representative of the real teachings of Jesus than these people apparently ever will be.

"If democracy cannot work in the United States," said a Negro college president addressing the meeting, "I am quite convinced that it cannot work anywhere."

In the first place, of course, we do not live in a democracy and it was never intended by our forefathers that we should. They founded for us a constitutional republican form of government, and if we ever lose it, we shall very quickly lose the way of life under which we have grown and prospered.

If the speaker was referring to democratic principles, that has nothing to do with the question. Any sincere, conscientious person believes in equal opportunities and equal justice under the law for people of all races, but that has never meant, does not mean and never will mean integration. There is something wrong with a person who has no pride of race. One who has pride of race does not want integration—and that applies to all races alike.

A white Episcopal seminary professor told the meeting that we must choose between Jesus Christ and Jim Crow. It is to be inferred from this that all those who have chosen segregation in the past and who choose it now are condemned to perdition. The white dean of a Methodist school of theology said he was not worried about inter-marriage because he respected his daughter's judgement. At least this speaker must be given credit for recognizing that his daughter must use good judgment in not marrying a Negro, but where he falls down miserably is that he does not realize he must also use good judgment in protecting his daughter from this possibility. Little children should have the protection of their parents until they have good judgment of their own.

Forced integration is bad for both races, the Supreme Court, these so-called church leaders and anyone else to the contrary notwithstanding.

Those comprising the 7 or 8 per cent which never has an opinion about anything may be in the most comfortable position today.

History would be most obliging by repeating some of those eras of peace and plenty.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Rep. Mahon May Be Able To Do Most To Bring About Cut In U. S. Budget

The member of Congress who can do more about cutting the budget than any other is likely to be Representative George H. Mahon (Dem. - Tex.) who presides over the subcommittee on Department of Defense appropriations, and accordingly has about the toughest task of anybody in cutting government expenditures.

It is an old saying in Congress that nobody can plead louder nor more effectively for government funds that the heads of the armed services. There is also a suspicion, even in a time when national defense is more important than ever before, that no branch of the government is more wasteful.

Mahon has the support of another Texan in his declaration that the defense budget should be cut. Former Vice President John Nance Garner, now 88, interviewed not long ago said: "There is one defect that any soldier has: they have no regard for money. They're taught that way at West Point and Annapolis. They're never taught any economy; they're taught to do something, forget about the cost . . . So they never consider the cost of it. It never has entered their minds . . ."

Money is not the only answer to military problems, says Mahon, asserting that the yearly jump in defense appropriations, if continued as the Eisenhower administration requests, will rise to 50 billion dollars within a few years. The budget proposal this year is 38 billions, compared with 35½ billions two years ago.

"We should be able to buy a reasonably satisfactory defense for about 35 billions," Mahon asserted. "All the defense we can't buy for 35 billions we would do without. I think we would come nearer to getting our money's worth."

He blames President Eisenhower for not knocking heads together to force "real unification" of the armed forces. Rivalry among the services, especially between the Army and the Air Force over control of guided missiles has become "unwholesome and very wasteful," he says, and the Navy in turn fights to preserve the aircraft carrier's mission as a strategic offensive weapon.

"The contest between the three services is a fierce one, with each looking on the others as enemies in their long range planning. Each feels the other is threatening its place in the sun. If we had them working on the same team, maybe a satisfactory solution could be found."

Mahon also hit at Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, during the latter's testimony before the subcommittee, telling him that two of the Assistant Secretaries for Defense, held conflicting views on guided missile development and were responsible for a vast area of duplication in that defense field. They are Dr. C. C. Furnas, chancellor of the University of Buffalo, who is Assistant Secretary of Defense in charge of Research and Development and Frank D. Newberry, who is assistant secretary for defense in charge of engineering.

"Each believes the other's office should be eliminated or greatly increased in scope and that until that is done, duplication will continue to exist," said Mahon, quoting from a report by a committee studying the missile program.

He added that a special hearing will be held on the whole missile development situation which will not necessarily retard progress in missile development, but may be of much assistance in eliminating the duplication of expenditure between the Air Force and the Army.

That is only one detail of the defense expenditure program which the President and Secretary Wilson say cannot be cut, and may have to be increased. Mahon does not believe that the defense program can be slashed with a meat axe, which might impede the progress of the defense program for years to come.

The example demonstrates however, how the billions roll out when not only the armed services but civilian defense officials start fighting among themselves over who shall have jurisdiction over what weapon, and the taxpayers must foot the bill.

McCarthy, In Last Few Years, Left By Many Friends And Often Snubbed

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Senator Joe McCarthy, to lift two poignant lines from John Masefield, was a

"Tragical man! by strange winds blown
To live in crowds, ere he die alone."

You seldom saw McCarthy when he wasn't in the midst of a throng, or being followed wherever he went by the footsteps or gazes of the curious. Yet in the last several years of his life he was singularly lonely, deserted by many friends and snubbed by the self-righteous.

Some men play their tragic roles with long faces, but there is something particularly heroic about the man who masks his grief with the brave front of laughter and feigned tough - hidedness. This is what McCarthy did. He referred joakingly to "B. C." (before his censure by the senate in 1954), but the facetiousness and seeming callousness were skin - deep.

The snubs and insults, the pitiful shipwreck of an up - from-poverty career, were painful to his proud and sensitive heart. They were not painful enough to make him quit, for he was the sort of fighter who would charge into a meat grinder and never give ground. A man with anything less than McCarthy's complete courage of conviction and with less than his total disregard for personal advantage would have been an early deserter from the battle against communism. Back in 1950, McCarthy, from inexperience, made a few unimportant but vulnerable mistakes in his speech at Wheeling. His enemies never let him recover.

No man has ever died unexpectedly, I suppose, without leaving behind him friends who wished they had been kinder. The human inability to communicate our inmost feelings, added to the ruthless laws of mortality, are things that often leave us mute and unsympathetic until it is too late. Death has slammed the door!

I feel that way a little about Joe McCarthy. The last time I saw him we passed each other in the doorway of a senate office building elevator, and he said, "Hello, stranger." It was a gentle rebuke for my not having been to see him lately. Shortly afterwards we exchanged notes about a column in which I had made the banal distinction between his "methods" and "purposes" in cross - questioning Justice Brennan. I told Joe I was sorry that I had to be fault - finding when I approved of what he was doing. He thanked me for the approval and brushed off the criticism.

There is a well - understood code of integrity between those in public office and those of us who report their doings. McCarthy, much more so than a couple of pompous fools in the senate whom I could name, always understood and respected his code. He knew that sometimes a reporter has to tell a truth that is hurtful to a friend.

McCarthy was not much of a senator when it came to keeping regular attendance and studying the details of general legislation. He specialized in matters that concerned the country in a large way. This gave him an outlook on public life which I can best illustrate by something he said last summer. I was mildly urging him to get behind the Eisenhower - Nixon ticket, but he said:

"My candidate is Symington. I know he's a Democrat and I'm a Republican, and during the Army-McCarthy hearings I called him Sanctimonious Stu. But I think Symington understands the Communist menace and I know he's a good American."

People who should have known better sneered at McCarthy's "superpatriotism," but that's the way he was. After the mix - up at Wheeling, when he used the expression "card - carrying 'Communists" instead of saying "persons who had Communist associations," he bore down and became, next to his friend J. Edgar Hoover, probably the best informed man in the country on Communist infiltration.

He saw Communist subversion in some of our trade and foreign policies. It was more important for him to bellow a warning than to keep in good standing with the White House, the GOP and the brainwashed American public.

But with all his sense of mission, McCarthy was the least self-important person in Washington. The man who as repeatedly impolite to presidents, secretaries of state and army generals was downright courtly to servants and as affectionate as a big, sad Newfoundland dog with children. When I first went to his home he introduced me to his Negro cook, as if it were the most natural thing in the world to do. In company, he was an anecdotist in several inimitable dialects. Once, as a practical joke, he telephoned Senator Karl Mundt in a heavy Scandinavian accent and impersonated a Mundt constituent with seven relatives who needed someplace to spend the night in Washington. Before adopting a little daughter last winter, he and his beautiful wife Jeannie hoped for a child of their marriage. I remember hearing McCarthy respectfully say to the parent of a large family:

"Let me touch you."

McCarthy's untimely death was unwittingly and ironically foretold at a reception which I attended in 1953 at the home of Senator Taft. It was there that a titled British lady observed Joe drinking a highball and said:

"I hope it's poison."

Well, the Communists, the left-wingers and their fellow - travelers did slip the hemlock of hatred into McCarthy's cup of life. They killed him.

Red China Is In Trouble Because Rice Supply Low

The honeymoon is over. The beautiful statistics which Communist planners projected on paper collapsed in act.

Peasants may suffer willingly during a crisis, but grow restive when there is no end to the crisis.

The revolution that promised to sell out the landlords and buy rice for everybody is running out of rice. Hunger is acute, desperate. Irritation runs high, revolt threatens.

Red China desperately needs to export food, raw materials and consumer items in order to secure needed industrial equipment.

There is not enough food to export. Even if the homefolks go hungry, there is not enough.

Food is their principal trading stock and Red China has no food to trade.

Peiping is hoisting the distress signal out in the open now.

Radio Peiping, admitting that millions of peasants will starve, blames 'floods." That is easily decoded.

Peiping admits that the body politic was sick even before these economic complications set in. That riots ha dto be put down in several southern provinces with mass executions.

It is nothing new for them to resort to desperate measures, but seldom do they advertise them.

The cost of living has soared. To lower their sights will cost the Communists 'face."

To tighten the screw further might incite revolution.

Either course is difficult and perilous. There is one other. Outside help.

Surely we will not help bail them out of their embarrassment.

Britain and others of our allies want to increase trade with Red China. "Nonstrategic items," they insist.

Anything that strengthens a militant nation is militarily strategic.

The United States is still refusing to lift our own embargoes. But there is less determination in our affirmation than formerly.

We will 'understand and accept" the desire of our allies to relax theirs.

Our excuse is that Red China, desperate, can only be driven to greater dependence on Russia.

Is that bad?

Ten billion dollars from Moscow would tide them over.

Russia is generous with promises, but what's needed here is cash.

There is real trouble in Red China.

na.

Enough of it to keep Moscow broke and busy and out of mischief for a long time if she tries to solve it.

Winnsboro, La.
Editor, Monroe Morning World:

In your paper of May 2, under a Wisner, Louisiana, date line, in an article which is supposed to be news you have divulged into a scandalous muck - racking attack upon the duly elected parish representative. This article does not contain one bit of news, but is a rehash of all the charges levied against Mr. Walter Chachere in the election of 1956; it is not only a feeble attempt to discredit Mr. Chachere but is also an attempt to criticise the voters of Franklin parish for their choice in the election of a parish representative, which is strictly a matter for the voters of this parish and is of no concern to you. You failed in this "news" article to state anything about the wherewith and whereallls and the cause for this attempt to recall Mr. A. J. Ensminger, the school board member for ward one. It would seem that you care nothing about enlightening the people of ward one regarding the facts, but rather you lash out in an effort to discredit a duly elected official of this parish, whose election was parish wide and not of a ward nature.

I do not personally know Mr. Ensminger, nor do I know all the facts connected in this matter, so therefore I am not able to judge. Anyway this is purely a matter for the voters of Ward one of Franklin parish to decide, but I do know that your attack upon Mr. Chachere was entirely unwarranted and uncalled for. You point with pride to his misfortunes "—"He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone--" (John 8.7) I fail to understand just what your motive in this smear attack can be. Can it be personal or is it that you are running true to form, that is opposing anything that is "Long"? It is recalled that the interests that control your publication is the same clique who always opposed any and all things connected with the Longs, for example free school books, free hospitals, good roads, free poll tax, tax exemptions, hot lunches and every thing else that is for the benefit of the masses.

The majority of the voters of Franklin parish chose Mr. Chachere to represent them in the state legislature. Let that majority be 85 or 1085, the fact still remains, Walter A. Chachere is the duly elected representative of all the people of this parish and not a chosen few. If he feels, after due consideration, that the majority of the people of ward one could better be served through the recall of Mr. Ensminger, then I for one admire his courage to speak this conviction. As for the scurrilous things mentioned in your article, all these facts are well known to every voter in Franklin parish, being thoroughly aired before the election of 1956, and the people, being the final judge on this earth, chose to vindicate Mr. Chachere. Yet you and the other "die-hards" refuse to accept the vindication. After this vindication you would do well to remember that old proverb "He who steal my purse, steal trash; but he who taketh from me my good name, stealeth not that which maketh him rich, but that which maketh me poor indeed."

Bastrop, La.
Editor, Morning World,

In the Morning World, Sunday May 5th, I saw the most fence straddling prevaricature that I have read, called "Sermon on Integration an Segregation." It is astonishing to note the weakkneed, tender - toed, and hesitant attitude that men who could be useful leaders assume. In this so-called sermon, the speaker attempts to defend and condemn both sides at the same time. Evidently he was playing for money, an was trying to win on both sides. It's obvious that if he offended either side, they would not chip in.

I am not a preacher. Being an Irishman, I guess that I am too rough - necked, and too outspoken ever to be a preacher. In making expressions if it becomes necessary to use a mule-driver's vocabulary, I just let it fly, but I have my own opinion about any man who will straddle the fence and then use the Holy Bible in trying to justify his position. I remember reading somewhere in the Bible this quotation, "Because thou art neither hot nor cold, I will spew thee out of my mouth, saith the Lord." It's no wonder that such people are nauseous, even to God.

In drawing the line of distinction between racial segregation and integration, the handiwork of God's creation should be considered, (not politics). In the beginning, God created the Heavens and the Earth, and all things that are therein. He created the various kinds of fish that are in the waters, He created the different kinds of birds that fly through the air, He created the different kinds of animals, the different races of people, and everything as it is, for the ornamentation of his Kingdom according to his own good will and pleasure. He separated the different kinds of everything for it's eternal perpetuation. Therefore, I contend that segregation of races not man - made discrimination, but is obedience to the manifest "will" of God. Integration of races is an infringement upon the handiwork of God, and a wilful violation of his "will."

No one but the vilest and most sinful men, filled with every qualification of the "devil's workshop," would want to mar the decoration of God's heavens. The doctrine of racial unity cannot be found in the Bible. The doctrine of unitarianism is opposed to and denies the existence of the Trinity and triune "God-head." Consult "Webster's Dictionary."

May I, through this medium, thank you from the entire delegation of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle for the very fine publicity you gave to our organization during the 22nd convention of the Louisiana jurisdiction.

Might I also express our pleasure of having your reporter, Mr. Sam Hanna, present. He was a very fine representative of your paper.

As ladies have their own sweet time about saying or doing things, Mr. Hanna was very cooperative and patient throughout the whole "ordeal."

Again may I extend to you our sincere thanks.

Sincerely and fraternally,

You may say what you will about racial integration or segregation, but I do not believe the time is ripe for such an issue to be forced on the people. I believe in law and order. I am a firm believer of democracy. What is democracy? Is it the practice of forcing controversial issues, such as racial integration, upon the people against their will? Should there not be limitations to man-made laws? Should the Supreme Court of the United States take away the sovereignty of the separate states?

I am a member of a Protestant church. When the leaders in that church denomination change the doctrine laid down by the founder, then I will leave that church denomination and join another. I will not be the only one either.

Jesus said, "Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit, but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit." St. Matt. 7:17. "Judge not, that ye be not judged." St. Matt. 7:1. "For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother." St. Mark 3:35.

Truth will triumph in the end. Search the scriptures and believe.

German Socialists Seek Ban On A-Bases In Nation

BONN, May 11 (AP)—The opposition Socialists yesterday asked the Bundestag to ban the stationing of atomic weapons in West Germany.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats and their allies presumably have enough Bundestag votes to defeat the Socialist motion.

But it could force the government parties to take a firm stand on an issue which has come increasingly to the fore in the developing campaign for the general election Sept. 15.

The Adenauer government last week supported its NATO partners in agreeing that the Atlantic Alliance must have the most modern weapons at its disposal. But Adenauer has expressed hope that atomic armament will be made unnecessary by an international agreement on controlled disarmament.

The Socialist motion asked the government:

1. To appeal to the United States, Russia and Britain to call off their nuclear weapon tests because of their "danger to humanity."

2. Not to equip the new West German armed forces with A-weapons.

3. To refuse consent for the storing of atomic weapons on West German territory.

Socialist Deputy Fritz Erler cited the warnings of philosopher Albert Schweitzer and 18 West German nuclear physicists on the dangers of the atomic arms race. He declared that further nuclear tests had no sense "because there are already enough bombs to destroy us all."

Monroe, Alex Pastors To Be Feted May 21

PINEVILLE, (Special) — More than a half-century of service has been devoted to Baptist churches in Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, and Illinois by the two ministers on whom Louisiana College will confer honorary doctor of divinity degrees at its 51st annual convocation May 21.

Dr. G. Earl Guinn, L.C. president, announced this week that these two are Troy Val Wheeler, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Alexandria for the past six years, and Jaroy Weber, pastor of the First Baptist church of West Monroe for the last eight years.

Rev. Wheeler has been preaching in Louisiana, Arkansas, and Illinois for 30 years, while Rev. Weber's ministerial career in Texas and the Pelican State has extended for 21 years.

In addition, this pair has served with distinction on numerous denominational and civic committees and boards.

Highly acclaimed as speakers, they have been selected to deliver the two major addresses at L.C.'s 1957 commencement exercises, Dr. Guinn said.

Rev. Wheeler, a native Arkansan, will give the annual baccalaureate address before more than 100 graduating seniors, the L.C. faculty and staff, and hundreds of guests at final exercises scheduled for the L.C. Alumni Stadium at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, May 21.

Rev. Weber, a Louisiana College graduate, will preach the baccalaureate sermon two days earlier, on Sunday, May 19, at 8:30 a.m. in the Alexandria hall auditorium.

Pinza Buried At New York

NEW YORK, May 11 (UP) — Operatic basso Ezio Pinza, whose singing of "Some Enchanted Evening" captivated a nation eight years ago, was buried today.

Celebrities from the staid Metropolitan Opera and glittering Broadway were intermingled in the crowd of music lovers who paid final homage to the famed singer at funeral rites held at the Cathedral of St. John the Devine, high on Manhattan's West Side.

Pinza died at his home in Stamford, Conn., Thursday from his third stroke in less than a year. He would have been 65 next Saturday.

Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, composers of the hit musical "South Pacific" that catapulted Pinza to fame as a middle-aged matinee idol, were among the honorary pallbearers.

Met soprano Eleanor Steber sang Verdi's "Ave Maria" from the choir loft during the services. Other Met stars among the mourners were Rise Stevens, Licia Albanese and Regina Resnick.

Cleo Whatley Sentenced For Manslaughter

LAKE PROVIDENCE — Cleo Whatley, convicted of manslaughter in the September 1, 1956, slaying of Pete Navarro, was sentenced last week by Judge Frank Voelker, to fifteen years at hard labor. Whatley will shortly be taken to the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola to begin serving his sentence.

Heroism After Robbery Tough, Youngster Says

DALLAS, May 11 (UP)—Jerry Parker, a 16-year-old package boy at a supermarket who tackled a bandit with an ink bottle Friday night, said today that his heroism, in retrospect, was painful.

The bandit was one of three who robbed the store (A&P) of "several thousand dollars." Jerry picked up a bottle of ink and flung it at one bandit as he rar to an automobile.

The bottle hit the bandit in the back and broke, splashing him with ink. He turned and looked at Jerry, but didn't shoot. Jerry and A. W. Brundidge, 16, another package boy, took out after the bandits in an automobile.

They kept up with them, at a 100-mile-an-hour clip, until they had to stop suddenly at an intersection to avoid another car and later when a police car curbed them for speeding.

"I never realized how scared I was until we took out after them in the car," Jerry said. "I smoked eight cigarettes in the few minutes we were chasing them. I was really shook up."

Under terms of approval by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, 150 initial depositors must pledge a minimum of $200,000.00 before the charter for operation is given, Spencer said. He further stated that these pledges do not represent cash deposits but a promise to deposit when the charter is formally granted. Each member of the organizing committee is authorized to accept pledges.

Can U. S., Free World Be Defended By Atomic Guns

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Can the United States and the free world be defended with atomic weapons?

Possible answers will be sought in a series of nuclear tests beginning on this bomb-scarred desert site Thursday.

A predawn explosion of an atomic device atop a 700-foot steel tower will send the United States into its sixth series of Nevada nuclear tests.

It will be the Atomic Energy Commission's 46th blast since it began experiments on the Nevada test site, 70 miles northwest of Las Vegas, Jan. 27, 1951.

The AEC announced the twofold purpose of this series of nine detonations running to Sept. 1 is:

"Development of weapons for the military defense of the United States and the free world.

"To provide important data contributing to a sound and effective civil defense system."

Conjecture by experts is that this series of tests will involve atomic artillery shells and antiaircraft rockets.

This speculation is based in part on recent statements by Secretary of Defesnse Wilson that:

The United States has in service eight-inch guns which can fire atomic shells.

Nuclear warheads will be incorporated in the nation's antiaircraft missile defenses.

Likelihood that testing such new atomic ammunition is the prime purpose of the series is bolstered by the fact that six of the nine shots will involve devices of "below nominal yield."

Nominal yield, in the parlance of the AEC, means the device is rated at 20 kilotons, or the energy equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT.

In modern atomic testing a 20-kiloton device is a comparatively puny fellow, but it's as powerful as the atomic bombs which devastated the Japanese cities of Nagasaki and Hiroshima in World War II.

This series of atomic tests is coming off without the great fanfare of publicity which has bathed past performances in a spectacular glow. The AEC modestly advised newsmen that "the only especial interest of this detonation will be that it is the first full-scale test in the new series."

Coincidentally, perhaps, this follows the wide cry against further nuclear testing, and growing apprehension over the effects of radioactive fall-out from fission blasts.

Two methods of testing and a variation of standard technique will be demonstrated in the series which has been dubbed Operation Plumbbob.

The new methods are use of a captive balloon to support a firing platform and tunnels bored hundreds of feet into the side of a mountain. The variation will be in use of a 700-foot steel tower, taller by 200 feet than any used here previously.

Technical preparations for the tower shot caused thes first test to be postponed 24 hours.

The balloon and the higher tower are intended to reduce the radioactive fall-out by cutting down the amount of dust and debris sucked up into the air by the explosive force. A helium-inflated balloon will carry the device to an elevation of 2,000 feet for detonation.

In the tunnel explosions, nuclear scientists hope to retain radioactive debris in a hole 900 feet below the mountain's summit.

Greater attention than ever before will be given to the problem of fall-out. Even with the higher tower and the 2,000-foot elevation balloon, the AEC is increasing its off-site radiation monitoring forces.

Police Officer Shot To Death In Tuscumbia, Alabama, Fracas

TUSCUMBIA, Ala., May 11 (AP)—A police officer was riddled with bullets fired from a big game rifle by a restaurant operator early today, Colbert County Sheriff Raymond Wheeler said.

The sheriff said Rush Delony Jr., 44, surrendered following the killing of H. J. Searcy, 37, at Leighton about 5 a.m

'I have killed a man and that is all I'm going to say," said the Leighton restaurant man according to the sheriff. No charges had been filed pending an investigation.

The officer said bad feeling had existed between the two men for some time. The climax apparently was reached when Delony yesterday was served with a complaint charging him with killing Searcy's boxer dog without reason.

Searcy was shot as he stepped from his patrol car after completing his night's duty. He was struck by 10 bullets. The sheriff said Searcy had removed his pistol belt and was holding it with the belt wrapped around the holster.

THE OLD GROANER

Crosby Comments On New Field Of Entertainers

Bing Crosby, who has endured in the entertainment field for many years now, in a national publication put forth quite a few comments on the latest group of singers and entertainers. The comments were in the current issue of a weekly publication.

Referring to Elvis Presley, the old master said he is going to be a star in fields other than rock and roll. "He has an appealing personality and he's a good-looking kid," comments Crosby, who saw Presley perform at Las Vegas.

"He sings in tune and he's got good rhythm," Bing continues. "He hasn't developed enough voice to handle a ballad yet, but that will come in time if he keeps on yelling and screaming enough to develop strength in his diaphragm and lungs."

Author Pete Martin asked Bing what he thought of Presley's revolving hips and twitching pelvis.

"Those things go with the throb of the big, booming electric guitars all rock-and-roll groups carry around with them," Crosby replied. "Although I'm inclined to think that Elvis exaggerates his reactions to that throb, he'll outgrow his grinds and bumps in time.

"When I saw him at the New Frontier he wasn't gyrating. He had an older audience; they were not screaming and shrieking, so he worked straight."

The Crosby interview, "I Call on Bing Crosby," also outlines Bing's thinking on a number of other things and people, including Pat Boone, who "sings a nice, quiet ballad."

Of Boone's television contract, he says, "He'd better limit that steady TV stuff. Anybody who allows himself to appear on television once a week is out of his mind."

In Bing's opinion, when Frank Sinatra begins his own television show in the fall, he will qualify for the title of the world's greatest entertainer. Also talking about Frank, "If he likes you, he'll do anything for you, but if he doesn't he can be the most ornery cuss you've ever known."

When the conversation got around to Ed Sullivan, Crosby remarked, "Ed's got the greatest formula in the world. He assembles the best variety show that money can find, but that's only part of it. Equally important is that he doesn't try to do anything else. He's careful not to get into anybody else's act."

SCENE FROM 'FUNNY FACE'—In a Parisian basement bistro, Audrey Hepburn, Fred Astaire and Kay Thompson do an impromptu dance to Gershwin's "Clap Yo' Hands," in a scene from the lavish musical "Funny Face." Hollywood Full Of Screwballs

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD, May 11 (UP) — Movieland is full of screwballs pulling stunts to land in the big-time, but none is zanier than Nick Adams who put his own name in lights and got fired for his pains.

Adams, a brash young man from Jersey City, came to Hollywood in 1949 and starved for two years.

"When I told employers I was an actor they'd show me the door," Nick recalls. "I got fired from more jobs than I can count."

One such incident occurred in 1951 when Nick was doorman, usher and general maintenance man at a beverly Hills theater. His pay: $18 per week.

"One night there was a studio preview, and I thought I'd be 'discovered.' So I put my name in big letters on the marquee.

"It read: 'Major studio preview tonight starring Nick Adams.'

"I heard people asking who Nick Adams was as they came into the theater. I spread the word that he was a great new talent. A lot of stars and important producers showed up.

"During the performance the manager discovered what I'd done and sent me up a ladder to take down my name. While I was up there the crowd filed out—stars and all. And there I was still unknown.

"The manager canned me on the spot."

A few months later Nick was working in a Sunset Strip beanery as fry cook. During the noon rush his agent phoned to tell him of a part at 20th Century-Fox.

"I took off, leaving more than 50 hamburgers to burn to a crisp. When I got back the place was a shambles and the boss gave me the heave ho," he said.

Nick was fired from a service station job when customers complained he gave imitations of Jimmy Cagney instead of cleaning windshields.

"Another time I got the boot from a wood dealer for going to the front door of celebrities doing impersonations instead of making deliveries to the back door. Nobody appreciated the imitations."

Nick's antics finally started him on the road to stardom when he sneaked on the Warner Brothers lot and stormed into John Ford's office.

"Before he could open his mouth I went into my Cagney impersonation along with some others. I kept talking, realizing he'd throw me out the minute I was finished.

"Instead he gave me a good role in 'Mr. Roberts.' And to top it off, Cagney was the star of the picture," Nick laughed.

Silent Screen Star Returns

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD May 11, (AP) —Her career perking again, Lila Lee is back in Hollywood after a long absence and having the time of her life.

"I haven't seen this place in a long, long time," she said as she took a reminiscent look at the caricature-covered walls of the Brown Derby. She sat down and told of the exciting things that have been happening to her.

It all started two weeks ago when the veteran actress came here from her New York home with her longtime pal, Patsy Ruth Miller. It was strictly a pleasure jaunt at Miss Miller's suggestion. When they arrived, Lila couldn't figure out why their dates were limited to the Beverly Hills Hotel where they were staying.

On Wednesday night she found out. She was the star of Ralph Edwards' "This is Your Life."

As part of her payoff for enduring the show, she was given some roles in TV shows. She finished a filmed drama for "Panic" and is doing a matinee theater at BC this week. Does this mean she'll resume acting full-time?

"We'll wait and see what happens," she replied. "Luckily I don't need it I saved enough to live comforably. But it would be fun. I live alone, and a person has to do something to keep busy."

At 51, Lila still has the dark-eyed beauty that endared her to movie audiences from the silent days to the talkies. She is one of that legion of stars who started with Gus Edwards' "School Days" act in vaudeville. Her movie career goes all the way back to "Male and Female" (1919) and "Blood and Sand" (1922), which she considers the best of her early career.

Lila left Hollywood in 1940 for a Broadway role and stayed in the East to concentrate on her stage career. I pondered about what happens to film careers like hers.

"In my case, ill health played a big role in keeping me out of circulation," she remarked.

"From 1944 to 1948, I was at Saranac (N.Y.) recovering from TB. It was the kind of TB that spread, and the treatment aws long and tedious."

Since her recovery, she has done some stage roles and a little television. Now her career may really take off again.

'The Tall T' Brings Epic Story Here

"The Tall T," starring Randolph Scott, comes to the Paramount Theatre Thursday and will be one of the highlights of western entertainment. It combines courage and adventure of Scott with the ruthlessness of the killers of the old West.

Co-starring with Scott are Richard Boone, Maureen O'Sullivan and Arthur Hunnicutt.

In "The Tall T," Scott plays a small Arizona rancher who loses his horse in a gamble on his ability to "break" a wild animal. On his way back to his ranch on foot, he gets the stagecoach ride that is to acid-test his courage.

On board the stage is newlywed Maureen O'Sullivan who has been married by a weak-spined bookkeeper for her father's money. When three killers hold up the stage, Miss O'Sullivan's bridegroom tries to save his own life by arranging with Richard Boone, bandit leader, to hold her for ransom. Scott, whose life can be snuffed out at any second, has the problem of staying alive and disposing of the three killers before they do a job on him, a task that, according to reports, results in a spine-tingling Western.

As the cowboy who must prove his courage in order to stay alive, Scott is reported to deliver a towering performance. Miss O'Sullivan as the bride whose honeymoon is turned into a nightmare of murder and fear, out of which comes a self-confidence and a romance, reportedly is excellent in a distinct and off-beat role. Boone is seen as the cold-as-ice leader of the killer crew and Arthur Hunnicutt plays Scott's ill-fated friend, the stagecoach driver who is the first to die.

Based on a story by Elmore Leonard, "The Tall T" was written for the screen by Burt Kennedy.

CONVENTION NEAR

Fallin Is Candidate To Head State JC's

Bob Fallin of Ruston has been announced as a candidate for president of the Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce, which will elect officers for 1957 during the state convention in Monroe May 17-19.

Fallin joined the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1954 shortly after his discharge from the Air Force.

Since that time he has served as local project committteman, local project chairman, member of the state board of directors, state chairman of the Teenage Road-E-O, and chairman of the state Jaycees project on aid to mentally retarded children.

As chairman of the Road-E-O project he used unique promotional gimmicks to obtain 100 per cent state - wide participation with the exception of one chapter. For his work on that project, he was awarded the only Key Man Award ever given by the Louisiana Jaycees.

Fallin has served as chairman of the aid to retarded children project for two years. His activities involved many hours of study, many visits to the State Colony and Training School in Pineville, numerous public speeches, and television and radio appearances. He recently arranged for a tour of the Country Music show in some 20 cities of the state in behalf of the retarded children's program. He estimates that more than 200,000 people have been reached by the Jaycees with their story on aid to the mentally handicapped.

During the past year he also served as president of the Ruston Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Ruston group received the Outstanding Chapter Award for its activity.

After his nomination for the state presidency, Fallin said that, if elected, he would continue to work toward aid for the handicapped. "Our Jaycees have done a remarkably comprehensive job with the retarded children of our state and I shall encourage them to go one step further before this project is dropped, as is scheduled to be done this year. You see, the mentally retarded make up only one type of handicapped people. There are several others, and each handicapped group has local organizations and a state organization of its own.

"As you might guess, there is a great deal of duplicating and conflicting action by these organizations in research, therapeutic services, fund - raising activities, etc. Now, it is my belief, and I shall encourage the Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce to spearhead such a project, that these groups would be better assisted in the state organizations for the mentally retarded, the Cerebral Palsied, the Crippled Children, and the Muscular Distrophy if the victims were brought together to form one state organization, the Louisiana Association for Handicapped Children."

Promoters of Fallin's candidacy for president have taken the campaign into chapters throughout the state, using the slogan, "Fall In With Fallin."

L. Providence Band Concert Slated Monday

LAKE PROVIDENCE — The annual spring concert will be given by the Lake Providence High School senior band Monday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium, according to Clyde Bales, band director.

The opening number will be "The Star Spangled Banner," which will be followed by a number of marches, including "Proud Heritage," "Military Escort" and "Anchors Aweigh." Among the popular tunes to be presented will be "Stormy Weather," "Begin the Beguine" and "Summer Weather," of which one of the overtures performed by this band at Monroe earned a rating of "very good."

High point of the evening's program will be the presentation of the John Phillip Sousa Band Award to the outstanding senior member of the band. The executive council of the band elected the one to be presented this award, with presentation being made by Principal L. L. Kilgore, Jr.

The Band Boosters Club initiated this award for the first time this year. However, it is planned to make it a permanent part of the band program. Plans call for a large plaque with individual nameplates, to be placed in the school. Each year the winner's name will be engraved on one of the plates.

The recipient of the award is given a certificate, a beautiful desk piece with the likeness of John Phillip Sousa, the founder of the brass band in America, and their name on a gold plate base. A lapel button of the same design will also be presented.

The senior who is chosen for this honor will be selected by vote of the band officers and director, with emphasis being placed on loyalty and contribution to the overall band effort throughout his or her participation.

Senior band members include: clarinets, Gerald Wayne Bowers, Ginger Cone, Linda Davidson, Elizabeth Davis, Jean Earle, Margaret Allyene Hughes, Betty Murray, Barbara Sullivan, Pam Terral, and Melvin Jean Whatley; bass clarinet, Sylvia Whatley; saxophones, Garland Sumrall, Mary Loyce Landrem and George Myers; cornets, Tommy Ellis, Evelyn Marak, Joe Martin, Bob Muirhead, Leon Overby, Thomas Terral, Jerry Thomas, Purvis Thomas, Charles Robert Warren, Roy Lee Wortheam.

French horn, Janet Proctor; trombones, Robert Rentz, James Robertson, Kelly Salemi, Tommy Whatley, Buster White; baritone, Ned Edmondson; basses, Gerald Barnett, Charles Blair; bells — Margaret Zimmer, percussion, Jerry Bayles, Johnny House, Johnny Johnson, David Perry, Billy Regenold, Madeline Zimmer; ushers, Jere Lan and Linda Vickery.

Lease-Purchase Plans Resumed By Government

WASHINGTON, May 11 (UP)—The government plans to resume lease-purchase projects for federal office buildings because money for such work is becoming more plentiful.

Advertising for construction bids on such projects was suspended by the General Services Administration Feb. 13 as an anti-inflation move. But it said building costs now are leveling off and construction labor surpluses are developing "in many localities."

At least four states have authorized municipalities to issue revenue bonds for lease - purchase projects and other states are considering similar legislation. Two bills pending in Congress also would make such projects 'more attractive to all sources of money," GSA said.

Bids now will be sought on projects where sites have been acquired. Architectural contracts will be completed by Dec. 31.

Among the projects for which plans will be completed by Dec. 31:

Kansas City, Leavenworth and Sedan, Kan.; Marshfield, Mo.; Omaha, Neb.; Albuquerque, N.M.; Daingerfield, Gainesville, McKinney and Terrell, Tex., and Green Bay, Wis.

HUNT POISONER

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 11 (AP)—Police are searching for the person who is injecting poison into bread and milk left on doorsteps by deliverymen. The poisoned food has sent several persons to hospitals but so far there have been no deaths.

PRINCIPAL SPEAKER —The Monroe Commandery of the Knights Templar will hold a worship service at Grace Episcopal Church Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Principal speaker for the occasion will be the Rt. Rev. Iveson B. Noland, DD, Suffragan Bishop of Louisiana. Bishop Noland will come to Monroe during the day for the services. All Knights Templar are urged to attend the services.

General Strahm Dies In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Mayy 11 (UP)—Brig. Gen. Victor H. Strahm, 59, a World War I ace and commander, at one time, of the Ninth Air Force in World War II, died in Lackland Air Force Base hospital today from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Strahm was found wounded in his Shreveport, La. home with a .32 caliber pistol on the floor beside him April 28. He retired after 34 years service.

He also had been chief test pilot for the Air Force. His last active duty was as deputy commander of the 33rd Air Division at Tinker Air Force Base, Okla.

He won the Distinguished Service Medal twice, as well as other decorations.

DIVERSE VIEWS

HONG KONG, May 11 (AP) — A new monthly magazine called "Contention" and aimed at expressing "diverse views" is on sale throughout Red China. It began publication after the Communist government called for more discussion of controversial matters.

In a recent scientific exploration of long abandoned gold mines in New Guinea, an American G. I. helmet was found.

JUST LIKE OWN SON

Mother On Way; Thanks Benefactor

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 11 (UP)—Thanks to a handsome veteran who reminded her of her long-dead son, a proud little lady rode north on a deluxe train on Mothers Day eve instead of in a wheelchair on the highway.

Clutching a corsage from her benefactor—"the first corsage I have had in all my 59 years" — Mrs. Eva Lambert boarded the Atlantic Coast Line railroad's Havana Special for the trip to Vermont.

Three days ago, she had embarked with only $10 in her wheelchair with her pets and sparse belongings packed around her. Today, the Havana Special delayed its departure 10 minutes so she could get aboard and get settled. Her two dogs and a cat went to the baggage car.

"God bless you ... I can't thank you," Mrs. Lambert said with misty eyes to the stranger who had made her trip possible — James Woolhouse, 28, field representative of a Detroit carburetor firm and an Air Force veteran.

Earlier this week, Mrs. Lambert wheeled her way 50 miles north in the chair to which she was confined with multiple sclerosis. But Woolhouse spied her on the highway and insisted that she return here in his car. He put her up in a motel and bought her train ticket, a suit case and her corsage.

Just Like Son

Mrs. Lambert wept when she showed reporters the corsage of shattered pink carnations on her shoulder.

"God bless him, God bless him ... he's just like my son," she said.

Mrs. Lambert, who sold newspapers on a corner here, lost her husband, also a news vendor, three weeks ago. Her two sons both had died some years ago and she had long lost contact with the 26 'foster children" she said she had helped raise before coming South.

She waited to go home, to South Windham, Vt., after her husband's death, but was too proud to tell her friends here she had no money for train fare. Then, she decided on the wheelchair trip.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Richards Enthusiastic Over Mid-East Travels

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

James P. Richards, the Eisenhower Doctrine ambassador, is enthusiastic on his return from the Middle East where, like many a traveling salesman, he has been handing out samples.

Nobody he saw refused to take something. Because of political conditions, he didn't see three prospective customers — Jordan, Syria and Egypt.

Jordan, however, was getting 10 million dollars at the time out of another of Uncle Sam's pockets, and Syria and Egypt, believed under Soviet influence, were put in the position of having to ask if they want something.

Richards committeed abtout 120 million dollars, half for militady supplies and half for economic aid, some in loans and some in grants. He didn't make public details about who got just what.

Some liked the samples so well they already were asking for more. For some it was merely an increase in what they had been getting.

Just what the samples will produce in demands for the future remains to be seen. Certainly neither new nor old customers are satiated.

As in many other places, when you go through the Middle East holding out a handful of money you have to be careful not to have the hand snapped up, too.

Optimism about the loyalty of your associates in such a deal can be overdone. A part of the Arab code is to expect and even demand aid from anyone who can give it. A frequent saying among them is that they will shake hands with the devil if it profits them. They can divorce that from what they really think about him.

There is strong evidence, however, that as Richards reports, there is greater faith in American sincerity now than before last fall's crisis. The demonstration that the United States opposes aggression not only by Russia, but by anyone even including her best friends, has had its effect.

How much the Eisenhower Doctrine can accomplish without including Syria and Egypt is, however, a major question, since they offer more encouragement to Russia than any of the others.

When the Marshall Plan was offered to all of Europe, Russia refused and barred her satellites from accepting. Everyone thought she had invited a major outcry among the satellites. It undoubtedly contributed to general unrest, but produced no crisis.

SHORT-TERM PICTURE CLOUDED, BUT

Long-Term Prospects For U.S. Business Improving

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—Long-term prospects for the nation's business seemed brighter than ever this week, even as the short-term picture clouded.

For many businessmen it was easier to plan 10 years ahead than to guess what would happen next month.

The stock market, apparently impressed by the rosy hue of long-range business forecasts, boiled up to a 1957 high.

Predictions for the near-term, however, were somewhat on the pessimistic side.

Among major uncertainties here and now were trends in auto and appliance sales. Home construction was another question mark. There was new evidence, too, of softening demand for such key commodities as steel, copper, zinc, lead, paperboard, coal and oil.

The possibility of at least a modest pickup in auto sales was indicated by the latest production totals from Detroit. Plymouth scheduled Saturday overtime; Ford added a second shift at its Louisville plant; Chevrolet pushed its passenger car output beyond the 30,000 mark. U. S. factories were expected to roll out 126,000 new cars—5½ per cent more than they produced the week before and 20 per cent more than in the like week last year. The only question was: Would dealers be able to sell them?

The steel industry geared itself this week for the usual summer slowdown. U. S. Steel Corp. said it would shut a bar mill and sintering plant at its Fairless Works in Morrisville, Pa., for a two-week overhaul later this month. Some 300 workers at the two plants will get vacations with pay. Bethlehem Steel Corp. closed three open heart furnaces a Lackawanna. N. Y., citing a decline in demand for sheet steel, the kind used chiefly by the auto makers.

Roger M. Blough, U. S. Steel's board chairman, told stockholders that, although demand for some steel products is falling, over-all demand is "still very strong when compared with any period except the peaks."

For the long term, Blough predicted an enormous increase in steel consumption. Just to keep up with it, he said, U. S. mills will have to add 50 million tons to their capacity by 1975. "I believe the American steel industry is in a long and grueling race to keep up with an economy that will contnue to expand—however uneven that rate of expansion may be, he said.

Top indusrialists anl bankers meeting at Hot Springs, Va., this weekend for the annual meeting of President Eisenhower's Business Advisory Council said they found the general trend of business "spotty."

'Some industries are doing well and others aren't," said one executive. "But I look for another upturn by 1958."

Dr. Raymond Rodgers of the opinion," he told a meeting of the National Assn. of Mutual Savings Banks, "that a decling will set in."

FOR FIRST BALE

South Texas Cotton Race Nears Climax

HARLINGEN, Tex., May 12 (UP)—Early next month, a race that began Feb. 1 will end in a $2,500 jackpot for a Texas cotton farmer.

Hundreds of cotton pickers will soon be in the fields in the southern tip of Texas working fiverishly. Alerted cotton gins will stay open.

Then a truck, probably escorted by police cars with sirens blaring, will screech into the police station here bearing the first bale of 1957 cotton grown in the United States.

Until then, suspense will mount among farmers in this palm-dotted semi - tropical lower Rio Grande Valley. As well as being a bread-and-butter activity in this area, cotton raising assumes the atmosphere of a sport this time of year.

Ground rules for the sport have teeth in them this year for the first time.

Must Show Proof

The winners will have to present affidavits that his cotton bale came about naturally. Artificial techniques for drying the cotton or opening the bolls are outlawed.

The picking will be spot-checked by the county agent or by representatives of either the state or federal agriculture department.

The cotton ginner will also have to sign the legal paper before the prize money can be collected.

Valley farmers are wary of Ray Barnick of Mission, Tex., a three-time winner who swears he's not in the race this year. Barnick says he was set back by lack of moisture after his planting Feb. 1, the earliest date, by the ground rules, when planting is permitted.

"There's plenty of good cotton south of me, though. The farmers with wells had a chance to water in February," Barnick says.

Prize For Winner

He predicts the first bale will come later than last year, when the first bale was weighed in June 9.

The Harlingen Chamber of Commerce, which arranged years ago to have the first-bale site moved here from Houston, will pay the winner $1,500 prize money and guarantee at least $1,000 for the bale when it is sold at public auction.

Another winner, Jerry Block, who says his win was an "accident" caused when abnormally dry weather dried cotton early, also says he's out of the race because of aphid infections in his field. He predicts the first bale will come from acreage along the Rio Grande, which has had an unusually active flow this spring.

Ouachita Men To Attend LOMA Meet In Orleans

Robert H. Scholl, of New York City vice-president and general counsel for Esso Standard Oil Co., will address the sixth annual convention of the Louisiana Oil Marketers Association, James W. Moore, of Monroe, president of LOMA, announced today.

The association, composed of wholesale gasoline and oil distributors throughout the state, will meet in New Orleans, May 24, 25 and 26, with headquarters at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Scholl, who also serves on Esso's board of directors and is a member of the company's executive committee, will speak at the Association's annual luncheon for members and oil company officials Saturday, May 25.

Also scheduled to appear on the LOMA convention programs are: R. B. Richardson, Louisiana director of highways; A. S. Campbell, chief of the petroleum products tax division and Raymond V. Campbell, special fuels tax administrator, both of the Louisiana department of revenue, and Harry Huber, Lake Charles, chairman of the Association's special committee on economics.

Those LOMA members expected to attend from Ouachita Parish are James W. Moore, president, D. V. Loflin Jr., Glay Hammons, J. T. Downs, Cecil M. Hill, John Sherrouse, Jr., Clayborne Thacker, and Charles H. Kitchingham.

Cotton Futures Advance During Week's Trading

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—Cotton futures prices staged a moderate advance this week.

For most of the five-day trading period, the general tone of the market was one of solid strength. At their best, all deliveries except current May and distant October made new life-of-contract highs. Prices turned soft on the final day when the market was hit by a flurry of selling.

At the finish, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were unchanged to $1.35 a bale higher.

Early firmness was atrributed in part to growing doubts among traders as to the liklihood of any major change next year in price support levels. Another bullish factor was the conviction among many that the 1957 loan rate would show an increase over the previously announced guaranteed minimum rate.

Gains were whittled down by profit-taking, hedge selling, and a generally bearish view of the Commodity Credit Corporation's latest export sales figures.

Selling pressure on Friday stemmed to a large extent from report that the House Appropriations Committee had voted to slash funds requested by the Department of Agriculture for the coming fiscal year. The market's fall was cushioned by trade buying and short covering.

Exports of U. S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 126,000 bales, vs. 240,000 bales the previous week and only 74,000 in the like week last year.

For the current season through May 7, exports were estimated at 6,446,000 bales, compared to 1,575,000 bales at the same time last season.

U.S. Demands Prompt Notice In Case Of Atomic Accidents

WASHINGTON, May 11 (UP)—The government today demanded prompt notification of any "potentially serious" atomic accidents as a result of a Texas case in which four men were burned by radioactive pellets.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced that such accidents must be reported by telephone or telegraph either immediately or within 24 hours, depending on the seriousness of the radioactive exposure to persons and damage to property.

These notifications must be followed in 30 days by a detailed written report.

The most recent such accident to become known occurred in Houston March 13 when two pellets of a radioactive element — iridium-192 — disintegrated and burned four men employed by the M. W. Kellogg Co.

The men were sworn to secrecy and put under medical checkup to detect any symptoms of radioactive poisoning. They apparently received only small doses. There was no outward sign they were burned.

The Kellogg Co., which used the radioactive material to check steel construction for flaws, did not report the March 13 accident until 29 days later.

A company official said the accident was not reported sooner because "we atempted our own control measures." He added that the "control was not adequate" and "as soon as we saw it was inadequate, we notified the AEC."

The AEC ordered the company to stop using iridium-192 and has scheduled a hearing on the affair here May 22.

STOCKS RISE—The Associated Press average of 60 stocks reached the highest level since Sept 10, 1956, when it closed this week at 182.5 from 181.7 a week earlier. Stocks Record 11th Straight Advance

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—The stock market crashed through to a new 1957 high this week in brisk trading.

Climaxing an unbroken string of 11 weekly advances, most of them small, the market finally rose beyond its high of early January.

The Associated Press average rose 80 cents to $182.50.

The average was unchanged Monday and lower Tuesday. Wednesday prices recovered and the average matched the previous high of $182 established Jan. 4.

Thursday, despite late profit-taking which slashed good gains by the industrials, the average rose to a new '57 high of $182.30, thanks to rails and utilities. Friday the industrials renewed their strength, moving the average up to another new high while rails and utilities lagged.

There was no outstanding news or any strong wave of confidence on Wall Street to send prices smashing decisively through the area of the old high.

News was mixed. Steel operations dropped to the lowest level since the summer strike. Bethlehem Steel shut down three or more open hearth furnaces. Price-cutting was reported for copper, lead and zinc. Rail carloadings continued below year-ago levels.

Among heavily-traded gainers were Radio Corp. up 2½, Georgia-Pacific up 2¼, Boeing up 1¾, Westinghouse Electric up 1½, Royal Dutch up 1 and International Telephone up 1½.

Corporate and U. S. government bond prices declined again this week in slack, dull trading.

Mississippi Has Deepest Well At 10,000-Ft. Level

JACKSON, Miss. May 11 (AP) — South Mississippi's lowest oil discovery virtually was assured this week when Larco Drilling Co. — Durbin Bond and Co.'s Gray Estate No. 1 was reported flowing from the Hosston sands nearly 10,000 feet deep.

Oil men reported the well was flowing 209 barrels of oil daily from 9,930-36 feet with a tubing pressure of 850 pounds.

The well was drilled to 10,200 feet with shows encountered from the top of the Rodessa sand at 9,228 feet down through the Hosston sand.

A total of 70 feet of oil sand was indicated in seven different zones.

The new well is three miles southeast of the Chaparral oil field.

Another flowing well was reported at Bolton. Weston Drilling Co.'s Gaddis Farms No. 1 was reported flowing 218 barrels of oil daily at 10,773-800 feet.

Other oil activity:

Carter Oil Co. was scheduled to begin drilling immediately its J. F. B. Laughlin No. 1 in Rankin County. Contract depth is 12,900 feet.

Little Chance Seen For Passage Of Gas Measure

By EDWARD JAMIESON
Washington Correspondent

Legislation which would remove public-utility type of price regulation from natural gas producers, in force since the supreme court decision in the Phillips Case three years ago, today appears to have only the remotest chance of enactment.

Today it appeared that no one but President Eisenhower himself could save the Harris-O'Hara bill from early death, and there was no indication that he planned to take the necessary steps.

Democratic and Republican members of Congress supporting the new bill, as well as representatives of the oil and gas industries, were desperately trying to save the bill, but they privately expressed little hope of success.

Possibility of a compromise on the two last-minute amendments proposed by the Eisenhower administration to the bill which everyone thought, when it was introduced, would meet the approval of President Eisenhower, seemed unlikely. Negotiations, however, are underway looking toward this very outside possibility.

Enactment of a bill removing public utility price control from producers, but still keeping them under regulation of the federal power commission up to a certain point, seemed bright when Chairman Oren Harris, Dem., of Ark., of the house interstate commerce committee, and Rep. Joseph O'Hara, Rep. of Minn., a ranking member of the committee, joined to introduce a new bill.

While the measure was not as acceptable to producers as was the Harris - Fulbright bill which passed the last congress but was vetoed by the president because, he said, its senate passage was accompanied by "arrogant" lobbying activities. It had drawn general support as the best that could be secured. Even large gas distributing companies, which had opposed the Harris-Fulbright bill, announced that they would support the new measure.

President Eisenhower, almost immediately after the bill was offered, said that as he understood its provisions, it met the criteria he had ESWC hearings on the bill this week, it was assumed that all of the major obstacles standing in its way toward enactment had been removed.

This assumption vanished into thin air shortly after the first witness appeared. He was Charles H. Kendall, general counsel for the office of defense mobilization, and announced spokesman for the administration.

He said that the administration favored the bill if it were amended. His proposal that the prohibition against consideration of costs by the FPC in arriving at "reasonable market prices" for the gas he eliminated. He also said that the bill should be amended to require that all definite escalation provisions in existing contracts between producers and interstate pipeline companies be subject to review by the commission.

Representatives of the producers immediately declared that the two amendments would be absolutely unacceptable to them, while Kendall refused to give the committee any assurance that the President would sign the bill unless they were included.

Speaker Sam Rayburn declared that the bill would never get out of committee if it included the two proposed amendments. Representative Martin Dies of Texas, a member of the committee, asserted that the proposal was apparently inspired by persons in the administration who want to kill the legislation, while Rep. Walter Rogers of Texas, another member of the committee, said that apparently administration officials had sponsored the amendments in order that the President would not have to act upon the bill again, despite his previous promises.

Neither Kendall nor Chairman Jerome Kuykendall of the Federal Power Commission, who reversed his position of last year and endorsed the amendments, would disclose under persistent questioning just how, when or where the surprising amendments originated.

But it was generally believed with apparently reliable support that they were drafted by and pushed by General Herbert Brownell, Jr., who has always shown a strong dislike for any legislation which might reduce the control provisions of the Supreme Court decision.

Meanwhile, probably the maddest man of all, though he has shown remarkable restraint at the hearings, is O'Hara, who agreed to be the Republican sponsor of the bill after he had been assured by highest administration authorities that it would receive White House endorsement as it was introduced.

Harris plans to continue public hearings on the measure during the coming week, but they seem to be a waste of time unless some agreement on the two amendments can be reached.

FOR RETOOLING '58 CARS

Auto Industry To Spend $1 Billion

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT, May 11 (AP)—The auto makers will spend at lease one billion dollars getting their 1958 model cars to market. They spent approximately that much developing their 1957 models in what has been described as the hesaviest investment in new models in auto industry history.

Broadest changes for 1957 were made by Chrysler and Ford. For the coming new model year General Motors will make the greatest changes. However, for competitive reasons Chrysler and Ford also will spend heavily on 1958 models.

Industry gossip has it that GM's Pontiac and Chevrolet models will have entirely new bodies and that there will be major changes in other lines of the GM group. Most commonly heard report is that this year's three-piece rear window on some GM cars will be discontinued.

Contributing heavily to the industry's over-all investment in new model changeovers. Most of expenditures on the new Edsel model. Ford spokesmen already have said a quarter of a billion will have been spent on the Edsel line before a single car comes from the assembly line. If the entire cost of getting that line to the market is counted the over-all cost for 1958 models will go substantially higher than one billion dollars.

The first of the Edsel line is scheduled for assembly line production early in September.

Car makers generally do not publicize their expenditures on new model changeovers. Most ofn them say, however, even modest design and styling changes have tripled in cost during the last 12 to 15 years. At that rate, one billion dollars would be close to an average normal investment in annual new model work.

Probably specific figures would be difficult to arrive at in determining the cost of new model changes each year. The cars the industry will present for the 1958 market have been in the making for two and three years. The engineering and styling staffs currently are working on cars that will not reach the market until 1960 and later.

They are developing also some advances that will be reflected in the cars that will appear for a long time subsequent to 1960.

Automotive trade sources say the recently announced agreement between Curtiss-Wright and Daimler-Benz could have a sizable effect on American car engineering and merchandising. The arrangement provides for the marketing of the Mercedes car through Studebaker-Packard dealerships and the production in this country of the Daimler-Benz fuel injection system.

Curtiss-Wright is operating Studebaker-Packard under a management contract. Gusses in industry quarters are that the German-designed fuel injection system will be made available on Studebaker-Packard cars sometime during the 1958 model year.

There is also a possibility some of the engineering principles incodporated in the Mercedes model cars may be utilized in the design of some of Studebaker-Packards future models.

Tax Concessions Blocked For Ocean-Going Tanker Builders

WASHINGTON, May 11 (UP)—The government this week slammed the door on further tax concessions to builders of ocean-going tankers. The nation has enough tankers on hand or building to meet almost any emergency.

The concession, in effect since the Korean War began, permitted a five-year write-off, for tax purposes, of the cost of ships needed to fill out the private and government tanker fleets. It was granted by the Office of Defense Mobilization which now says President Eisenhower's latest expansion goal—100 vessels—is filled.

The only builders who might be hurt are those who failed to get under the wire with applications before the surprise order was issued. Maritime Administration officials had no estimate of the number but 'assumed there were quite a few."

The necessity of a big tanker fleet was demonstrated when Egypt blocked the Suez Canal and cut off Western Europe's vital Middle Eastern oil supplies. Only emergency action by U. S. oil men who pooled their tankers and supplied the oil saved Europe from disaster.

A consequence of this was discussions between the United States and Britain on a long-range alternative to the canal, including construction of super-tankers and pipelines from the Mideast bypassing the waterway.

U.S. Doing Its Part

The United States already is doing its part. Since 1953 scores of shipbuilders have taken advantage of the tax concession to build or plan tankers ranging up to 60,000 tons capacity. But not all of them asked for the concession. Of the 100-vessel goal just filled, 45 tankers have been built, are under construction or contracted for without federal tax relief.

Policeman's Colorful Life Spotlighted

Capt. Corbin In 16th Year With Force

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This feature was written by John Earl Taylor, Morning World police reported, who this week will cast aside his journalistic cloak and get affairs in order for duty with the U. S. Army. His tour of duty with the World covered almost four years, and a broad range of stories in the daily drama of police activities and other affairs in the area. His services will be missed.)

By JOHN EARL TAYLOR
Staff Writer

Thrust upon his soul each eight-hour work shift is the fleeting opportunity to fondle life in its fullest moments—sadness, drama, and laughter.

Glimpses of truths, lies race past him.

He watches with mixed air of curiosity and apathy. His experiences are broad. His job is to protect you.

His occupation — policeman.

He leads an exciting life, one which is more vunerable than most, but there entangled amidst the fast-moving dramas is that uncrushable thing, humor.

The roar, rattle, and drone from Monroe cotton compresses draped the backdrop for laughter this particular sunny, but crisp October day.

Downtown DeSiard street of the not-so populated Monroe 14-years ago, was relatively free of pedestrians and motorists.

Patroiling Streets

A Monroe officer, now in his 16th year of service, was patrolling the streets with a fellow policeman in a prowl car.

A throat - rattling Yippppeeee and an ear-thumping rumble was heard and the officers swerved their car to a stop, peering down DeSiard street.

There, bent on breaking the Any Derby record was a pair of mules bouncing a high-stake wagon from one side of the 25-foot street to the other.

Sparks showered from the metal rims of the huge wagon wheels and a man's head could be seen bobbing over the front stakes, reins loosely gripped in one hand.

As the apparent runaway team loomed closer, the officers moved to the edge of the wagon's path. Persons attempting to cross the street scurried for safety of the sidewalk. Then they weren't sure.

One of the officers, then with only three-years duty grabbed onto the rear of the wagon as it rumbled by and swung upward into the bed.

He managed to bring the frenzied team under control after snatching the reins from the driver.

By this time the man — rather starry eyed was sitting in one corner of the wagon.

Just as the officer suspected the man was jolly drunk.

With a sly smile and outstretched hands for the 'cuffs the man reeled from the wagon and was hustled away to headquarters. He was booked on operating a vehicle, to wit: mules and wagon, while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Was Convicted

The following court day the individual was convicted of said charges.

A drunk can be funny as well as pathetic and he is just one of the law offenders in an usual eight-hour shift of policing.

The runaway team along with other notes of laughter have left William Allan Corbin, 47-year-old captain of the Monroe police department with a good sense of humor in his 16-years of police work.

But all has not been laughter.

The grey-haired, 160-pound captain has clung to the precipice of death, watched the big picture of life unfold from the lips of a small urchin, and been a diplomat in family squabbles, storing each experience for tales to the grandchildren — "Yes, those were the days."

Streaks of greying hair and 160-pounds spread over a slender frame are a misleading factor in the captain's physical stamina as quite a few law violators have discovered the more difficult way.

Captain Corbin has always strived to keep himself physically fit so that his duty may be fulfilled —that of providing protection to the people.

"Every law enforcement officer should keep himself in better physical condition than the average man he has to deal with in enforcing the law," Captain Corbin says.

Theory Into Practice

The wiry five foot niner puts his theory into practice by taking daily "workouts with a few fellow officers at his home located at 3405 Richmond Avenue.

Captain Corbin's road to recovery from an accident is a story perhaps that could be revealed in the lives of thousands of people, but it has some very interesting notes and involves one of Monroe's most colorful personalities—admired by many, obscure to others.

Before the captain, native of a Meadville, Miss., farm, went to work for the police department he was employed at a Monroe gas concern.

Here he suffered an accident and was forced to quit work.

He soon developed a blood clot in the left leg and was reduced to 115 pounds, hobbling to his destinations.

Captain Corbin who has always enjoyed wrestling as a sport was fortunate to meet Gus Kallio, owner of the local wrestling and boxing arena.

Five-Five Gus with his Finnish accent, powerful neck and rippling biceps at 50-years, persuaded the captain to come to the arena for regular "workouts."

"That was the roughest ordeal that I have ever undertaken. He (Gus) was like a slave driver but I owe my present physical stamina and even my life to Gus," the captain states.

Every day from about 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Kallio would push him through tough exercises—pushups, kneebends, rope skipping, punching a bag, tossing a medicine ball, etc.—followed by a vigorous massage and rubdown.

Regains Weight

A few months of this and the captain was again able to walk with a normal stride and had gained his former weight.

Kallio, who has befriended many a person in the Monroe area looks back on the time and says, "Yes, he was in bad shape, when he came to the place (arena)."

Both are very close friends today and the captain enjoys the familiar ear-bending of Kallio, who often relates of his days in the wrestling ring.

TAKE IT EASY THERE, GUS — Gus Kallio and Capt. W. A. Corbin, mix it up for the photographer, reminiscent of the "good old days gone by." Gus Kallio, owner of the local wrestling and boxing arena, has an overhand wristlock on Capt. Corbin. (Staff photo by Scotty Maxwell.)

Kallio, who was the world's middleweight wrestling champion for "10 years, 9 months, and 17 days," has passed a few tricks of the trade on to the captain.

Capt. Corbin has used them—much to his advantage.

Take in 1947.

He (then a patrolman) was supplementing his $125 a month salary with earnings of another job at Joe Gonzales Cafe near Five Points. All the Five Point Cafes during this year remained open all night and were full of "romp and stomp," the captain relates.

About 9:45 one night after Captain Corbin completed his evening shift, he was walking down DeSiard street enroute to the cafe job. He was approached by a Negro woman bleeding from a deep knife slash across the side of her face.

"Mr. Allan," the woman screamed as blood spurted from the wound, "That man done cut me with a crabapple switch (long, switch-blade knife).

Capt. Corbin walked across the street to the Negro the woman had pointed out and made him place his hands against the wall in an off-balance position while he frisked him.

The captain took an illegal knife from the Negro, placed it in his pocket and told the man, "Let's go."

The six-foot, three inch Negro, weighing about 220 pounds, decided differently.

Grabbed Policeman

He grabbed the policeman and they shuffled back and forth, and as the two grappled they quickly drew a throng of spectators.

Picking the Negro up, the captain slammed him to the concrete with a sickening thud of skull against pavement.

Astride the man in seconds the officer attempted to hold the Negro down. The Negro in desperation bit a plug of hair and scalp out of the captain's head, but he still held on.

Capt. Corbin reached for his gun. It wasn't there.

Frantically he looked around and found it — the business end pointed toward his midriff. Clutching the .38 special was another Negro, who was part of the crowd pressing closer around the battling duo.

The captain jerked the pistol from the Negro's hand, followed by the man's disappearance into the throng.

Capt. Corbin wonders to this day why the pistol didn't discharge when he grabbed it.

By this time the burly Negro had flipped the captain over and was applying the "death pressure" with massive hands that easily reached around Corbin's small neck.

It was at this point that Capt. Corbin says he gives Kallio credit for "saving his life." A trick gained while wrestling with Kallio was put into use as the Negro bent down with more pressure.

Flexed Muscles

By "bucking" his neck muscles and flexing them the captain swelled his neck and kept the Negro from closing off his breath.

He had but one alternative when he began thinking that each breath could be his last.

Grasping the pistol in his right hand the captain shoved the weapon into the man's chest and squeezed the trigger.

Spurting blood and the man's death rattle left the captain with a violent memory of death giving birth to life in the same instant.

An ambulance was summoned to pick the body up and Capt. Corbin proceeded to Gonzales Cafe where he was greeted as a ghost from the haunts of a medieval castle.

He discovered that persons in the crowd seeing at one time the tide of battle going against him, pushed to the rear of the circle, heard the shot and figured he had been killed.

The captain worked at the cafe until 5 a.m. the following day.

Asked what his record number of arrests during one of these nights during this particular time, he scratched his head, leaned back in a chair near the back door of his shade-enshrouded home on Richmond and replied, "Fourteen in an eight-hour shift."

The captain's wife chimed in that during these years she had a full time job mending his uniforms.

He stated this was the time when Five Points was really "romping with activity" and a law officer had to be "on his toes."

Today is still a time of "preparedness," the captain adds, as a law officer doesn't know exactly what is going to be the reaction of a law violator upon his arrest.

Support For Statement

The unexpected deaths of many police officers over the United States in a year in what is expected to be a "routine arrest" attributes to the validity of this statement.

Capt. Corbin in his daily briefing to the shift he is in charge of, stresses the importance of this.

The newly organized Monroe Police Academy could be the answer for all officers to provide protection for themselves as well as the citizenry.

Another reason for the captain maintaining himself in a good physical condition to cope with situations is that his family wants to see him come home at the end of a night shift.

Capt. Corbin is married to the former Miss Fannie Crawford of Bastrop.

They have four children. They are Allan, Jr., 20, in his third year at Northeast Louisiana State College where he is majoring in pharmacy; Selma Sue, 15, student at Ouachita Parish High School; Marilyn Ann, 12, and Don, 9, both pupils at Lida - Benton Grammar School.

The captain is particularly fond of children, and one he found expressed the big picture of life which sometimes remains in oblivion until amplified by a child.

Small Boy

A small boy, about 10, dressed in wrinkled and shabby clothes peered over the edge of the police desk. A mop of unkept hair fell down to almost cover big brown eyes.

"Mister," he said addressing Capt. Corbin, "have you been watching those afflicted boys and girls on television?" (The boy was referring to a telethon where money is raised for children stricken with cerebral palsy.)

Eyes sparkling with warmness the boy continued, "Mister, don't you think we ought to help them?" he proffered a small jar with about fifty-cents in it across the counter.

He got results. The captain's contribution plus others from those standing nearby.

A short time later the same small, mottled lad was seen pouring a full jar of coins and bills in the big receptacle at the television station, smiled and said, "That ought to help."

The captain still sees the tyke about town, reminded often of how a child mellow a man.

Family squabbles, something that police are called upon numerous times each shift to quell, take quite a bit of diplomatic relations to avoid being the brunt themselves of a once inter-family argument.

This probably is the most "ticklish" job in the work, the captain points out, but in most cases the couple or persons are usually willing to listen to reason.

"Spotty" — a sausage-looking beagle, the family canine, gave the captain his first course in diplomatic relations.

Wanting the Corbin family to be well-versed locally and about national events, "Spotty" took it upon himself to relieve the neighbors of their morning papers. He dropped them rather neatly at the front door of the Corbin home.

Slightly red-faced and with apologetic verses the captain had to return the neighbors' papers until "Spotty" was taught "not to be so helpful."

The captain's extra-curricular activities are not limited to the wrestling mats which he and a few fellow officers spread in his back yard for "workouts," because he can play a "pretty mean piano."

With 16 years of service the captain has only four years to go before being eligible for retirement.

Queried about plans for laying aside his badge and gun for pursuit of a "quiet everyday life," Captain Corbin smilingly said, "I just don't know about it. Maybe so, maybe no, but things are looking brighter."

Cantankerous Is The Word For Rep. Clarence Cannon

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — Cantankerous is the word for Clarence Cannon.

He is not the handsomest man in Congress. His formidable nose arches down over a mouth that looks as if it had just sampled alum. His wary eyes rove constantly in search of a misspent dollar. He looks like the last man in the world you would approach for money.

Yet Rep. Cannon, an old-line Democrat from Missouri, is the man who must be approached by Cabinet members, agency heads and all others in government if they want so much as a red cent to keep their outfits in business for another year.

Cannon is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. All legislation that involves the spending of taxpayers' money—or at least the dollars and cents part of such legislation—filters through his hands. And Cannon has built up a reputation for having a pretty tight fist when it comes to spending the home folks' money.

Of course, the cuts he has favored have by no means always stood up after the appropriations go the whole way through Congress.

Nevertheless, his job makes him one of the most powerful men in Congress. And his role is spotlighted now with the largest peacetime budget in American history coming before Congress and with the legislators generally determined to slash it where they can.

Cannon gives no sign of being impressed by his more than ordinarily strategic position.

Now 76, Cannon has held his chairmanship—when the Democrats have controlled the House—since 1941, and has served on the committee since 1929.

"Can we get along without it?" has been his standard query to petitioners for money during all those years.

He hasn't changed. He's an outspoken admirer of the economy views of Republican Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, and has said it will be a national disaster if Humphrey leaves the Cabinet —as President Eisenhower said last Wednesday the secretary is determined to do sooner or later.

Still, just as Humphrey has been unable to tell Congress just where the administration's $71,800,000,000 budget can be cut, Cannon isn't too hopeful of any major slashes.

"This is a spending Congress and a spending administration," he says with dour resignation—for all the protestations by his colleagues that they really mean to wield an economy ax this year.

Differing with fellow lawmakers is no new experience for Cannon. His sharp tongue has lashed scores of them and several times he has backed his arguments with his fists.

"Clarence not only throws the book at you—he hits you over the head with it," says one congressman.

This is fitting enough, in a sense because Cannon wrote the book—a number of books, actually, on the parliamentary procedures which enable the House to transact its business with some semblance of order.

Does your wife have a husband who is going somewhere?

(financially, we mean)

Here's a test every man ought to be able to pass with high honors. Ask yourself the following four questions. If you can answer Yes to each of them there's a good chance you can say Yes to the question in our headline.

Question 1: Do you own any stocks or bonds on the New York Stock Exchange?

If yes, congratulations may be in order. You already know that when you own stock in a vigorous, profitable and growing company you are likely to get dividend checks regularly and your stock can grow in value. And when you own bonds you usually get regular interest. In either case, you thoroughly enjoy having an income from sources in addition to your job —an income that may continue after you've waved your job goodbye.

Question 2: Are you aware of the risks as well as the rewards in common stock ownership?

If yes, again congratulations. Because the man who knows that stocks go down in price as well as up, that a company may not pay dividends and may not grow—that's the man who raises a skeptical eyebrow at mere tips and rumors. He gets the facts before he invests a dollar. And he makes sure it's a dollar left over after he's paid the bills and provided for family emergencies.

Question 3: Are you aware of the possibilities for sound investments in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange?

Four out of five stocks on the Exchange paid dividends last year. And more than 300 have paid dividends every year from 25 years to 108! Some pay dividends of 5 to 6 percent at recent prices. Some are especially liked by financial institutions. The records of all of these stocks are set forth in the 16 fascinating pages of our free booklet "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS."

It also describes the increasingly popular Monthly Investment Plan, through which you can buy stocks in America's most famous corporations for as little as $40 every three months—or up to $1000 a month. Two out of three shareowners, incidentally, have incomes under $7500 a year.

Question 4: Have you visited a Broker with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange?

If not, don't put it off a day longer. You'll get a friendly welcome. His business is to help you get facts you'll want, to give you seasoned advice about securities, help you buy or sell. There are times when bonds may be better investments than certain stocks—he will help you decide. And he will be glad to give you a copy of "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS."

Or maybe you'd rather send the coupon. If you're not going anywhere very fast financially, isn't it time to start?

Eisenhower Administration May Have To Tighten Farm Production Controls

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration may be forced to tighten farm production controls next year if it is to get any good at all from the $1,200,000,000 annual soil bank payment program.

Such action would be galling to administration leaders, particularly Secretary of Agriculture Benson. He wants programs that will move in the direction of complete production freedom for farmers.

But the administration is confronted by the fact that the soil bank program did little good in its initial trial last year in reducing production of surplus crops.

Agriculture Department officials agree that most of the quarter of a billion dollars paid to farmers under this program last year was for rental of land which, because of drought or other factors, would not have produced much anyway.

The administration is confronted by the further possibility that this year's soil bank program—likely to cost around one billion dollars—will be less than 50 per cent effective in reducing production.

Latest information indicates that farmers may retire around 25 million acres of land from production of such crops as wheat, cotton, corn, rice and tobacco.

But a department planting survey indicated recently that the actual reduction in the acreage of all crops may be only 12 million acres. The survey showed that many farmers were taking land out of some crops but were increasing acreages of others.

In a letter to Congress last week, Benson said present farm production control measures—now limited to cotton, wheat, rice, tobacco, and peanuts — are not working. He said they are failing because of two things—action of farmers of selecting their best and for use and of intensifying operations and increasing acre yields, and a tendency of farmers to shift from controlled crops to uncontrolled ones.

The failure of present control measures to operate effectively was shown clearly by last year's production picture. Although farmers reduced plantings nearly 5 per cent to the smallest crop acreage in 20 years, the harvest equaled the record.

Because of the march of agricultural technology, there is the possibility that production this year will be of record proportions despite combined efforts of present control measures and the soil bank program to hold it down. Benson has called the soil bank program one of the biggest "and most expensive operations in the history of agriculture."

'Day Christ Died' Is One Of The Best

THE DAY CHRIST DIED, by Jim Bishop, Harper.

On April 6, in the year of our Lord 30, at 6 in the afternoon, Christ accompanied by ten apostles started down into the Valley of Cedron to enter holy Jerusalem through the Fountain Gate. By 4 the next afternoon, he would die on the cross.

These 22 hours of the "most dramatic day in the history of the word," Bishop says, plus the hour for laying out the body form 23 chapters, interspersed with sections providing background.

Physical, geographical, social, medical, dietary, religigious and a host of details of other categories abound in these 330 pages. Bishop has worked hard, with scholarly zeal and Christian devotion—he is Catholic. Churchmen of several denominations have praised this and it will have and deserve many readers.

In my case, however, old-fashioned as I supprise I must be, this leaves me cold. That pilate had ulcers and Tiberious acne; that on the Mount of Olives Christ's "bloody sweat" was haematidrosis; that the executioner used 5-inch nails, holding two in his teeth as he pounded in another — such facts and fancies possess a historical significance but no emotional validity. The modernization of Christ's words also seems to me to diminish some of the sacred warmth — Bishop, too, had his doubts on this score.

In short, I prefer Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, who in six or eight pages apiece give me the full rich meaning not communicated here. I prefer apostles to Bishop.

IN HUNGARY

Blood And Tears And One Bridge

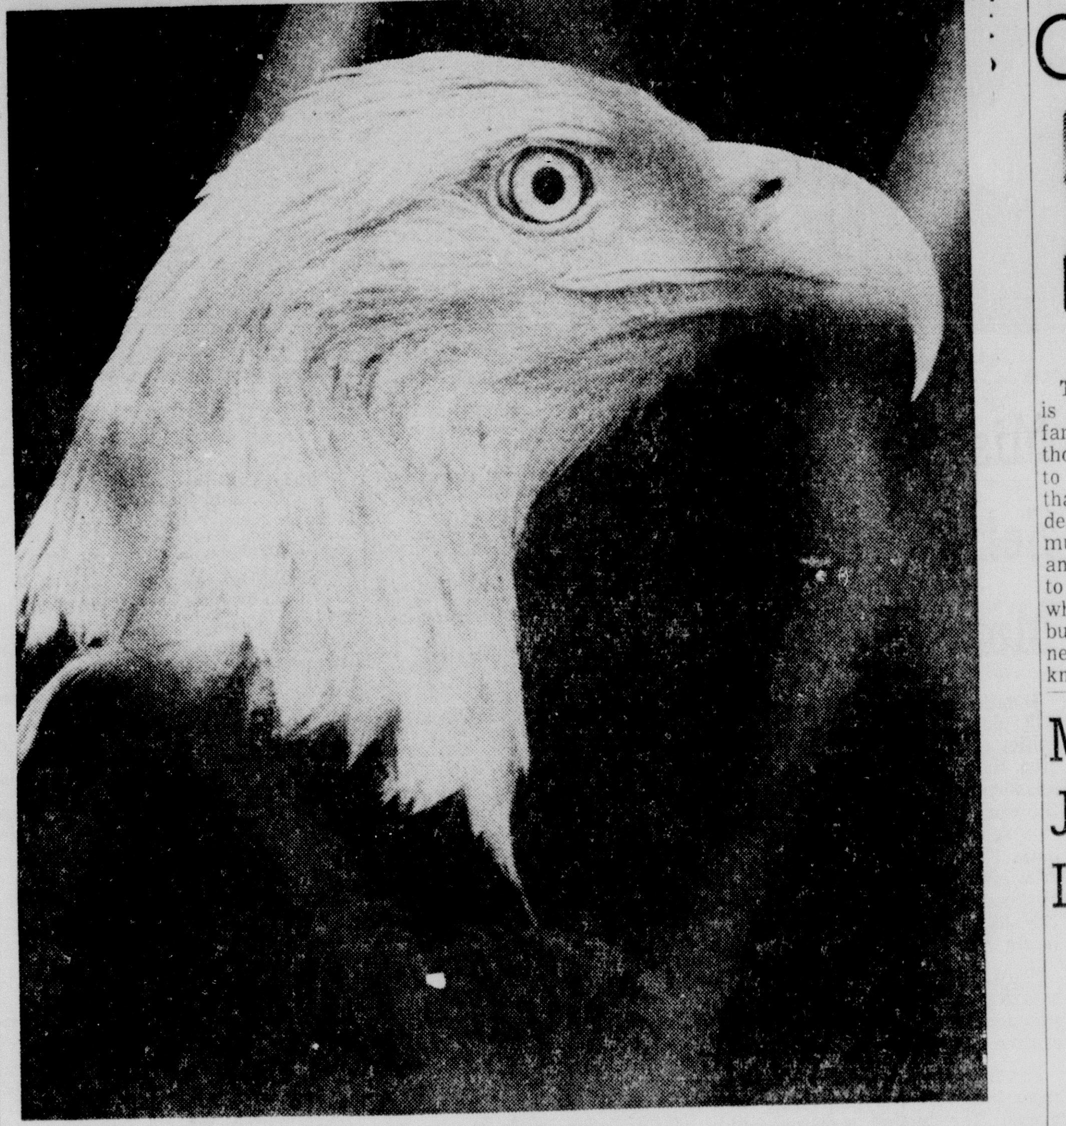
THE BRIDGE AT ANDAU, by James A. Michener (Random House, $3.50).

The Mother of Josef Toth was dead. A thoughtless remark made among guests at her home one evening killed her. The remark—"Everywhere you look you see the Russian flags. I long for the old Hungarian flag." Mrs. Toth was taken away from her home the next day by men who came in a truck. Mrs. Toth, a good-natured, healthy, jovial type woman was returned to her home and family six months later, a broken shell of what she once was. She died of exhaustion, starvation and torture. For Josef, a boy of 18, the Hungarian revolt started with his Mother's death.

The members of the AVO, who guarded Radio Budapest with machine guns, were a little surprised, but not much concerned about the small group of students that gathered outside the barred door of the radio station. They were not even greatly concerned when the group began to grow larger, and the noise became louder. They were amused and laughed at the demands of the students that they be allowed to come in and broadcast their thoughts and views to the people of Hungary. So, it was with amazement that the hated AVO men saw a small group of young men come at them firing machine guns through a forgotten tunnel. Thus the revolt of the Hungarian people against their Russian oppressors was initiated, and a chain of horrible events was started which led many Hungarians to the famous Bridge at Andau.

The Bridge at Andau became more than just an escape route for refugees from a world of oppression. It became a symbol of Hungary's desire to be free. At the Bridge at Andau James Michener spent many hours, talked with many people and sifted many stories to bring to his readers a first hand, true account of the lives of the Hungarian people under Russian domination.

Those who have enjoyed Mr. Michener's Bridges of Toko-ri and Tales of the South Pacific, which won a Pulitzer Prize, and from which the musical, South Pacific, was adapted, will know there are hours of good reading in store for the readers of this his latest true adventure novel.



'OLD BALDY'

Striking Photograph Is Often 'Just To Be Had'

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

This interesting and striking portrait of a bald eagle was submitted by one of our staff photographers, John Fogleman. His contribution proves that a trip to our zoo in Bernstein park can be very rewarding if we take a camera and keep our eyes open for picture possibilities. For along with "Old Baldy," he got several nice shots of the other animals.

The usual complaint about shooting pictures of the animals is that the wire screen is in the way and that it might spoil the picture. However, notice what the wire screen does to the above picture. It gave the picture more quality and added an odd looking frame to the head of the eagle.

John Fogleman said that he held his camera lens approximately six inches away from the wire and tried to shoot so that his main subject was centered through the hole before the lens. Shooting at F-11, he also made the wire screen go out of focus, but yet maintained enough depth of focus to get his subject completely sharp. He used a F 2.8 Rollieflex with 50th shutter speed and developed in DK-60.

Let me assure you that a trip to our zoo is very interesting as well as informative. Just to stand and watch the monkeys a little while will bring a chuckle and also may give you a cute picture, if you have your camera cocked and ready for shooting.

Try it today. Even if you don't get a picture, the exercise and air will do you good. (You might even get a good picture to send in to this column.)

Guide To Good Reading Now At The Ouachita Parish Public Library

FRANCES FLANDERS, Librarian

Today is Mother's Day and it is also the last day of American family week. For that reason I thought it would be appropriate to call to your attention again that a family may have a great deal of pleasure and be drawn much closer together by sharing and enjoying good books. The time to start this sharing of books is when your children are young, but if you didn't start then, it is never too late. If you do not know how to go about this sharing of reading pleasure, the library has a number of books that will tell you just how to start such a program in your family. Two of these were written by Annis Duff and tell of her experiences with books for her children. The first was called "Bequest of Wings" and is a thrilling account of the pleasure she had found in books for her two children. The second book which was released last year, is called "Longer Flight" and tells how she uses books with her children who are now teenagers.

We have heard so much about the problem of comic books and their harmful effect on children. I certainly think they are bad for children, but I feel strongly that parents would have no comic book problem if they provided enough good books for their children to read. This does not mean that you need to purchase these books, but it does mean that parents should bring their children regularly to the library and see that they always have enough library books at home to offer them a choice in reading matter.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

One of the finest projects which a national woman's magazine has undertaken in a long time was done this winter by a magazine with a large circulation. They employed three of the best children's librarians in the country to prepare a list of the 100 best books for children. When the list was published in the magazine, it had such a fine response that the publishers have not put it out in pamphlet form. This book list can be ordered for 15 cents and if you call the library we will be glad to tell you where to get a copy. I wish the library could afford to purchase one for every family in Ouachita parish.

It is a wonderful list and is divided into sections corresponding to the interests of children of different ages. The first section is called "First Rhymes and Pictures." It includes such favorites as "Johnny Crow's Garden" by L. Leslie Brooke, Caldecott's "Picture Books" and the Mother Goose books. The next group is called Picture and Picture-Story Books". It includes such books as "Millions of Cats" by Wanda Gag, the Peter Rabbit books and "The Little House" by Virginia Lee Burton. The third group is called "First Fantasy - For Reading Aloud." Here are found such delightful titles as "The Magic Fishbone" by Charles Dickens, "Rabbit Hill" by Robert Lawson and "Winnie the Pooh" by A. A. Milne. The next group consists of more advanced books of fantasy such as "Alice in Wonderland," "The Wind in the Willows" and "Uncle Remus." Space doesn't permit me to publish the entire list, but I do hope that many of you will want to get one for yourself. Everyone of these books will give to a child a great reading experience and that is certainly what everyone wants for their children.

CONCENTRATE ON YOUTH

An age which we are concentrating on this year at the library is that of the young people. In planning our new library buildings we are planning a special young people's section in each building. Young people in library terminology means the great number of people in our society from the ages of 13 to 19. This number is growing every year and libraries are becoming more and more aware of the needs of this group. They are too advanced in their thinking for children's books but are not ready for adult books. Young people want books of adventure, archeology, art, atomic science, mountain climbing, exploration of space, flying, music, stories of family life and a great many other subjects. We have recently purchased copies of the list called "Books for the Teen Age" published annually by the New York Public Library. Everyone on our staff has a copy of this list and is busy reading the books, so that we will be better equipped to work with the young people during the coming summer vacation.

TEEN-AGE GUIDE

This would also be a fine list for teen - agers to order as a guide for their own reading. It can be purchased from the New York Public Library, Fifth avenue and 42nd street, New York, 18, New York for the price of 25 cents. We were very happy when we received this list to note that we had in our library collection most of the 1500 titles listed on it.

The relationship between parent and child should be a happy one. If there are conflicts in your home maybe a book can help you set them straight. The library has a vast collection of material on the subject of family relationships. If you need this type of material, someone on our staff will be glad to help you select it.

McClellan And Jackson Cited In 2 New Books

Two of the most controversial generals of the Civil War—McClellan and Jackson—receive sympathetic treatment in two of the many current books about the conflict of '61-'65.

Warren W. Hassler, Jr. is the author of General George B. McClellan, subtitled "Shield of The Union," (Louisiana State U.). Frank Vandiver wrote Mighty Stonewall (McGraw-Hill) the story of the religious leader of the Second Corps of the Army of Northern Virginia.

These two generals opposed each other on two major battlefields. In the Seven Days Battle McClellan got the worst of it. At Antietam, Jackson was the one who had to retire. Neither victory could be called decisive.

The men were poles apart on every count. Jackson was quick and decisive, McClellan cautious, sometimes apparently timid.

Jackson died midway in the war of pnuemonia from wounds he received at Chancellorsville from his own men. McClellan was relieved of command soon after Antietam in '62 and lived to be governor of New Jersey.

Hassler depicts McClellan as the victim of Civil War politics. Not all fans will go along with him, although Hassler makes out a good case for Little Mac, who was touched with the Napoleonic complex.

'Home Before Dark' Absorbing Novel

By RECA JASPER

HOME BEFORE DARK, by Eileen J. Bassing (Random House, Inc., $3.50).

Charlotte Bronn goes to the hospital for insane less than an animal" as her husband later describes her, and returns home more than a year later a white-haired woman of 25, to try to regain her place in a normal world.

As she and her husband spin along the highway to the close college community life, she is tetering on the brink of sanity and insanity.

Charlotte Bronn sorely needs the help of her husband, a college professor, to return fully awakened to society. Instead of her family helping her in her battle to reality, she is rejected by her husband; her stepsister slyly pretends to welcome her home while seeking to make permanent her temporary status as hostess of the house and companion of Charlotte's husband.

The dominating stepmother with the rest of the family, helps make Charlotte as much of a prisoner as if she were in the mental hospital.

Charlotte is supported in her efforts to regain sanity, not by her selfish family but by people who know what it means to be ostracized for refusal to conform — Jake, the Jewish faculty member, Jed, the boozy lobsterman, and Ham, her wealthy ex-suitor.

The confused, frightened girl sinks to the depths of a seemingly bottomless pit of insanity before she starts her upward climb. Her battle, which she alone can fight, is told with great understanding and feeling by the author, Eileen Bassing, who, after her own first marriage at sixteen, did extensive reading in the fields of psychoanalytic, psychiatric and medical literature. This is one of the best treatments of this type of subject we have seen.

Art, Music, Literature Sway Huge Audience At Joliet, Ill.

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—Imagine a place with a population of, say, 4,500, where every single person reads an average of over five books a month, where there are two permanent orchestras and a band, where art classes are held daily.

And that isn't all: Music comes with the meals. Potted plants, sometimes cut flowers, decorate every available niche. Original oils, watercolors and sketches are spread out in all the rooms, halls and corridors and on the walls.

Walls they are, too — that's the hitch. It may sound too good to be true, but there is such a place. It is Stateville, at Joliet, where Illinois holds tight to its toughest criminals.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen is the subject of a book, "Warden Ragan of Joliet" (Dutton), out on Monday, by Gladys A. Erickson, with forewords by Ragen and Harry Reutlinger and containing, incidentally, some frank, dissenting and uncensored opinions of a couple of the hardest-boiled inmates, like Roger Touhy who cannot be persuaded to like his prison even with all the books, music and pretty flowers.

Suppose this is a "captive" audience — is that where the word originated? Even so, the people don't have to read, but they do read; they don't have to play in the orchestra or paint pictures, but they do play and paint.

What does it do for them? Warden Ragen, a tall, husky, quiet man who looks as though he could take anything in his stride, told me on a New York visit:

"It takes their minds off their troubles. It supplants the unlawful, improper concerns that bother them."

It was the warden who started the flower gardening. Prisoners now set out 500,000 plants a year, and many of them, once returned to civilian life, earn good money in greenhouses.

"They throw themselves into these activities," the warden said. "They act as though they owned the little plot of ground they tend. I've seen men who were bad mess ups, who simply could not get along with their fellows, but changed their ways remarkably when they had flowers to grow.

"The library has about 22,000 volumes. All but about 1,000 of the men read regularly. The branches in the cellhouses distribute catalogues every week, the men indicate what books they want, and they get them."

Law books are popular here, as in most prisons, for the men think they may figure out a way to win freedom. They also like popular novels, historical and romantic. Crime fiction is barred.

Every prisoner has a set of earphones and is allowed to take his pick from three radio programs, again with crime topics barred. There are numerous requests for such programs as the Metropolitan Opera, the New York Philharmonic and the music festivals in Chicago.

"An Italian bandmaster comes in every day," the warden continued, "and works with the band which consists of several scores of instruments, and the orchestras, of about 10 men apiece."

Art classes result in the display of pictures all over the place, in recreation and dining halls, and in the quarters of the warden and his assistants.

"I have myself," he said, "a very fine 'Blue Boy,' or so I'm told by people who should know, that was copied for me by one of our art students and that I think is beautiful."

The men do some writing, but they are not allowed to send anything out to publishers during their terms. However, they have their own magazine, named for the one everlasting preoccupation of them all, "Time," which prints news and also short stories and poems. Did he ever have any writers there?

"Novelists, no. But writers, yes" — he gave me a smile—"newspapermen, yes. People in every field get into trouble."

Overnight Hit Songs Doubtful

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK, May 11 (UP) — Chances of an overnight hit song becoming a popular standard are poor because most of these tunes are shallow and written around a gimmick.

The songs that are sung or played from generation to generation often got off to a mild start and became popular classics through gradual public acceptance.

And unfortunately many record artists use these evergreens as the flip side of a record presenting a new song. This technique possibly was used by the Fontane Sisters whose Dot recording of "I'm Stickin' With You" is backed by a fine version of the oldie, "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

Another Dot artist, Sanford Clark, has a ho - hum song called "Darling Dear" which flips over on a standard, "The Glory of Love," that has much more substance.

Louis Prima falls back on an old song, "Baby, Won't You Please Come Home," that is exceptionally well done. Prima gets good support from Keely Smith, Sam Butera and the Witnesses on this Capitol single.

Sarah Vaughn, whose Mercury album, "Great Songs from Hit Shows," is in heavy demand, has chosen one of these ever - popular tunes, "Poor Butterfly," as a come - on single for the LP.

And one of the all - time hillbilly classics, "Cool Water," is tastefully presented by the Four Tunes on the Jubilee label.

Record of the Week — "On Forgotten Street" by Don Rondo (Jubilee). Good lyrics and solid music by Sid Wayne and Al Frisch sung by a new artist with much promise.

Turntable Tips — Janis Paige has an earful coupling of "I Hadn't Anyone Till You" and "My Baby Just Cares for Me" (Bally) . . . Patience and Prudence are back in the hit field with "We Can't Sing Rhythm and Blues" backed by "Dreamers' Bay" (Liberty). Good arrangements . . . Del Wood's "Hot Happy & Honky" is a fast moving LP of exhilarating honky - tonk piano tunes (RCA - Victor) . . . And "Crescent City," mostly little tone poems by Paul Weston plus a couple of Dixie standards, is a tribute to New Orleans by Weston and his orchestra (Columbia.)

Opera Evening Listed Tuesday, Tech Workshop

The Tech Music Department's Opera Workshop will present its second program of the year in Howard auditorium on Tuesday, May 14, at 8 p.m. This program entitled "An Evening of Opera" will consist of three scenes from grand opera, and the one-act comic opera, "Bastian and Bastienne" by Mozart. While the Opera Workshop is under the joint direction of A. E. Tellinghuisen and Mary Elaine Wallace of the Tech Music Department Voice Division, this particular program which will be sung in English under the personal direction of Mrs. Wallace.

Two well - known seniors will open the evening with an excerpt from Verdi's "Aida". Ruth Knotts mezzo - soprano from Ruston, will sing the role of Amneris in a duet scene with Beth Dawkins, soprano, from Farmerville, who will appear as Aida.

Joanne Lay of Homer who, with Miss Dawkins, Ben Laney and others, is remembered for her performance in "Oklahoma" will do a solo scene from "Il Trovatore" by Verdi. In this scene she will sing the famous "Stride la vampa" aria of Azucena, the Spanish gypsy.

The third short excerpt will star Mellie Jo Jefcoat, freshman from Hilly, and Ben Laney, freshman from Junction City, Arkansas, in a scene from "Romeo and Juliet" by Gounod. The scene will include the beautiful waltz song sung by Miss Jefcoat and the madrigal duet which follows. Supporting singers in this scene will be Mary Stewart of Minden as Gertrude and Milton Lites, Many, as Gregorio.

Following intermission, a short, comic opera will be presented. This highly stylized opera, "Bastien and Bastienne" by Mozart illustrates the true spirit of 18th century comedy. It is the story of a disconsolate shepherdess, played by soprano, Beth Dawkins; her errant lover, played by mezzo-soprano, Bennie Berry of Bastrop; and a conjuror who makes all things right again, played by John Barham, bass from Columbia.

Birdsell Freed On $3,000 Bond

BATON ROUGE, May 11 (AP) — Dale E. Birdsell, segregationist publisher awaiting trial on three charges, today was freed under $3,000 bond.

Sheriff Bryan Clemmons' office said the 36-year-old former publisher of the pro-segregation Southern Digest magazine posted bond about noon. He has been in parish jail since last August.

Last Nov. 27, Judge Charles A. Holcombe sentenced him to seven years in the state penitentiary after conviction on charges of illegal possession of a hypodermic needle and syringe. The Louisiana Supreme Court reversed the conviction and ordered a new trial.

The East Baton Rouge Parish district attorney's office filed additional charges of theft.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Monroe has more 8 to 12-year-old boys who want to play baseball than the Little League board and the recreation department had figured for. Little League decided to expand, adding a pair of teams to each of two existing leagues here, hoping to balance out the expected number of boys so everyone who failed to make Little League would find places in the Minor League.

The Little League has its complement of boys—180 of them—but there's 205 more anxious to play baseball and they'll go into the Minor League. It's the Minor loop that now poses a problem if the aims of finding a place for every boy is to be attained.

Teams are not operated without sponsors, so some sponsors have to be secured. Adult managers for the teams are required and right now the need for managers is greatest since the Minor League currently can show seven sponsors where five or six more are needed, but only four managers are listed. At least three more are needed right now and more if additional sponsors come in.

Then comes the question of sufficient diamonds to meet the growing demands of the youthful athletes. Commissioner H. W. McSherry has granted Jack Hesketh, recreation director and Little League secretary, permission to lay off the required small-scale diamond on a plot at Forsythe Park. This has been done. But even with the additional diamond to absorb some of the action that has been going to Lions Field, the original Little League park, there are now enough teams in the Little and Minor leagues to provide two games each evening every day of the week except Sunday in order to meet a schedule that will leave neither of the diamonds available for making up possible rained out games.

Baseball, on the pro level at least, has shown a fading of spectator interest, but the way Monroe's youth has responded to the desire to play shows no lagging in interest as a participation sport.

If these boys are to be granted participation rights—we mean all of them, not just a few with the rest being culled to the side because adequate diamonds, team sponsors, and club managers are not available then additional diamonds and more interest among prospective sponsors and club pilots will be needed. Without this adult interest, the man fails the boy.

Little League sponsors pay a fixed rate annually for the support of their clubs. The same is true of the Minor League sponsors who do not have to go in for the more lavish Little League uniforms, and $100 per sponsor in the Minors provides a season of expenses for T-shirts, caps, balls, bats, catcher's equipment, umpire fees, and necessary insurance.

Within the past few days The Frostkraft Employees' United Fund turned over to Little League $250 for park improvement and maintenance. The same organization also donated $125 for Dixie League aid, and the latter circuit, also operated by the Little League board, has received $100 to further its program from the Rotary Club. It is such help as this from organizations that do not sponsor teams that will assure sufficient park facilities for the kids.

Already, it is planned to erect bleachers for the Forsythe diamond. There has been talk of a grandstand and fence to measure up to Lions Field, but whether it's bleachers or a grandstand will depend on what financial help is extended. Lights are needed, too. As two parks will have a crowded schedule this summer, it's possible that another can be lined up in the college area to take the pressure off at Lions' Field and Forsythe where the only small-scale diamonds exist. The older boys, American Legion Juniors, Babe Ruth, etc., will be playing on the larger diamond at Legion Stadium.

We have been among those who have felt lighted parks for night games for the kids are not necessary. We have felt these boys could do their playing during the morning or afternoon. But it has been proven to the Little League board and the recreation department that it's hard enough to find competent adult managers to be with the boys at night games, much less trying to find men who can leave their jobs to work with the kids during the day. In order to easier secure the club skippers, the lights are a necessity.

Already assuring their support as sponsors of Minor League outfits are Spatafora's Pharmacy, Joe Griggs and his M.G.M. Insurance, Hunt and Whitaker, News-Star—World, Seven Up Bottlers, Dew Music Company, and Monroe Glass Company. This is enough to take care of about half of the 205 boys at 15 to the club who want to play baseball. Give the kids a break. Then all will be kept busy under adult supervision at a game they like to play.

Certainly those boys who have been shooting out the park fuse boxes and lights with rifles need some adult supervision, preferably the old fashioned kind. A kid with his mind on his approaching game, the contest itself, and the comradeship of his teammates won't have time to be considering or participating in acts of vandalism.

Yank Rally Nips Orioles, 6 To 4

BALTIMORE, May 11 (UP)—The New York Yankees sent nine men to the plate in the seventh inning and scored four runs to beat the Baltimore Orioles tonight 6-4 and snap their three-game losing streak.

Until the seventh, the Yankees had reached righthander Ray Moore for only four singles and they trailed, 4-1. But with one out rookie Bobby Richardson doubled and Moore walked pinch-hitter Enos Slaughter and Tony Kubek to load the bases. Mike Fornieles replaced Moore and gave up a sacrifice fly to Gil McDougald which scored Richardson from third.

Mickey Mantle, who had popped out and struck out twice in three previous trips, then lined a double high off the right field bleacher wall to drive in Slaughter and Kubek with the tying runs. Oriole Manager Paul Richards ordered Yogi Berra walked intentionally, but Bill Skowron crossed up the strategy by lining a hit to left to score Mantle and put the Yankees ahead.

Bob Grim, the second of three Yankee pitchers, got the victory, his third against two losses. Fornieles was charged with his second defeat in four decisions.

2-STROKE BULGE

Souchak Leading At Spa

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 11 (UP)—Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N.Y. moved into the front spot in the $20,000 Hot Springs Open golf tournament today with a 54-hole score of 207, nine under par for the Arlington course.

Tightly bunched behind Souchak at the 209 mark were seven pros.

They were Bill Casper Jr., Bonita, Calif.; Jack Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.; Peter Thomson, Melbourne, Australia; Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif.; Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex.; Al Besselink, Grossingers, N.Y.; and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

Souchak bogied the 3rd and 12th holes today and had to blast himself out of a trap on the 17th, but everything else the ex-Duke University football star did was exactly right all day long.

From the front of the fourth green, he chipped a 25-yard seven iron shot into the cup for a birdie three. On the sixth hole he was on the fringe of the green in two and used two short putts to pick up a birdie four.

At the ninth hole he repeated the performance with a chip shot almost to the cup again and sank a six-inch putt for a birdie four.

On the 10th hole, Souchak appeared in trouble when he overshot the green, but used a seven iron to chip back within six inches of the cup for another birdie four.

On the 14th Souchak sank an 18-foot putt for a birdie three and on the 18th hole he again seemed in trouble when he overshot the green on his second shot, but this time demonstrated deadly skill with his putter, using it to make his return approach shot of about 20 yards to roll within two feet of the cup. Then he sank it for a four.

Techmen Split Baseball Fare With McNeese

RUSTON, La., May 11 (AP) — Charles Decker hurled McNeese to a 3-0 victory over Louisiana Tech in the first half of a Gulf States Conference doubleheader today but lost the second game when Tech rallied for a 7-6 victory.

Decker gave up four nits in the opener. McNeese scored the winning run in the first inning when Amos Ivey singled, stole second, went to third on a fielder's choice and scored on a passed ball.

Decker was within two outs of winning the nightcap but Tech rallied with four runs on four singles and a double. A single by Eddie Joyce scored pitcher Jess Mercer with the deciding run.

Giants Trip Bums In 15 Innings, 6-5

NEW YORK, May 11 (UP)—Valmy Thomas, an unsung third-string catcher for the New York Giants, smashed his first major league homer with two out in the 15th inning today to give the Giants a 6-5 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who went down to their fourth straight defeat.

Thomas slammed his homer off Don Bessent, Brooklyn's fifth Pitcher, who had blanked the Giants on only one hit from the 12th inning on. Thomas' blow, the Giants' fourth homer during the four hour and 59-minute contest which was played in a steady rain, marked only his second hit of the season. The entire Giant bench rushed to home plate to welcome the Negro catcher after he completed the circuit.

Al Worthington was credited with the victory after relieving Joe Margoneri in the ninth inning and blanking Brooklyn on three hits during the seven innings he worked.

Home runs by Gail Harris, Daryl Spencer and Whitey Lockman off Brooklyn starter Roger Craig helped the Giants to a 5-2 lead after four innings but the Dodgers tied the score with a three-run rally in the sixth.

Tulane Grabs 7th Straight Net Title

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, May 11 (AP) — Tulane romped to its seventh straight Southeastern Conference tennis title today, winning five singles and two doubles championships

Tulane finished with 31 points. Runnerup Louisiana State had 24 and Florida took third with 23. Georgia and Mississippi were tied for fourth with 10 each.

Jose Aguero of Tulane whipped Dick Leslie of Florida 6-3, 6-3 for his second straight conference singles championship.

The slender, little former Brazilian Davis Cupper seldom left the back court against Leslie, who was a match for Aguero in build and court tactics but not ability.

Aguero easily overcame his early mistakes and defeated Leslie in a match that featured long volleys, brilliant returns and accurate lobs shots from both players.

In four years of college competition, Aguero twice has won the number one SEC singles title, twice won the number two singles crown and won one national collegiate championship.

Tulane's brilliant sophomore pair, Ron Holmberg and Crawford Henry, teamed to win the number one doubles crown, whipping Tommy Robinson and Ken Carter of LSU 6-4, 6-1.

Holmberg overcame a 5-2 deficit in the first set and went on to down LSU's Ronnie Fenasci 7-5, 6-3 for the No. 2 singles championship.

In the No 3 finals, Henry lost the first set to LSU's Robinson, then swept the next two sets for a 3-6, 6-1, 6-3 victory.

The match was halted for a half hour after the second set when Robinson had an upset stomach.

Carl Goodman of Tulane lost the first set in the No 4 singles finals to Florida's Dave Shaw, but rallied to win another championship to Tulane 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Lester Sack of Tulane won the No 5 singles crown, trouncing Dan Guzman-Perry of Florida 6-0, 6-3.

Sack teamed with Aguero to take the No. 2 doubles title Florida's Shaw and Buddy Husband led 5-2 in the first set and fluffed a set point as the Green Wave pair rallied to win the first set 9-7, then ran away with the final set 6-0.

Hugh Waters of Florida, who defeated Buddy Gomez of LSU 6-2, 7-5 in the No. 6 singles finals was the only singles champion not a member of the Tulane team.

Gomez teamed with Larry Hammett to win LSU's only championship in the No. 3 doubles, downing Waters and Guzman-Perry of Florida 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Georgia Tech swept the freshman event, winning both singles and the doubles crown. Tech finished with 13 points to nine for Tulane and six for third-place Mississippi State.

SMALL SCALE BIG WINNER—99-pound 18-year-old Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., won the Women's Southern Amateur Golf Tournament yesterday when she defeated Marge Burns, Greensboro, N. C., 5 and 4, in the title finals at Memphis, Tenn. (AP Wirephoto)

Ann Creed Wins Southern Amateur

MEMPHIS, May 11 (AP)—Sub-par golf on the first nine holes gave pretty Clifford Ann Creed, a 88-pound college freshman, the women's southern amateur championship today.

The 18-year-old Louisiana State champion from Opelousas, blessed with a quick 4-up cushion, defeated Marge Burns, the Carolinas champion from Greensboro, N. C., 5 and 4.

Miss Creed, a physical education major at Lamar Tech in Beaumont, Tex., weakened only once. Rattled by a chip that bounced into a deep ditch, she lost three straight holes early in the afternoon side of the 36-hole match. But she steadied in time.

The new southern champ, daughter of Opelousas pro golfer Clifford Creed, fired a 1-under-par 35 on the first nine over the Memphis Country Club course to take her early lead.

Her only really anxious moments came on the 20th. She blasted across the green into a drainage ditch. She conceded that hole, then blew the next two with bogies to fall to 2-up.

Miss Creed's par-4 on the 23rd blocked the rally by the Carolinas champ, a veteran tournament player, and put the Opelousas ace back to 3-up. She closed the match on the 32nd.

Tribe Shades A's On Homer In 8th

CLEVELAND, May 11 (UP)—Al Smith's eight-inning home run gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Athletics today for their fourth straight triumph.

The Indians, however, received another blow when X-rays disclosed that Roger Maris had suffered two cracked ribs in an accident the night before. He was hurt sliding into infielder Milt Graff at second. Dr. Don Kelly said that Maris, the star rookie centerfielder, would be out 10 days to two weeks.

Today's victory was the third of the year for Bob Lemon, although Manager Kerby Farrell removed him in the ninth after Bof Cerv pinch singled. Don Mossi relieved him and retired the side.

The Indians got nine hits off Tom Morgan, who lost his third decision. The Tribe got its first run in the opening inning on a walk to Gene Woodling, an infield out, and a single by Vic Wertz.

The Athletics tied it up in the seventh on a single by Jim Pisoni, a sacrifice by Morgan, and a pinch single by Irv Noren.

Indians Whip Bulldog Foes 6-5 And 3-2

Righthanders "Bo" Laird and Lyle Dorsey elbowed the Northeast Louisiana State Indians to a pair of "squeaker" victories over the Southwestern Bulldogs here yesterday afternoon, 6-5 and 3-2, with rightfielder Mitchell Hughes batting across the winning runs on both ends of the G.S.C. twin bill.

The double triumph snapped a seven-game losing streak for the Tribe, hoisting their season's record to seven wins against eight loses. In confedence action, the Redmen stand on a 4-8 slate.

The setback placed the Bulldogs at the 5-8 stage in GSC play.

Dorsey flipped a three-hitter at the visitors to claim his win in the nightcap.

All three safeties came consecutively in the first inning when Phil Arena rammed to triple into deep right field to bat in the Canines' only runs. Clyde Wolfe and Marvin Leonard, who had singled, scored on the blast.

Shortstop Harry Rushing knotted the affair for the Redskins in the third with a single into shallow center that knocked home Ray Hopper and Jackie Brooks.

Hughes rapped in his second deciding marker on the afternoon with a fourth-frame sacrifice fly that scored Ike McMullen, who had walked, swiped second, and advanced on a wild pitch.

Traveling the distance after his shaky start, Dorsey faced only 21 batters, striking out nine and walking six. It was his second victory of the season.

A five - run outburst by the Indians in the first inning of the opener got Laird under way for his triumph. The ace fireballer allowed eight hits while going the distance.

McMullen belted home two of the runfest tallies with a double that was just inches inside the right field line. 'Sleepy" Reynolds, Jim Laudadio, and Brooks batted across the other chalkings of the run - around which sent starter Willie Baronet from the hill to make room for Sonny Roy.

Southwestern retaliated with lone runs in the second, third, and fourth and a pair in the fifth to deadlock matters.

After going down in three-up - three-down fashion for three innings, the N. L. S. C. crew rattled out another run in the fifth. Hughes lined a single off the end of Wolfe's glove to bat James Mock across the dish with the winning scratch.

Roy was charged with the initial loss while Gene Bacque took the second setback.

The games possibly ended the season for Coach George Luffey's Tribesmen, who have a rained-out contest with Northwestern still on their docket. Should the Demons stay in contention for the loop title, the Northeasters will play the duel on the Natchitoches camus.

Aggie Recruiting Rapped

AUSTIN, Tex., May 11 (UP)—The Southwest Conference today announced it had found Texas A&M College guilty of rules violations involving recruiting of a basketball player from Pawtucket, R.I.

Executive Secretary Howard Grubbs announced the 'finding," and said the conference was asking A&M College President D. W. Williams to take "corrective or disciplinary action" or report to the conference "his reasons for taking no action."

A&M College was placed on probation in May, 1955 and the National Collegiate Athletic Association has refused to rescind its ban agains participation by the College Station, Tex., school in NCAA championship events in all sports.

Southwest Conference representatives, meeting in connection with the conference's spring meet in track, tennis and golf, said A&M violated the rules in two instances involving the Pawtucket, R.I., basketball player.

A statement issued by the conference said the school violated a rule prohibiting the try-out of prospective student athletics.

"A member of the coaching staff observed the tryout of prospective basketball players ardanged for him at Pawtucket, R.I., in April, 1955," the conference said.

Ken Loeffler is basketball coach at Texas A&M.

Grubbs said he was instructed by the conference not to divulge any names in connection with the incident.

He told newsmen the try-out was arranged by a "close associate" of the coach.

"A close associate of the coach, who had recruited prospective players for the coach previously, arranged to have the boys at the gymnasium with his gear, to demonstrate his basketball ability," Grubbs told newsmen.

"There is no indication that the coach actually arranged it," Grubbs added.

The conference also found A&M guilty of violating rules prohibiting excessive financial aid to student athletes, by providing airplane transportation for the athlete to come to College Station from Pawtucket in September, 1955, and a round-trip airplane ticket for him from College Station to Providence, R.I. at Christmas, 1955.

Grubbs said there was a dispute over the Christmas, 1955, plane ticket.

The boy says the coach gave it to him. The coach says he did not," Grubbs told newsmen.

Redlegs Shade Cubs, 5-4 For 10th Straight

CHICAGO, May 11 (UP)—Bob Thurman smashed his third homer of the season to open the ninth inning today and ran the Cincinnati Redlegs' winning streak to 10 games with a 5-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Thurman got into the game as a pinch hitter in the seventh inning when he walked for pitcher Brooks Lawrence. He reached third on consecutive singles by Johnny Temple and Jerry Lynch and scored the tying run on Frank Robinson's sacrifice fly.

Then Thurman remained in the game in right field and Tom Acker took over the pitching to win his second decision of the season. Acker faced only 11 men and struck out six in three innings.

The Redlegs needed only two scoring weapons, the sacrifice fly and the home run. Ed Bailey clouted his second homer for a Cincinnati score in the sixth and both other runs came on sacrifice flies, by Gus Bell in the first and Roy McMillan in the fourth.

Boyer Drives Across Tally To Win Game

ST. LOUIS, May 11 (UP)—Ken Boyer singled home the winning run after two errors in the 10th inning today to give the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-7 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

The loss dropped the Braves into a first-place tie with the Cincinnati Redlegs who defeated Chicago.

Alvin Dark led off the 10th with a grounder that went through second baseman Danny O'Connell's legs for an error. Joe Adcock made an exceptional stab of Stan Musial's hard shot down the first base line, but then threw low and passed Johnny Logan covering second on the attempted double play.

Dark went to third and Musial to second, and Jim King was intentionally walked to load the bases. Boyer, who had a homer in the second, rapped a drive into left field between third and short for the winning run.

The loss went to Ray Crone, the fourth Brave pitcher who came on in the eighth. Starter Warren Spahn was knocked out in the seventh, after Wally Moon's two-run homer — his seventh of the year—put the Cards ahead.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

Final Curtain

The curtain came down on bowling activity this past week with Longview Equipment coming out on top in the Major League. The LECO team finished 9½ points over second place Continental Labs.

Theo Finkbeiner, Robert Creighton, Russell Bater, Bob Creighton, Cecil Moore and Tommy Higgins were the members of the team.

Monroe "66" Oilers were a repeater in the Kegler League, grabbing the crown two years in a row. John Savage, the team captain, has brought his team into the two championships, plus a city championship, in the short time the team has been together.

Al Knipping, John Savage, Welzie Garrett, J. R. Hood, Ed Villa and Al Huffman make up the team. Cloverleaf finished a close second.

In the Ladies' League it was Silverstein in a runaway. Daisy Creighton, Totsie Shoemaker, Bennie Maljery, Myrtle Draughn, and Hazed Bailey jumped into the lead and stayed there.

Slagle - Johnson copped the Industrial League. Larry Dage led the team in its rise to first place.

A most unique battle occurred, however, in the Women's Business League. Delta Music and Joseph's Esso Service ended in a tie for first place. The teams had a three-game roll off with total pins to count another point and what happened? . . . you guessed it . . they tied again.

came out on top. Totsie Shoemaker, Dot Durham,

But in the sudden death roll-off, Delta Music came out on top. Totsie Shoemaker, Dot Durham, Edith Yarbrough and Ora Lee Johnston wore the Delta uniforms.

Angie Canizaro, Annie May Breece, Bennie Mallery and Odie Harris did their fine bowling for Joseph's Esso.

Peggy Grigsby, Lorraine McNabb, Elaine Garland, Sonny Lasuzzo, George Slavant and Bob Roberts ramrodded Louisville Grill to a Thursday night mixed League championship. Louisville Grill edged out second place Slade Oil and Gas for the title.

Southwest Gas ran away with the Industrial Equipment League. Art Smith's team had clear sailing from about mid-season.

Monroe Bowling Center in the last couple of weeks nosed out Schlitz Beer and Henderson Curb Market for the Pioneer Crown.

Keith Moore, Walt Cash, Eddie Fleming, Chuck Anders and Dave Weber were the Bowling Center's big guns.

City Match Playoffs

E. B. Peddy, averaging a cool 195, knocked off his opponents one by one to win the city match game championship.

It was the second straight year for E. B. to come home a winner. Sonny Durham finished second by a small margin over third place Theo Finkbiener.

Holds Banquet

The Tuesday Night Ladies League held its annual bowling banquet last night and a big time was had by all. June Girod was reelected president of the league. Other officers were Vera Painich, vice-president; Erma Peddy, Secretary; Lois Waldron, Treasurer; Marjorie Pitts, sergeant-at-arms; and Jo Ann Higgins, publicity chairman.

High individual game honors went to Jean McMullen, who had a 264. Norma Brown won both the high individual series, 586, and high average, 172, while Clydene Parker won the achievement award.

So Long For A While

With this column we sign 30 for the current bowling season. And in case you don't know what 30 means in newspaper language, it is the final one for now.

We have enjoyed doing the column tremendously and we can only hope you have enjoyed it half as much as we have doing it. To all of you go our heartfelt thanks for your help and support.

Six-Run Cushion Aids Haddix Win

PITTSBURGH, May 11 (UP) — Southpaw Harvey Haddix, backed by a six-run outburst in the first inning by his Philadelphia teammates, spaced 10 hits today to send the Pittsburgh Pirates down to their sixth straight defeat, 7-2.

Going the distance for his second victory, Haddix displayed good control with his fast ball and curve. He struck out five, issued no walks and bore down in the clutches.

Willie Jones' bases - loaded single produced two runs in the first inning and Stan Lopata followed with a three-run homer off loser Bob Friend. Haddix, getting the seventh hit in that frame, drove in Ed Bowman with the sixth tally. Bowman homered off reliever Laurin Pepper in the sixth inning for the other Philadelphia run. It was his third homer of the season.

WHITE SULPHUR NEAR

Ancient Golfers Don't Fade Away

By GEORGE BOWEN

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 11 (AP) — Sam Snead Ben Hogan, Jim Demaret, Billy Burke, Henry Picard, Henry Cotton — Sounds like a roll call for a golfing hall of fame for the past quarter of a century doesn't it?

But they're still something more than museum pieces and will be hitting golf balls together in the 10th annual White Sulphur Open next Thursday through Sunday.

And it's no exhibition for there are few who would count out in advance particularly Snead, Hogan and Demaret even in a field of 48 that includes some of the best younger players.

The active crop entered in the 72- hole tournament for prizes totalling $10,000 includes Al Balding, winner of the Miami Beach Open, Billy Casper, winner of the Phoenix and Kentucky Derby opens, Dow Finsterwald, champ at Tucson, Ed Furgol the Caliente leader, Jay Hebert, double winner in the Bing Crosby and Texas tourneys, plus such threats as Julius Boros, Mike Fetchick, Ed Oliver, Mike Souchak, and Peter Thomson.

The older group in the White Sulphur has won every golf tournament of note and in some events as the masters has dominated it. Picard, Demaret, Snead, Hogan and Claude Harmon have accounted for 10 of the 21 Masters.

Burke, who comes from Clevland, won the U. S. Open way back in 1931. Hogan has since won it four times and Boros and Furgol also scored in it.

Picard annexed the P. G. A. in 1939 and White Sulphur entrants who have followed suit are Vic Ghezzi, Snead, Bob Hamilton, and Hogan. Hogan turned the trick and Snead three times.

British Open champions in the field are Cotton, 1934, 1937 and 1948, Snead 1946, Hogan 1953, and Thomson for the past three years.

The caliber of the White Sulphur competition is pointed up further in golf's list of leading money winners. Five of them, Hogan, Demaret, Snead, Boros and Bob Toski have topped it nine out of the last 14 years.

The roll call of Vardo. Trophy winners, awarded for the lowest scoring average in a season, also finds Snead, Hogan, Demaret and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, another White Sulphur registrant, on it 10 of the past 17 years.

Each pro will be joined for the last 36 holes of the tournament by three amateurs in a simultaneous tournament.

Coast 'Sure' Of Major Clubs

Los Angeles, 'Frisco Await Giants, Brooks

SAN FRANCISCOP May 11 (AP)—Mayor George Christopher reported today both he and owner Horace Stoneham have laid down preliminary terms under which the New York Giants may shift to San Francisco next season with the Brooklyn Dodgers moving to Los Angeles.

"If we are fortunate, there may be a major league decision in July, but it won't be announced until after Aug. 30," Christopher told reporters.

In New York, Stoneham said "it is not time to even discuss any franchise transfers, adding any possible move "would depend on conditions." He indicated he hoped to remain in New York "everything else being equal."

President Walter O'Malley of the Brooklyn Dodgers, when asked about a published story that the Dodgers already had told Los Angeles officials they would play all their 1958 home games at Los Angeles, commented: "I'm not going to dignify that by any reply at this time."

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick, who yesterday ordered the owners to cease public discussion of any possible franchise changes, explained at his home in Bronxville, N. Y., today that he wanted to quiet the talk because "this Roman holiday of speculation is harmful to both leagues."

ON KALLIO CARD

Aussie Shoots For Crown

FRANK HURLEY

Another challenger for the Louisiana state heavyweight wrestling championship makes his appearance here tomorrow night on a promising three-event card at Kallio's Arena.

Frank Hurley, a 225-pound Australian villian who appeared on the local mat some months ago, will be returning for his first check at the statewide crown presently held by Arabian Prince Emir.

Hurley has been campaigning in the United States for over seven years. During this time he has met some to the top stars of the nation, always with his eye on a shot at Lou Thesz for the world's heavyweight crown.

The rugged style of bone-twisting used by the curley - headed Aussie usually makes him unpopular with the local fandom. Such was certainly true in his debut on the Kallio mat. Frank explains that he is only taking advantage of every chance which comes his way. He believes that is the only method of handling present day wrestlers.

But for skullduggery the champ, Emir, can hold his ground with the best. In his first two appearances here he used a knee guard to rough-up the faces of favorites Jack and George Curtis and his submission holds usually bring a fast cry of "calf rope" from any opponent. Toss in the art of hair-pulling, biting, and finger-ripping and you have a complete picture of the Louisiana king.

It should be interesting to see what happens when the pair gets together with the belt at stake.

Another unusual match fills the opening slot—a pair of heroes meet. Nelson Royal, who made an last week, takes on Bill Barney. Both grapplers are well - liked by Kallio's patrons and an outstanding match is expected to result. The one-fall battle will have a 30-minute time limit.

Rounding out the card will be a semi-final duel between former champ Jack Curtis and Phil Brummett. They will travel a 60-minute limit with two falls needed for a victory.

Answer On Score Off For Few Days

CLEVELAND, May 11 (UP)—Dcotors once again postponed X-rays of Herb Score's injured eye and left unanswered for a few more days the question of whether he will regain full vision soon.

"Score continues to improve," Dr. Don Kelly and Dr. Charles Thomas reported in their latest medical bulletin today.

"The hemorrhage . . . is steadily clearing. There is no longer any swelling around the nose or eye socket," the terse bulletin said.

Despite "encouraging recovery reports," Dr. Thomas, an eye specialist who was called into the case soon after Score was carried from the field, put off until next week a definite diagnosis of the eye injury.

"We hope that within the early part of next week we will be able to make a more accurate evaluation of the extent of injury," the doctors said in a joint statement,

Dr. Thomas used an ophthalmoscope again today but the hemodrhage still had not cleared enough to permit a good view of the retina.

"That continues to be our principal worry. Until the 'curtain' goes and we can see that, no accurate diagnosis is possible."

King Hairan Wins Delaware

CAMDEN, N.J., May 11 (AP)—King Hairan, toting top weight of 124 pounds, romped to victory in the $25,000 added Delaware Handicap at Garden State today.

Brookfield farms' Irate was second followed by Clem from Mrs. Adele L. Rand's stable. King Hairan paid $7.60, $4.20 and $4.20 across the board. Irate returned $4.80 and $4.00, while Clem paid $3.80 for show.

STAMP NEWS

US Post Office Will Observe Letter Week

"I'm gonna sit right down and write myself a letter," may be an old tune, but the basic theme will be emphasized during this country's participation in the first International Letter Writing Week, Oct. 6-12.

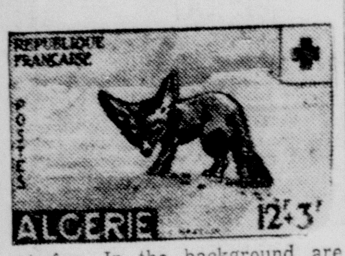
All 96 countries in the Universal Postal Union will take part in the observance which will pay tribute to the postal systems of the world.

The U. S. Post Office Dept. will display posters promoting International Letter Writing Week in its 38,000 post offices.

The U. P. U. which got its official start in 1874 was a direct result of an international meeting held 10 years earlier through the efforts of Montgomery Blair, Abraham Lincoln's postmaster general.

From behind the Iron Curtain comes word that Romania has issued a series of eight stamps depicting flowers of the Carpathian Mountains. The flowers illustrated are as follows: rhododendron daphne, lily leontopodium alpinum, gentiana aculis, dianthus collizonus, grisb and anemone.

Algeria has issued two new stamps honoring the Red Cross. The 12 franc plus 3 shows a desert fox. In the background are Mount Gara Kimn and Fort Lugeuad — the gateway to the Sahara Desert. The 15 franc plus 5 depicts a stork flying over the city of Setif.



The Federation of Malaya soon will issue a new set of 15 stamps. Four of the stamps will be common to all Malay States and the settlements of Malacca and Penang. Some of the designs will feature pineapples, a rice field, copra, a mosque, a railway, a tiger a fishing craft, aborigines, government offices, weaving, coats of arms and portraits of appropriate rulers.

Mothers Day

This Mother's Day should be primarily a day of warm feelings and fellowship devoted to paying tribute to mother. For all of us it is a time of loving thoughts or reverent memories. Celebrating the day together will be Lou Lemert, who spends many happy hours with her mother, Mrs. Harry Lemert and grandmother, Mrs. C. P. Ready to celebrate this particular day are Mrs. Malcolm Biedenharn with her daughters, Mrs. C. D. Oakley, Jr., (left) and her son Clay, and Mrs. Miles Sager, who sits between her two sons, Harlan and Mike. Day Oakley is by her grandmother.

Mrs. Jack Peat and four children are seen in an attractive spot in the back yard of their home on Lakeside Drive. She has baby son, David, while Mimi holds "Mewer" for the picture. Jack Jr., and Bobby are at either side of their mother.

The Portrait Is Important

A bride's formal wedding portrait is something that forms a part of her home decoration for many years. So she wants it to be the most flattering possible picture of both her and the dress.

The appointment with the professional photographer should be made far in advance, especially if it's in the busy season. Many photographers will go to the store where the dress was bought to get their picture. This way, the dress is sure to be unwrinkled and the background correct.

Wear the wedding shoes and foundation or nothing will fit properly.

Wear the kind of make-up the photographer recommends, but don't, in any case, let the lipstick get pitch black. Get plenty of sleep for several nights before and do not attempt to take friends to the studio.

Arrangement Accents Beauty Of Small Stones

Diamonds this year have a new advantage. However small, they can look larger because of gem-on-gem arrangements that provide extra brilliance. This will be happy news to couples who want a diamond as a memento of courtship days, but can afford only a modestly-sized one.

Another new note is provided by diamonds cut in heart shapes, available from a quarter-carat up. These have contour wedding bands to go with them.

Yellow gold is the news in metals to go with the diamonds. It's excellent for an heirloom type wedding ring.

ASPARAGUS IN BLANKETS

NEW YORK —(UP) — Here's a novel way to serve fresh asparagus. Roll biscuit dough out to a circle about 12 inches in diameter. Cut into six wedges, like pie slices. Place several cooked asparagus spears at the wide end of each wedge and roll up. Place on a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes. Serve hot with a creamy cheese sauce.

Bridal Parties In New Orleans Honoring Miss Blanks Of Interest

Of interest here are the prenuptial parties being given in New Orleans honoring Miss Virginia Blanks, bride-elect of Richard Simoni. Their wedding here, in early June, will be an outstanding event of the summer season.

The New Orleans Country Club was the setting for a luncheon given by Mrs. Raymond Terry honoring Miss Blanks. A bride doll surrounded by white roses and stock formed the centerpiece for the table.

The guests included with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Edel Blanks, Mrs. Kenneth Brown, Mrs. Charles Graves, Mrs. William Marburg, of St. Louis, and Newcomb classmates, Miss Julia Williams and Miss Linda Hornbeak, of Monroe, Miss Sarah Young, of Bastrop, Miss Carol Downes and Miss Mary Holt Myrick, of Rayville, Miss Sally DeBen, of New Orleans, Miss Suellen Street, of Alexandria and Miss Mary Ozment, of Eutaw, Ala.

Miss Ozment's compliment was a luncheon earlier in the week, at an up town tea room with eight college friends as guests. Miss Sarah Young was hostess for 10 at 1 o'clock on Sunday at a downtown restaurant, honoring the bride-elect.

Mrs. Loughridge And Mrs. Greene Caddoan Club Hostesses For May

Beautiful arrangements of spring flowers were used to decorate the Community Center in Oak Ridge when Mrs. Leland Loughridge and Mrs. G. L. Greene entertained the Caddoan Club for their May meeting. Mrs. W. D. Baugh opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Mason McEnery led the salute to the flag.

When the roll was called each member answered by showing a piece of old glass and telling a little of its history. Some very old and beautiful pieces were shown that had quite an interesting history.

Mrs. John Barr received the Yard of the Month award. The social committee reported that arrangements had been made for the club to have its annual social at the Holiday Inn in Monroe and plans were given to the members.

Plans for a celebration for the 150th anniversary of Methodism in Oak Ridge was told by Mrs. W. M. Nolan who asked that the club cooperate with the community in making this an eventful occasion in August.

Mrs. S. P. Williams gave the highlights of the monthly bulletin and called to the group's attention, that the Caddoan Club had won first place at State Convention in Baton Rouge on their yearbook. Second place for press book was also awarded to the Caddoan Club. Both of these awards were in the junior division.

Mrs. Norman McDuffie gave the planned paper of her aunt, Mrs. C. N. McDuffie. Mrs. McDuffie had a most interesting talk on genealogy as a past time and a profession and gave some important pointers for anyone to follow in tracing their ancestry.

The group closed the meeting with the junior pledge and singing of "Louisiana."

Attending were Mrs. William Shaw, Mrs. Will Rolfe, Mrs. Henry Pipes, Jr., Mrs. Loughridge, Mrs. Clark M. Williams, Mrs. Mason McEnery, Mrs. S. P. Williams, Mrs. Norman Simmons, Mrs. W. Fitch, Mrs. R. E. Barham, Jr., Mrs. Glen Greene, Mrs. J. E. Files, Mrs. W. D. Baugh, Mrs. J. G. Cabuck, Mrs W. M Nolan, Mrs. W. P. Smith and guest, Mrs. McDuffie, Mrs. R. E. Barham, Sr. and Mrs. Rae Payne.

Window Shades Protect Home Furnishings

VAN NUYS, Calif. —(UP) — A local firm has introduced acetate window shades which protect home furnishings against fading and sun damage but don't block the view.

The manufacturer said the tint in the blinds is sufficient to prevent or retard sun blistering of woodwork and furniture, and fading of draperies, carpets and upholstery. Colors, which include smoke gray, royal blue and jade green, can be selected both for their decorative effect and their density, depending on the amount of sunlight entering the room.

The wedding will be an event in June. The bridegroom - to - be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Peters of Crowville UMBRELLA—Ruffly umbrella comes in kit form to make up for bridal shower centerpiece. Roses dress up tablecloth.

BELL CENTERPIECE—Homemade bell centerpiece with ribbon and flower bouquets is attractive decoration for shower.

Centerpiece Is Attraction At Bridal Shower

Bridal showers are among the helpful and entertaining events that precede a wedding. And most girls find that they give quite a few bridal showers before they retire from the field in favor of their daughters.

The centerpiece is the big attraction. It can be either homemade or made up from a prepared kit. One such kit is in the form of an umbrella. It's festooned with lace and ribbons. It has matching invitations, place cards and nut cups.

A homemade one follows the wedding bell theme.

Pastel green paper makes the bells, a lacy ruffle goes around the edges. Silver letters spell out the names of the engaged couple. A base could be made of a small hat box made of pastel paper.

The bells are taped to wire or dowels and inserted in a flower holder. Four or five fluffy bows taped around the bells will conceal the flower holder.

The centerpiece is surrounded with sasheen ribbons, bows and tiny flowers. These can be given to guests as favors.

DON'T FORGET FILM

If you're off to parts unknown on your honeymoon, the luggage should include lots of camera film. Nothing is more aggravating than being unable to get the size and kind you want in a back-road filling station.

Art Festival At Forsythe Park

The Art Festival will again be held at Forsythe Park on May 19 from one until five p.m. Every artist in and out of the City of Monroe is invited to exhibit his works. All mediums of art including charcoal, pastel, watercolor, oil, sculpture, ceramics, and copper tooling will be accepted. There is to be no judging, and there will be no limit on the number of pieces to be exhibited.

Along with the amateur and the professional artists, the various schools are also urged to enter their students' work. From Monroe, Northeast Louisiana State College, Neville, Ouachita, and West Monroe High Schools will be represented. To this date, and with this cooperation, the Art Festival is expected to be the most successful exhibition held in north Louisiana.

The exact location of the display will be the same as in previous years. The ground near the American Legion Home, just south and across the street from the swimming pool will be the exhibiting site.

Artists are advised that there will be no wires strung in the park for the hanging of pictures. Each artist will be responsible for bringing his own display equipment. Easels, tables, chairs, and sticks to prop up the paintings will do fine. The artist should arrive an hour earlier than the one o'clock opening for the purpose of choosing his plot and setting up the display.

Further information may be had by calling or visiting the Northeast Louisiana League of Artists in Monroe at 403 Louisville avenue. The phone number is FA 3-1490.

When ironing, protect zippers and placket fabrics by laying a pressing cloth on them. Iron gently.

Miss Coley To Wed H. L. Nelson

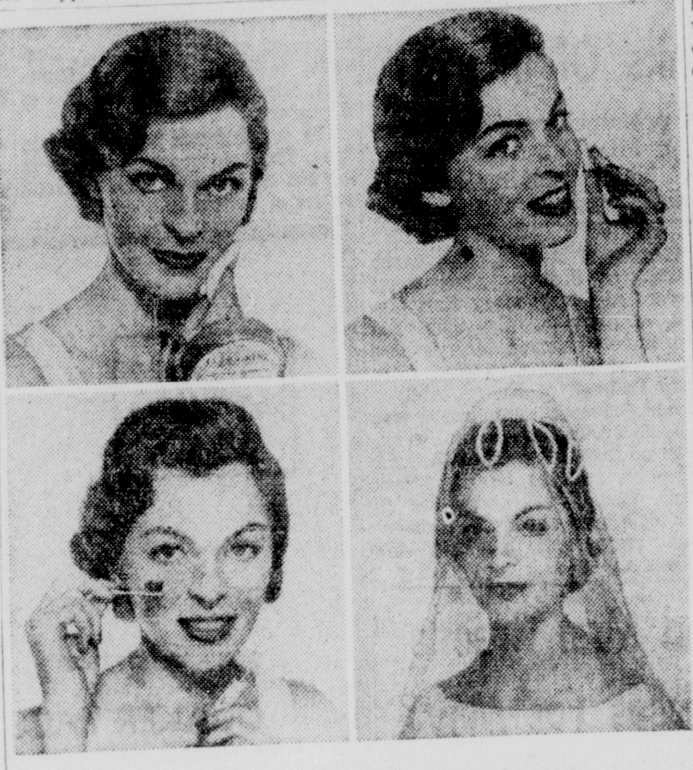
The wedding of Miss Flora Mae Coley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen L. Coley of Natchez, to Henry L. Nelson, son of Mrs. Mary Nelson, of Vidalia, will be quietly solemnized this afternoon at the rectory of St. Mary's Cathedral.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception will be given at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Mary Walter Coley will serve as her sister's maid of honor and the best man will be William Harold Coley, brother of tht bride - elect.

SLIPPERS ESSENTIAL

Most often forgotten in the trousseau: house slippers. A bride can feel mighty silly tripping through her new home in a brunch coat and high heels. Include a pair of leather slippers to match the gown or a pair of jeweled ballet slippers.



A TIME FOR GREAT CARE—Cosmetics for wedding day should be selected carefully. They should not be extreme or exotic. First step (upper left) is powder. This bride uses compact powder in natural shade on face, neck and shoulders. Nervousness never need mean paleness if a light-toned rouge (upper right) is used. It is blended from center of cheekbone up towards hairline. Eye make-up (lower left) should be sparing. Feather strokes of pencil, light shadow and a once-over with mascara is all that's necessary. Pale feminine lipstick to follow natural mouth is last. Result (lower right) is lovely and natural.

Cookbooks, Nutrition Facts Smooth Way For The New Bride

For the bride who's never cooked for more than one person, except once in a while, the kitchen holds many terrors of the unknown. Food is undeniably important to morale, health and the stability of a marriage. She knows this. But she doesn't know where to start.

Since the first virtue of food is that it keeps life going, the place to start is with nutrition. This provides the steam that keeps both you and your husband going. According to Dr. Frederick J. Stare, chairman of the Department of Nutrition of the School of Public Health at Harvard, the nutritional formula is simple.

Each daily menu should include the five basic food groups: cereals, meat and eggs, milk, vegetables and fruits.

To keep you and your husband weighing in at a healthy level, this balanced diet is important. No single food makes one fat. Cutting down, not out, is the answer to weight control. A balanced diet includes bread, potatoes and sugar as well as the other wholesome foods. These elements provide things your body needs.

The next step to good cooking, after basic nutrition, is good assistance. Until cooking "comes natural," well-tested recipes are the best way of avoiding failure. Many of today's products come in folding cartons with the recipes right on them. In fact, 3400 original recipes were published this way last year. These recipes have been tested and the directions are specific.

The next authority is a cookbook you can trust and understand. Some women like general directions — "some salt" — others like specific ones — "¼ teaspoon of salt." Pick one or several that suit you. But at least one of your cookbooks should contain such basic information as how to cook vegetables or how many teaspoons there are in a quarter cup.

Mother's Day Gift Teaches Children The Joy Of Giving

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Mother's Day is the signal for Dad to make sure that piggy banks are stuffed with enough pennies to give each youngster the pleasure of buying a gift for Mom. It's a sad thing when Mom doesn't get a little something from her youngster, but sadder still when a small child realizes that for one reason or another he can't perform as generously as his little pals in the neighborhood.

Maybe Dad doesn't approve of Mother's Day, commercial as it has become. And perhaps Mom herself frowns on the idea. But the fact remains that it exists and there are lessons of generosity to be learned from it. A small child who is taught to remember Mother on that day, to remember Dad on his day, birthdays, and other special occasions, will hardly grow up to be selfish. Every generous act trains him to consider others.

The gift doesn't have to be large to make a hit with the lady of the house. Cosmetics counters are loaded with gifts that cost little, attractively packaged for gift giving. Any mother should welcome a glamor gift. Soap is a good gift. Ditto sachet. One line of cosmetics concocted by a famous aviatrix includes perfume, cologne, essence, bath soap, purse kit, sachet pillows and foaming bath, named after her shining hour — the day she successfully performed a flying mission for the government during the war. These are in a floral scent with a delicately exotic undertone in a velvety gift box.

The fun of a Mother's Day gift too is in presenting it in the proper manner. Dad should encourage the youngsters to wrap their gifts prettily, another lesson in the art of being considerate. In many homes the idea is to give Mom a complete rest from normal chores on her day, and the breakfast table is fixed up prettily with packages and flowers as the centerpiece motif.

A child with a very small amount to spend may be quite ingenious in putting it to good use.

There are many ways members of a family can use their imagination to perk up a special day for one of their loved ones. Children should be helped to understand and like the idea.

The Nile, 960 miles in length, is the sole river in Egypt.

CHILD AND MOTHER

By Eugene Field

O Mother-My Love, if you'll give me your hand,
And go where I ask you to wander,
I will lead you away to a beautiful land—
The Dreamland that's waiting out yonder.
We'll walk in a sweet-poise garden out there
Where moonlight and starlight are streaming
And the flowers and birds are filling the air
With fragrance and music of dreaming.
There'll be no little tired-out boy to undress,
No questions or cares to perplex you;
There'll be no little bruises or bumps to caress,
Nor patching of stockings to vex you.
For I'll rock you away on a silver-dew stream,
And sing you asleep when you're weary,
And no one shall know of our beautiful dream
But you and your own little dearie.
And when I am tired I'll nestle my head
In the bosom that's soothed me so often,
And the wide-awake stars shall sing in my stead
A song which our dreaming shall soften.
So Mother-my-Love, let me take your dear hand,
And away through the starlight we'll wander—
Away through the mist to the beautiful land—
The Dreamland that's waiting out yonder!

SHEETS AND PILLOW CASES
Linen gifts are welcome and practical without being at all dull. This couple has received percale sheets and pillow cases in matched sets. The pattern, called Rosebud, has flowers and polka dots in pink. Sheets are single or double.

SIVER SERVICE
Happy bride has silver selected to fit her needs, plenty of serving pieces in a tarnish - preventing chest.

Bed Linens, Towels, Silver Make Perfect Wedding Gifts

A bride may groan when she opens a gift that turns out to be her 17th lamp, but she never is distressed to discover her 17th sheet, towel or coffee spoon or coffee cup. These are the gifts every bride can use and every friend's budget can manage.

These things are so necessary to homemaking that the lovely old-fashioned custom was for a young lady to start embroidering pillow-cases and collecting silver when quite young so that she would have enough when she got married.

Buying bed linens for a bride is relatively easy, once you've determined whether she's going to have a double bed or twin beds.

They need not all match. Sheets come in a wide variety — fitted top or bottom, nonfitted, natural fibers, synthetics, mixtures, colored, white or patterned.

Tricot sheets of nylon and Avisco acetate are new. These can be washed and dried in about 40 minutes and might be just the thing for a bride with little storage space.

Also new are Bates' brightly-printed rosebud sheets and pillow cases.

The ideal number of sheets for each bed is six, so they get a rest between uses. If the bed is double, don't forget that twice as many pillow-cases as sheets are needed, since most women change only one sheet per bed a week, but change both pillowcases.

Towels are a vital item on the bride's list. She may want guest towels in sets of bath size, hand size and washcloths. But for herself and her husband, she will probably want sets of giant towels and washcloths, since most husbands rebel at hand towels.

Martex' new colors, including one edible butterscotch, are more husband soothing than pink. If the giver sews, a modern monogram is a personal addition. The Singer Sewing Centers suggest a monogram with applique and satin stitching combined.

Table linens are good gifts for the budget-bound to give. A single tablecloth or half a lozen plain napkins cost little, but they will be well used.

Keep in mind the individual bride's taste — modern or traditional — and the color of her china pattern and you can't go wrong. For the ambitious home sewer, Pfaff suggests selection of an "heirloom stitch" and use of the stitch on an entire set of table linens — cloths, napkins, mats, runners.

Selection of silver for gifts requires insight into the bride's desires or checking at the store where her choices are registered. To prevent a bride getting a dozen oyster forks and no coffee spoons, Heirloom Sterling has designed a pattern that comes with place forks, knives and spoons, that do for a variety of courses.

TOWEL SET
Home sewers can do modern monograms on new towels for a welcome gift that has personal feeling.

DRIP COFFEE METHOD

When coping with a drip coffee pot, most brides have found the results to be better when the water goes in the top section, the coffee in the middle and nothing in the pot below until it drips through. Other ways don't work well.

Half Of Brides Lack Training In Homemaking

Brides who feel discouraged about lack of training in homemaking, take heart. There are many of you. And his perfect mother may be among them.

The Tide Washing Clinic queried a group of 100 city and suburban homemakers and found half hadn't known a hill of beans about running a home before they got married.

Three-fourths of them thought this was a mistake. "Women should be trained for homemaking just as for any other job," they said.

Only 10 per cent considered themselves good cooks when they married. Only 19 per cent felt they were proficient housekeepers. Only a few knew proper washing procedures.

One homemaker said of her first marketing experience, "When I told the grocer I wouldn't buy his lettuce because it was too hard, he couldn't believe his ears. 'Lady, that's cabbage!' "

Is it important to know the difference between cabbage and lettuce right from the start of a marriage? Seventy-eight per cent of those queried felt it was.

"Practically any other job requires training," one woman said. But the job of being a homemaker, which is more diversified and complex than any other, is pretty hit-or-miss at first.

Only 10 women out of the 100 said they were good cooks when they married.

One woman said, "When I think back on those first dinners and the souffle that didn't souffle, I imagine my husband wondered what percentage there was in taking up with women."

Most women were unfamiliar with washing techniques when they married. "I only discovered sorting after my husband's shirts turned up tinted," one said.

Had business experience helped with being a homemaker?

Fifty-six per cent of those queried who had worked before marriage answered "yes." It developed a sense of responsibility, taught the value of money and how hard it is to earn, gave an appeciation of time and how to budget it.

One woman who had worked in a natural history museum took the question literally. Her experience had helped her in cleaning. "We had to clean the museum fossils from time to time," she said.

WEAR THE GLASSES

If you wear glasses the wedding day is not the day to forget them. You can get special frames to go with the costume or perhaps your regular ones will look appropriate. But at any rate, wear them when selecting headdress and coiffure.

COOL AS A CUCUMBER

NEW YORK —(UP)— Try a stuffed cucumber salad next time company's coming. Cut the cucumber in one-inch thick slices. Scoop out the center of each slice to make a small cup. Fill with seasoned cream cheese, to which you have added grated onion and finely chopped celery. Serve on crisp lettuce with sour cream or mayonnaise dressing.

AROUND MONROE

"God Could Not Be Everywhere, So He Made Mothers."
Yiddish Proverb.

TODAY—EVERYONE stops to honor the DEAREST PERSON in their lives, MOTHER. Families are drawn close and children come from near and far to be at HOME ON THIS DAY.

MRS. FRANK COOK of Albany, Georgia arrived yesterday for a visit with her family. She will stay with her sister, Mrs. D. Y. Smith in her home on Pargoud Blvd.

ALL THE GIRL GRADUATES—and we should not leave out the boys—are having a wonderful time. Parties have started and the remaining weeks should be overflowing. On Saturday the TRAVIS OLIVER home on Island Drive was the setting for a luncheon given by Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. R. L. Davis for MISS LYNN THEUS, MISS HELEN THEUS, AND MISS SUE STUBBS.

MONROE continues to be GAY—last evening the SYLVAN MASURS entertained their friends with an OPEN HOUSE. This very attractive home on Speed Drive was beautifully decorated in arrangements of roses throughout the reception rooms—in the dining area the color scheme of orange and yellow was reflected in the centerpiece on the party table. Forty-five guests called during the evening.

A GOOD TIME was had by ALL—at the BANCROFT CAMP last night—lets hope THE LOTUS CLUB makes this an ANNUAL EVENT.

THE JAMES SPARKS are enjoying a leisurely trip through VIRGINIA. They plan to do JAMESTOWN and WILLIAMSBURG after attending Mr. Sparks' twenty-fifth class reunion at Washington and Lee University in Lexington. Son, TOMMY, accompanied his parents on the trip.

NEXT WEEKEND they ALL DESCEND upon us once more—THE BRIDGE EXPERTS are arriving to take the HOME TOWN TALENT for a ride—but lets all be there for the fun. MAY 17th, 18th, and 19th are the dates of MONROE'S Second Sectional Bridge Tournament.

MISS EVELYN RAE KING

Experience tells: it's much easier to write thank-you notes before the wedding than after. They seem to go faster and it's possible to feel more sincerely grateful for dishes that haven't yet been broken.

One can now be mortgaged in style. The National Piano Manufacturers Association informs young couples that it's possible to include the price of the piano right in the mortgage and pay it off with the house.

Mom Likes To Glitter

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

In this season of slim, understated fashions, jewelry assumes new importance, as do other accessories such as hats and handbags. This offers a valuable tip to the Mother's Day gift shopper.

No matter how much costume jewelry a woman has, she always can use more. Last year's necklace and bracelet set may not look right with this year's necklines. And the jewelry designers keep coming up with new and intriguing trends each season.

This year jewelry definitely is a part of the costume. You'll be seeing splashy, important - looking necklaces, earrings, clips and bracelets, to perk up summer fashions.

For evening wear, the sky's the limit, and a bid necklace of colored cut-crystal beads or rhinestones will dramatize the simplest gown.

Summer always is the time for white jewelry for daytime wear, also, and there are many new designs in good taste, combined with gold or platinum - finished metal for ultimate effectiveness. White jewelry emphasizes the golden tone of a sun tan, is wearable with practically any summer costume, and is always a safe bet for gifts.

So why not add a little extra sparkle to Mother's Day with a gift of smart new costume jewelry?

MISS JERRY PATRICIA BASKIN

Miss Baskin And Rev. Eppinette To Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Odom, of Baskin, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jerry Patricia, to the Rev. Jimmy Lee Eppinette, of Harrisonburg. Rev. Eppinette is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Eppinette of West Monroe.

A June wedding was planned for the 28, at seven o'clock in the evening in the Harrisonburg Baptist Church. The Rev. Wilburn Taylor, of the Holly Ridge Baptist Church, will perform the ceremony.

The bride's attendants will be Miss Gwen Tims, as maid of honor, and Miss Lou Dean Henry, as bridesmaid.

Eugene Eppinette, brother of the groom-elect, will serve as best man.

The bride attended Northeast Louisiana State College. The Rev. Eppinette attended Louisiana College, New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, and is at present pastor of the Harrisonburg Baptist Church.

Simple Camera Equipment Best For The Amateur At Wedding

Any family friend or actual member of a bride's family who is not a part of the wedding party can perform an indispensable service during the wedding season by taking candid pictures.

Most professional photographers do a very fancy job of this, but for many reasons brides prefer to have it done by an amateur.

The first reason is economy. If the costs have to be kept down, this is a rather expensive item that can be cut. The second reason is that the wedding may be small and informal and the presence of an outsider might be an intrusion.

In addition, many brides who do contract the services of a professional photographer like to have an amateur recording the events too. A girl friend of the bride isn't difficult to sandwich into the dressing room, but a professional may be.

A simple camera with a minimum of equipment is important for this kind of work. A toddler cousin who comes to kiss the bride isn't going to look natural forever while the photographer adjusts his or her lens and lights.

An important thing for the amateur photographer to remember is to remain as unobtrusive as possible. The photographs will be important for many years, but some brides' memories of their wedding are rather less pleasant for having been pushed backwards or forwards at crucial moments, by a photographer.

The problems of getting poses exactly right can be gotten around by rapidly shooting as many pictures as possible. Four shots of the bride and groom toasting each other are just as likely to produce a usable picture as one carefully posed one.

Important pictures to remember include: getting dressed, ample shots of both bride and groom, any children who come to the wedding, the couple's parents, cutting the cake, throwing the bouquet, any decorations on a car, the receiving line, grandparents, saying goodby and a shot of the house after the couple has said goodby.

Be very cautious about shooting in the church. There are many individual rules and it is most important not to make the occasion uncomfortable for the bride. If it is possible to pose the minister and the couple, afterwards, in front of the house, this will work just as well.

The bidding:

South, 1 diamond; West, pass; North, 1 heart; East, pass.

South, 1 no trump; West, pass; North, 2 no trump; East, pass.

South, 3 no trump; West, pass; North, pass; East, pass.

Opening lead: Three of spades.

A textbook situation was presented in today's hand from an important tournament, but in the stress of actual competition several of the luminaries forgot their fundamentals.

Though a contract of four hearts or five diamonds would have been invincible, nevertheless almost all pairs reached the more or less normal contract of three no trump.

South's rebid of one no trump is entirely off key. He had by his indiscreet choice of the opening bid placed himself in the awkward position of having to announce a minimum opening. The solution of this problem is an opening bid of one no trump. This will obtain the best results on all balanced hands ranging in high card strength from 16 to 18.

West led the three of spades and East in some cases reflexly played the ace and continued with the queen. This was permitted to hold and declarer won the third round of the suit. The diamond finesse could now be taken with impunity, since if it lost East would have no spade to return. If he did, it would mean that the spades were originally 4-4 and only three spades and a diamond could be lost.

Proper play by East at trick one is the queen of spades, which apparently violates the tenet about finessing against nothing. The point to the play is that it cannot lose and might gain.

If the opening leader has the king of spades the queen will win and the suit will be run. If declarer has it he will be forced to win the trick since he cannot be aware of the location of the ace. When East is in with the king of diamonds, he will have a spade left to return to partner. South cannot have a singleton king of spades, since West by leading the three (his fourth best), marks himself with a maximum of five spades.

If he has a fifth best, it will be the deuce, and if he has a sixth best it will be some card that has not yet been adopted for use in the conventional pack.

Church Vows Unite Couple In Oak Grove

Miss Sue White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd White, of Oak Grove, and Earl G. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Owens, of Pioneer, exchanged marriage vows before a setting of white gladioli and pink stock, with burning tapers.

The Rev. C. P. Cowart performed the double ring ceremony May 3, at six o'clock in the evening, in the Macedonia Baptist Church.

Mrs. Janet Kidder, of Delhi, was the soloist, accompanied by Miss Jeanett Coffee at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white chiffon dress with an overskirt of white net, and carried a white Bible topped with a pink orchid and satin streamers.

Miss Peggy Hamilton, of Kilbourne, was the maid of honor dressed in pink chiffon with matching accessories.

The candle-lighters were Misses Paula White, sister of the bride, and Joyce Ashcraft, wearing identical dresses of green organdy.

David Walters, of St. Joseph, served as best man. The ushers were J. D. Cambell, of Shreveport, and Larry White.

Mrs. White chose for her daughter's wedding, a blue linen, accented with a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a beige suit with matching accessories, and an orchid pinned at her shoulder.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was covered in white linen and was centered with a tiered cake with a miniature bride and groom. The crystal punch bowl was to one end. Mrs. Yvonne Myers and Miss Lauretta Sasser presided here.

For traveling, when the bride left on the wedding trip, she wore a navy two piece ensemble with a white hat and gloves.

Thes couple will make their home in St. Joseph.

Girl Scout News

Realizing a long - cherished ambition for an overnight trip, Troop 1 spent a happy and worthwhile week end at Pine Wood recently with Mrs. William Gannaway and Mrs. John L. Tolar in charge. The rain held off, and the cooler weather just made it cozy to have a fire in the fireplace and comfortable to do outdoor cooking.

After making up beds on the long porch, having a snack, and dividing into patrols, the girls had time before dark to gather plenty of wood, wet, of course, for fires. After much persuasion, the fire burned brightly at supper time, supper being served indoors on account of the wet grounds. Afterward the girls enjoyed singing and games around the fire, toasted marshmallows, and made somemores.

Sleeping on the porch, all snuggled down on account of the cold, was a new experience for most of them, but leaders report that everyone slept well and stayed in bed until 7:00, observing the well-known Girl Scout rule of nine hours sleep at camp. Firebuilders again had to prove their skill next morning, making a fire with wet wood in order to provide coals for cooking breadtwists. Mrs. M. E. DeCelle and Mrs. L. B. Sheppard came out in time to cook breadtwists and be with the troop Saturday. One reason girls like breadtwists is because cooking on a stick means almost no dishwashing. The girls also did stick cooking for lunch, making kabobs. They had potatoes wrapped in foil and baked in the ashes of their breakfast fire.

Girls who went on the camping trip were: Beth Allen, Barbara Black, Barbara Clement, Donna Kay DeCelle, Marcia Frost, Carol Lynn Fuller, Milann Gannaway, Dianne Halley, Frances Loflin, Mary Murphy, Becky Parkerson, Deas Parrish, Mary Jane Sims, Ann Sheppard, Sue Sheppard, Ann Spurgeon, and Mary Louise Tolar. Gail Smith of Troop 54 was a guest. Susan Sherrouse was the only troop member who didn't get to go.

Troop 43, Brownie Scouts, St. Matthews' School, had a most instructive visit to the telephone company, Mrs. H. D. Roberts, their leader reports. Mr. Clement and Mr. Howze showed the girls through and explained how the system works. Miss Bradshaw worked the switchboard for them and demonstrated placing a long distance call. Sue Turner, Northeast College student, who serves as assistant leader of the troop, also accompanied the troop.

We learned, too, that the girls had made lapel pins as surprise Mother's Day gifts. Since today is the day, it's all right to tell.

According to reports from the office, a great deal of interest is being shown in the cooking classes which are scheduled for three different times during the summer at United Gas Service Center, with Miss Frances Baxter of United Gas as instructor. Based on the Cook badge in the Intermediate program, the courses are open to girls who next year will be in the fifth, sixth, or seventh grades.

Homemade Cake Provides Touch Of Sentiment At The Wedding

Even if your wedding reception is catered, the wedding cake can be made at home with not too much trouble for a very proud and modestly-priced achievement. It is more personal and can be decorated just to suit you. This one is done with a white cake mix.

Do It Yourself Bridal Cake: Three round pans are needed: one 13½ X 2½ inches, one 10½ x 2½ inches, one 7½ x 2½ inches. The three layers may be baked separately if the oven won't hold all at once.

The first layer takes 3½ packages of Dromedary White Cake Mix (this mix comes in a "twin" pack and is already divided). The middle layer takes two packages. The top layer takes one. Each layer is prepared according to the directions on the package and baked in the corresponding pan, with the exception of the top layer. One half of this smallest layer is baked in the small pan, then removed, then the other half is done similarly in the same pan. Each layer cools on cake rack right side up at least one hour. Then a spatula is run around the edge to loosen. When it's cold, pan is inverted and cake is removed. Then all layers are chilled and crumbs are removed with a soft pastry brush. They are then ready for frosting.

Creamy Bridal Frosting: Cream 2 cups (1 lb.) white vegetable shortening. Add 3 lbs. sifted confectioners' sugar alternately with 3 tablespoons glycerine and 6 egg whites. When mixture is smooth and creamy, blend in 3 teaspoons almond flavoring and 3 or 4 drops of blue food coloring. This is enough to frost all layers, but it may be made in batches if the amount seems too large to handle.

Here's how the cake is frosted. Cut a large square of wax paper into 4 triangles and place on serving platter to reform the square. Now place bottom layer on wax paper. Cover sides and top with frosting. Now place middle layer in exact center of frosted layer and repeat.

Sandwich the two halves of the top layer with frosting and place directly in the center of the middle layer and cover with frosting. Use remainder for decorating edges with rosettes by piping through pastry bag with star tip.

Any desired bridal cake decoration, from the variety store, goes on top. Then each triangle of wax paper is gently drawn out from under the cake to leave a clean plate. It will serve 40 to 50 persons.

To keep open - face or unwrapped sandwiches moist, cover with vapor - proof material. Refrigerate. Do not cover with a damp cloth.

EASY DOES IT

A handy plastic item for removing olives or pickles from tightly packed jars has two prongs one on either side of a solid piece of plastic.

CAR RATES LOW

Hertz Rent A Car estimates that their rates average $6.95 a day plus 8 cents a mile for the smaller cars. For couples planning a touring honeymoon, this is worth knowing and comparing with rail fares.

Get Early Start On Planning The Announcements

Some girls start planning their weddings at about age ten, when an aunt settles on a silver pattern for them. But when it comes down to the finish line, a couple of months before the wedding, there is still some confusion.

Much of this can be eliminated by notebooks full of lists, kept by the bride's mother.

The prime rule to be remembered is that the first things to be done are the things that concern firms that are likely to be doing a big business in the wedding season.

This means being precise in arranging for the place the wedding is to be held, hiring whatever kind of help there is going to be, planning for dress fittings, getting someone to perform the ceremony, speaking to the florist, borrowing or renting any china, silverware or chairs that are going to be needed and dealing with the printers or engravers who will provide invitations or announcements.

As to the invitations or announcements the envelopes will be given you to address while the insides are being done.

Jerlyn Madison, the Sheaffer Pen Company's writing consultant, provides a check-list for the important matter of invitations.

1. Invitations may be engraved or handwritten, depending on the formality and the number of guests.

2. Invitations to church weddings should "request the honor of your presence." For nonchurch weddings it is "request the pleasure of your company."

3. Invitations to a church wedding and a following reception should be separate, since generally, many are invited to the wedding who are not invited to the reception. For home weddings, there is no mention of a reception, since it is always understood that guests at the home wedding are to attend after-wedding functions.

4. Don't forget "R.S.V.P." or the "favor of a reply is requested," if you're going to have to plan food.

In making sandwiches with salad-type fillings, spread a coating of soft butter, margarine, peanut butter or cheese spread to the edges of the bread slices to prevent the bread from absorbing moisture from the fillings. Use these coatings, too, with honey, jelly or preserves.

Natural Appearance Important In Choosing Wedding Ensemble

To be her prettiest is something every gal desires for her wedding day. The gown, whether it's a major investment or a new suit, is carefully selected to spotlight her type and coloration.

Hair and headpiece are equally important. Advice on this matter is offered by Ruel, who is style director for Coiffures Americana.

He says that the temptation is to go overboard for an elaborate headdress and a wildly new hair style. He advises against it. He urges having your hair done a few days before you go to buy the headdress. The style should be gently romantic, but not startlingly new. Thh headpiece should then be bought and fitted over this style.

Tht foundation garment is another of the "first purchases." It's fruitless to have a dress fitted over a pantie girdle and bra and then wear a bra-lette or corselet on the wedding day. The whole works will look wrong.

Take the bra-lette, if you're shopping for a bouffant gown, or the corselet, if the gown is fitted, when you go to buy the gown. If the shoulders are low or lacy, a strapless version of either will contribute to comfort.

Shoes, stockings, gloves and flowers are among those things bought to go with the gown and they should be carefully matched and selected. Don't forget that dead white satin shoes will not match the many gradations of white now popular for wedding gowns.

The necessary finishing touch to the bride is fragrance. It should be light and feminine rather than heavy and sultry.

Once the scene is selected, cologne, toilet water, the sachet that's hung in the dress when it's in the closet, soap, bath powder and perfume should match.

After getting dressed on the big day, the bride should apply the perfume to pulse spots then use an atomizer so that the fragrance will settle on the clothes and provide an aura of beauty.

Be Realistic About Money, Bank Advises

Finances have been the nightmare of too many brides. There's help, but many young couples forget to take it. Just as a doctor is interested in preventive medicine, so is a bank interested in helping you to a sound financial start.

Many banks have special service departments for help with the budget. Many bank officers and new account departments give this help.

Recipes Are Given For Punch To Use At Wedding Reception

However simple a wedding reception, it almost never takes place without a bowl of punch. In fact, the reception is perfect with punch, sandwiches, wedding cake and coffee.

The punch may be entirely fruit and soda water, with sherbet, or it may be a champagne or wine combined with fruit juices, or it may be a traditional champagne punch.

The last is basically fruit, but it contains just enough champagne to make it festive. It makes 25 4 oz. servings.

Bride's Punch: Dilute a 6-oz. can Minute Maid frozen orange juice, a 6-6oz. can of pineapple and a 6-6oz. can Snow Crop frozen lemonade with ice water, following directions on label. Blend well and pour into punch bowl. Just before serving, add 1 4-5-qt. bottle chilled champagne. Float ice mold in center.

Ice mold is made this way: Pour water to a depth of ⅛ inch into heart shaped mold. Freeze this layer in refrigerator. Arrange fresh orange blossoms in mold. Pour over just enough water to keep them from floating away, then freeze again. Then fill to top and freeze again. Then fill to top and freeze for the third time. Unmold by dipping in cold water.

The following champagne punch is economical but very tasty. Each quart bottle of champagne will provide enough punch for 20 servings. Plan three to four servings per person. Mix it one bowl at a time and serve immediately to avoid loss of flavor.

Punch de Nouveau Marie: Ice 1 quart of French champagne, 1 bottle of soda water, 1 oz. of cognac and 1 oz. maraschino in a punch bowl with a large block of ice. Decorate with oranges and lemons and serve.

The first library in the United States began in 1638 when John Harvard gave 400 books to the university named for him.

MISS SARAH BETH DAWKINS engagement to Harold Lane Bassett, of Monroe is announced by her mother, Mrs. Jewell M. Dawkins of Farmerville. The wedding will take place at 7 p.m. on June 7, at the First Baptist Church in Farmerville. They are both attending Louisiana Tech, Ruston.

MRS. JOSEPH LASUZZA, JR.

LaSuzzo-Stewart Vows Said In An Impressive Ceremony At St. Matthews

A recent wedding was that of Miss Faye Stewart, of Dodson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Davis, of Hobbs, New Mexico, to Joseph S. LaSuzzo, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaSuzzo, of this city.

A double ring ceremony was performed April 22, at ten o'clock in the morning, in the St. Matthew's Catholic Church. Father Joe Montalbano officiated before altars massed with Easter lilies and tall burning tapers.

Mr. J. M. McBeth was the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Thelma Oseland at the organ.

The bride's gown was of Chantilly lace and tulle overlaid on satin. The drifting tulle skirt, appliqued with lace extended into a cathedral train. She carried a triangular arm bouquet of stephanotis blossoms outlined in pearl leaves.

Mrs. Billy Jo McKinney, Mrs. George T. Slavent, and Mrs. Charles J. Miller, sisters of the groom; Miss Lynell Davis and Miss Linda Davis, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Sib Laird, were the bridesmaids. Their dresses were fashioned of orchid nylon chiffon overlaid on net and taffeta. The knife pleating of the bouffant skirts was repeated in the multi - tucked bateau bodice. The softly draped cummerbund sashes gave a note of contrast.

The flower girls, Patricia Ann Miller, niece of the groom, and Peggy Stewart, cousin of the bride, were dressed the same as the bridesmaids, and carried small satin ribbon baskets overflowing with orchid pompoms.

Martin Kutz served as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were: George T. Slavent, Charles J. Miller, T. J. Mandino, Vincent Genusa, and Billy Jo McKinney.

The bride's mother wore a distinctive brown and white spring model with an orchid corsage. The groom's mother chose blue lace overlaid on pink satin and an orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall. The brides' table, overlaid with lace, was adorned with a tiered cake decorated in silver and surmounted with bride and groom figurines under a silver wedding bell.

Open house was held at the LaSuzzo home at 1306 Park avenue, following the reception.

The bride chose as her traveling ensemble, a beige suit with brown accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The bride graduated from the Dodson High School. The groom graduated from Neville High School and Northeast State College where he was a member of the Delta Sigma.

Mother's Day Custom Half Century Old

NEW YORK (UP) — The Mother's Day custom, as we know it in America is nearly a half century old, but its true origin extends to antiquity.

The Mother's Day festival in this country came about through the efforts of Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, who visualized a national day of recognition for mothers while arranging a special memorial service for her own mother. On the second Sunday in May, 1908, Mother's Day was observed throughout Philadelphia.

In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed a joint resolution of congress calling for observance of Mother's Day on the second Sunday in May, giving the event full and official recognition. The carnation — red for living mothers, white for those deceased — was chosen as the floral symbol because it was Mrs. Jarvis' favorite.

In the intervening years, the observance of Mother's Day has spread to all parts of Europe, to Japan, China, Mexico and many other countries, each of which has adapted the idea to local customs and traditions.

But homage to mother actually goes back almost to the beginning of man. The ancien Romans honored Hilaria, their mother - goddess, each March 15. With the advent of Christianity, the Mother Church and the Madonna, typifying all that was beautiful in motherhood, were honored.

In England, "Mothering Sunday" — a day on which youthful apprentices were permitted to return to their homes — was observed during the 17th century. If the distance home was too great, the boys were expected to send notes or letters — in effect, the first Mother's Day cards.

MRS. DONALD DEBNAM, the former Miss Barbara Jean Rogers was married in the afternoon in Greenville, Miss. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rogers of West Monroe. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Debnam.

MISS JUANITA THOMAS' betrothal to Ned Barron, of San Antonio, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Barron, of Spearsville, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard Thomas, of Ringgold. The vows will be spoken on July 4, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, in the home of the bride's parents.

Plan Your Future Home First, Then Purchase The Furnishings

One bride wryly remarked that she could have gotten out cheaper in furnishing her apartment if she'd papered it in dollar bills and built furniture from the loose change.

But most newly - married couples lose perspective. They should realize that the first years of marriage are heavy spending years. Many items are bought which won't be replaced for many years hence, and then, one by one rather than all at once.

This mens juggling the budget, buying second - hand at least until something good can be bought, borrowing and making - do. A simple matter like sufficient drawers for clothing can run into a fat sum even in modestly - priced lines of furniture.

The smart husband and wife buy the things they must have immediately, from good merchandise lines. These include refrigerator, range, bed, coffeepot, pots and pans and something to sit on.

In home buying the cost should not be more than 2½ times the annual income.

Furniture and appliance payments should not amount to more than about 10 per cent of the monthly income.

A buy many couples make early in the game is a convertible sofa. This can sleep guests, and many cramped families find themselves sleeping on it when a baby usurps the bedroom. These items are more flexible than they used to be.

Deciding on appliances is a tricky matter. A careful assessment of the way the couple expects to live will reveal whether a freezer - refrigerator combination is an economy or a foolish purchase. A dishwasher is a worksaver, but most women would wait for it if they could have a clothes washer and dryer.

The difference in price between a dry iron and steam iron can often be calculated in terms of two weeks' worth of pressing by the commercial dry cleaner. This would be well worth it to a family where the husband wears business suits.

A home that suits you is your goal, not a picture in a magazine. Don't be taken in by a chair you can't sit on or a color you don't like. Get a professional's advice if you need it, but tell him clearly what kind of a home you're after.

Ancient Touch In Planning Modern Rooms

CHICAGO —(UP(— Decorators continually return to "ages past" in planning rooms, no matter how severe furnishings may become, how vivid the colors, how plain the designs.

Exhibitors at the Modern Living Exhibition held here recently did just that.

Grecian accessories were shown and early American sculpture and art were used to complement even the most ultra - modern decor.

Grecian accessories wtre shown widely. Black and white ink sketches of characters from mythology formed the contrasting wall decoration for a brightly-colored modern room.

Ceramic figures of sword-swinging cavaliers, court jesters, and Shakesperean - type busts were used for the base of many table lamps beside contemporar furniture.

Most of the table lamps shown at the exhibition were quite large. Many reached to eye-level, although they stood on extremely low tables.

Aztec, Indian and Japanese art were the source for a wide variety of decoration. Silk screens, Indian prints used in room dividers, and mosaic table tops were popular.

Aztec figurines carved from rough stone furnished a striking contrast to contemporary furnishings.

Two wall picture boxes of ancient sailing vessels dressed up another modern interior.

Modern adaptation of "praying chairs" were the center of attention in one room. Another room was highlighted by Japanese "bird case" floor lamps and polished brass "tree" lights.

About Homes And Gardens

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Protect Camellias From Heat Of Summer

By William Lanier Hunt

If you have planted camellias in front of a sun-baked wall, you are going against Nature. Camellias are shrubs of the big woods in China. They love the overhead protection of high shade. It is really surprising that they will put up with as much broiling direct sun as they do in some places. However, it is too much to ask them to grow in front of hot walls where there is no shade all day long. Chinese hollies are tolerant of such situations, but even they can be cooked.

Shade of some kind is necessary to save small camellias that you may have set out in front of a hot wall. You can put in some stakes and erect a "toe-sack" cover over the tops of your plants. It is best to cover the side against the wall with sacking, too, to deflect the heat from foliage.

Some camellias are more tolerant of heat than others. Locations in the sun are different, too, so that you may get by in one place and lose your camellia in another. If you do not wish to move your camellias, then plan to improve your conditions. Plant a tree to shade the wall. Mulch the whole area nearby. Spray that section of your yard morning and evening. If nothing is done for camellias in scorching places, the leaves will eventually be burned on top, and the plants will suffer and eventually die.

Watch your sasanqua camellias this time of the year for that strange fungue disease called "shoot gall". From the gardener's standpoint, it might have been named elephantiasis of the leaf. It is a really weird plant disease that will make you think, from a distance, that your sasanquas have put forth enormous green flowers! On closer inspection, you will see that the green flowers are really rosettes of leaves that have enlarged and thickened till they are almost as thick as hens-and-chickens. They are beautiful, but do not entertain any ideas of using them in flower arrangements! Burn them at once. Go over the sasanquas with a pair of pruners and a paper bag, as Dr. Cynthia Westcott, the "Plant Doctor" recommends. Snip off the rosettes into the bag directly. If you wave them around in the air, you will sow the wind with spores to alight on other buds and start the trouble all over again.

Camellia shoot gall does actually start in the bud as it begins growth into a new shoot in spring. This year's spores — that floury looking dust underneath the swollen leaves — fly to the new buds being formed now. It infects them now and appears next year as the foliage begins to grow. Keep an eagle eye out for this disease. Clip and burn every infested rosette of leaves as soon as you see it. We might have known that the wonderful sasanquas would have some diease. There always seems to be a serpent in Eden!

75 Per Cent Rate For Long Staple

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced yesterday it will support grower prices of 1957-crop extra long staple cotton at 75 per cent of parity—the same as last year.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

This rate will average not less than 59.75 cents a pound, net weight, for American - Egyptian cotton and 54.75 cents for Sea Island and Sealand cotton.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Bastrop's Clarklea Club Has Exhibits

By Mary M. Jardine

The Clarklea Garden Club of Bastrop staged the colorful flower show at the Garden Center this week.

Mrs. W. A. Kunze and Mrs. J. B. Robinson were awarded first place blue ribbon for their lovely vertical arrangement in green and white.

The placing of white Madonna lilies in a tall vertical pattern in a white compote accented the height giving a majestic feeling to the arrangement. The severity of the vertical line was softened by placements of white larkspur on one side and green and white ribbon grass on the other. Very beautiful and would be most suitable for a large living room table or most effective in church.

Mrs. Dennis Gray was awarded second place blue ribbon. Mrs. Gray chose a sand colored boat shaped container of pottery which was perfect in color and texture for her asymetrical design of orange and green. Three aspidistra leaves formed the background pattern with smaller hosta leaves placed lower. Brilliant orange calendulas with buds at the top and larger one placed lower completed the triangular design. The color was most compelling.

Mrs. Jack Atkins was awarded third place ribbon. Her white container was low and irregular in design lending itself well to the asymetrical design. Graceful, pine tips formed the right-angle triangle pattern. Lighter green magnolia leaves placed within the line gave transition in size, color and texture and were a perfect background for the five deep red roses which completed the design. Red-tipped green huckleberries were tucked behind the roses. The combination of colors and materials was most effective.

In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded to Mrs. F. E. Smith for blue native iris and to Mrs. J. L. Westbrook for double pink larkspur and Clematis Coccinea texensis. Let me tell you a little about this lovely flower. It is a climber that grows to six feet. The leaves are smooth and a nice green. The flowers are spectacular. They are described as being urn shaped and nodding about one inch long. They are a brilliant scarlet and look like a small tulip in the bud stage. What a conversation piece these would be for the patio. As you know all clematis requires a well drained soil of moderate fertility. Give them a soil which has been enriched with humus or compost and additional feedings during the active growth period. The Clematis like to have their feet in the shade and their heads in the sun. Therefore give them a good mulching as protection against our hot summer sun. Try your local nurseryman for this lovely variety.

A new book has been added to our Garden Center Library, "Plant Propagation in Pictures" by Montague Free. The complete story of plant propagation by accepted modern methods is fascinating and valuable knowledge for every gardening enthusiast. In this book Mr. Free presents the various aspects of plant propagation in a series of short introductions and follows them with step-by-step pictures explained by captions. Montague Free says: "For more than fifty years I have been concerned, more or less with various aspects of plant propagation — but even now, when birthdays roll around with appalling frequency — plant propagation— the miracle of the germinating seed, the rooting of cuttings and the successful union by grafting of two diverse plants — has lost none of its power to provide the thrill of accomplishment."

THE HOME SHIFT

Ripe Citrus May Have Green Rinds

By Mildred Swift

An interesting visit to the lot belonging to George and Sandy Holt in West Monroe found them planning their grounds. They have the nicest mound at one corner of the back garden and they plan to leave this. Gone is the time when we graded the lawn to one level. Slopes, knolls, mounds are left as they are. Landscape architects even very often create these differences in levels in their places.

Around the Garden

Have you ever seen the confederate jasmine so beautiful? This is a fast growing evergreen vine that is lovely growing on columns, in trees, over garages, fences and can even be used as ground covers. You can buy these plants in buckets, now and plant.

Here is a review of May garden jobs: Prune spring flowering shrubs; put out begonia, geranium, hibiscus, plumbago, caladium bulbs, cleome and purple salvia plants. Divide violets. Keep beds mulched. Spray evergreens with oil emulsion or malathion for white fly, scale and red spider. Prune climbing roses. Keep tips pinched from poinsettias. Stake tall growing plants. Make another planting of gladiolus. Cut bloom stalks from native and bearded iris. Fertilize dogwoods with ½ bone meal and ½ cotton seed meal, mixed. Continue sprigging St. Augustine. Adjust lawn mower to 1½ to 2 inches from the ground.

Seed you can plant this month are: sweet alyssum, four o'clock, periwinkle, moonflower, sunflower, portulaca, tithona, marigold, torenia, cosmas, zinna, balsam. Keep the dead blooms cut from oleanders and hydrangeas. This is about all the pruning they'll need if you'll cut with long stems.

Time to plant bulbs, tubers, rhyzomes: lycoris, tuberoses, dahlias, iris, hosta, day lilies.

Food News

You can't judge a book by its cover, nor can you judge an orange by its rind. True, most oranges are rich in orange color, but at this season you may find many good oranges are green in color, but not in maturity.

The marketing service explains it this way. Orange trees, like other trees, must produce chlorophyll (the ingredient that makes grass and leaves turn green), to develop the next crop. In the past few weeks, unusually hot weather and heavy rains have produced an extra supply of chlorophyll in Florida orange trees. When this happened, the chlorophyll backed up into the fruit — which are fully ripe — and turned the rinds from orange to green. These oranges are just as good, have just as much vitamin C and other food values that oranges always have. A mere trick of nature turned the rind green. This same green condition is also found among grapefruit coming from Florida, but they are just as juicy and rich as ever. Both oranges and grapefruit dry out quickly in hot weather when they are exposed for long at room temperature. They will keep well in your refrigerator drawer.

Frozen turkeys are moderately priced. You, Mrs. Homemaker, can give your family this protein food and still keep the budget in line. Pork prices are gradually moving higher but watch the specials for bargains on sausage, cured hams, and shoulders. Lunch meats, canned meats and franks have remained unchanged in most markets.

There's a bright aspect when it comes to buying groceries. Your bill for vegetables is likely to be lower in May since so many fresh items are plentiful. This could help offset some of the rise in the cost of meats.

Dry peas and beans give you lots of food value for your money, especially at present when the prices are low. Here is a recipe for Creole baked beans that will be a complete meal. The teen-age daughter can prepare these.

Creole Baked Beans

1 cup great northern navy beans. Soak and cook with a ham bone until tender.
1 large onion.
½ bell pepper.
1 stalk celery.
3 tablespoons bacon fat.
1 can tomato sauce.
1 teaspoon chili powder.
1 teaspoon paprika.
½ teaspoon salt.
Dash tabasco.
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce.
3 strips bacon.

Fry onions, bell pepper and celery in bacon fat. Add tomato sauce and seasonings. Add the cooked beans. Pour in 2-quart casserole. Bake in 375 degree oven for 30 minutes. Place strips of bacon on top and bake 15 minutes or more. Serves 6.

Many Activities Fill May Schedule

By Euna Spielman

Today is Mother's Day. It is a day set aside for each of us to pay our highest tribute to our mother. One of the highest tributes ever expressed in words was that of Abraham Lincoln, who said, "All that I am, or hope to be, I owe to my angel mother."

John Quincy Adams paid a similar tribute to his mother. He said, "All that I am, my mother made me."

"Even He that died for us upon the cross, in his last hour, in the unutterable agony of death, was mindful of his mother, as if to teach us that this holy life should be our last worldly thought - the last point of earth from which the soul should take its flight for Heaven. — Longfellow.

DRESS CONTEST

The next big event in home demonstration work is the revue of the Casual Dresses made at home by women and girls. There are five classes of entries in this revue: first, a casual dress made and worn with suitable accessories by the home demonstration member; second, a casual dress made by mother (or any one else) and modeled by the child under age 6 years; third, a casual dress made by mother (or anyone else) and modeled by the child 6-12 years of age; fourth, a casual dress made by the mother (or anyone else) and modeled by the girl above 12 years of age; fifth, a casual dress made by the girl 12 years and over, modeled by the maker.

These garments must be in my office by 8:30 a.m. May 17 to be judged for workmanship. Those entering garments, must be in my office 8:45 a.m. May 18 for costume to be judged on wearer. Miss Margaret Brumby, extension clothing specialist at L. S. U. will judge this contest. The dress revue will be staged in the agricultural auditorium, West Monroe, at 10 a.m. Saturday, as a part of the parish home demonstration council program. At this time winners in each class will be announced and prizes awarded. The winner of the first class will represent Ouachita parish in the state revue held during Farm and Home Week at L. S. U. in August.

The committee on prizes reports the Twin Cities businesses have responded to its calls and donated many wonderful prizes. The public is invited to see the revue.

Club Clothing leaders, if you have not sent in your lists of persons entering from your club, call and do this now. If you are making a dress to enter in either class, be sure to judge it yourself by the check sheet prepared by me before bringing it to be judged.

The score sheets to be used in judging, showing points to be given for each construction feature and the suitability to each wearer are available. If you cannot get them from the clothing leader in your community, call my office and it will be mailed to you.

MORE TIME FOR RECREATION

In days past when most of us older people were growing up there was a couplet that nearly everyone quoted — "Man works from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done." With modern equipment neither man nor woman have long hours of work. Hence we have come to a time when people need to be trained for enjoyment and wise utilization of their leisure almost as much as for work.

Twenty-three home demonstration leaders from 15 organized home demonstration clubs received training in conducting recreational activities at a meeting directed by Mr. Wayne Robichaux, associate extension sociologist (Recreation). These leaders are: Mrs. R. S. Harrell, Progressive; Mrs. P. M. Jeter, Mrs. Roy Hart, Bosco; Mrs. C. E. Crawford, Claiborne; Mrs. T. R. Wright, Mrs. W. K. Brown, Mrs. John Bush, Woodlawn; Mrs. D. E. McGraw, Mrs. Lena Spillers, McClendon; Mrs. Robert Ingram, McGuire; Mrs. J. D. Collier, Lamkin, Mrs. Charles Beadles, Lamkin; Mrs. Don Glenn, Mrs. O. H. Manhart, Sterlington; Mrs. C. K. Brooks, Okaloosa; Mrs. C. A. Malone, Eureka; Mrs. D. E. Taylor, McGuire; Mrs. L. E. Douthit, Mrs. Hebert Moore, Thrifty; Mrs. Ouida Jones, Caliborne; Mrs. Arthur West Colony; Mrs. Bill Dunn, Claiborne; Mrs. A. Sanford, Liberty; Mrs. Henry C. Blazier, McClendon.

Here's the story—

For years fertilizer has been a hit-'n-miss operation for the amateur, and a tedious chore for the professional.

Now, with BORDEN'S 38, the application of nitrogen becomes simple as never before.

For one shot of this new BORDEN fertilizer compound releases the nitrogen slowly, at a uniform speed, throughout the entire growing season. Not only are plants, lawns and shrubs fed better, easier, and safer, but the job is also more economical.

With its nitrogen derived from-formaldehyde, BORDEN'S 38 has a guaranteed analysis of 38%. Yet the cost of the nitrogen is no more than the cost of buying organic fertilizers containing only 3% to 7% nitrogen.

Note: Supplemental feedings may be required every six to eight months when BORDEN'S 38 is used in tropical or sub-tropical areas.

Man Is Booked On Six Counts Of Forgery Here

A 49 - year - old Arkansas man, who claimed that he was in dire need of money, was booked at Monroe police headquarters yesterday on six counts of forgery.

Thomas Joseph Brennan of Hot Springs, Ark., was arrested on South Third street at 10:30 a.m. Friday for allegedly choosing names at random from the telephone directory, and then forging them on checks at local florist shops.

Police said that Brennan would order flowers to be delivered at local funeral homes, hospitals, non - existent addresses and to unknown people. He allegedly paid for the flowers with checks totaling more than the cost of the flowers, and pocketed the difference.

Brennan is wanted on similar check forgery charges in Arkansas.

Brennan is said to have used several names to sign his checks, and mixed the initials up on some of them. He was transferred to the parish jail after being booked.

GOT A WONDERFUL DEAL
AT McCAIN-RICHARDS
Says! Truman H. McCrea
Well Known Band Supervisor

McCAIN-RICHARDS, INC.

Truman H. McCrea, one of this area's most popular band musicians, is shown above, at right, receiving the keys to his new Ford station wagon from J. H. "Slim" Scogin. In commenting on his purchase McCrea said, "When we decided to buy a new car we planned to take several days shopping all around, but when we got the trade-in offer from McCain-Richards, made through my good friend John Davis, we felt there was no need to look further. McCain-Richards gave us a much better deal than we dreamed possible."

Mr. McCrea is among the scores of people in this area who're getting "go you one better" deals on new Fords. With the Ford car itself and the deals McCain-Richards is giving, it's no wonder we sell more cars than any other dealer in this entire area. We invite you to let us prove that nobody matches our high trades—it's because nobody matches our high volume.

HATTEN MOTORS ANNOUNCES

Two Additions To Their Sales Staff

L. H. BOYD

WILMER DECELLE

An introduction to L. H. Boyd is like an introduction to an old friend. He was affiliated for many years with two well known local dealerships, much of this time in a managerial capacity. Boyd's experience includes all phases of the automobile sales field in both new and used cars. He is considered one of Monroe's outstanding automobile salesmen.

A newcomer to the automobile sales field, Wilmer Decelle is a well known Twin City resident. For the past 14 years he has served as salesman for a well known local milk company. He resides with his wife, Marguerite, son, Ronnie and daughter Carrol, on Horseshoe Lake Road. He is secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Stone Avenue Methodist Church.

For a new Plymouth, new De Soto, New Jeep or a Top Value Used Car, these men will be looking forward to serving you, soon.

Hog Prices Are Reported Higher

(ON THE FARM FRONT)
By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON, May 11 (UP) — Hog prices are increasing.

Sharply depressed a year ago they have advanced to the highest winter-spring level since 1954. The average price of barrows and gilts at Chicago for the week ended April 27 was $17.95 per hundredweight. For the comparable period in 1954 it was $27.30. It shrank to $16.96 in 1955 and to $15.22 in 1956.

Recalling how fast 1954 prices collapsed, producers are wondering how long the present trend will hold.

Agriculture Department reports show that hog production has been cut considerably. The 1956 spring pig crop was reduced 8 per cent and the fall crop 4 per cent. This, coupled with the increase in population, means the pork supply per person is down. Consumption per person in 1955 was 67 pounds. It was 68 pounds in 1956. In 1957 it will be about 64 pounds.

Avoid Over - Supply

Hog farmers have been trying to avoid over-supply. Last fall they planned to hold 1957 spring farrowings 2 per cent below 1956. A report for the nine big corn-hog states in early March indicated they may be exceeding intentions slightly The report also indicated the size of litters in those states is up. The total spring crop may be about the same as last year.

Also favorable to the outlook is the prospect for a smaller output of beef and a reduced total meat supply.

The late 1955-early-1956 peak in hog slaughter was timed exactly with a bulge in cattle slaughter. At that time cattle numbers on farms were at a cyclical peak. Also, feeders that winter held a backlog of over-heavy steers that had to be sold.

Sets Record

As a result, total slaughter and meat output set a record in 1956 that probably will stand for some time. Consumption reached 167 pounds per person.

Cattle slaughter has stayed high in the last year because of liquidation. The January, 1957, inventory was down 1,600,000 head from 1956. The cow and heifer inventory was off 2 million from its 1955 high.

With this smaller inventory and with drought now generally relieved, department economists predict slaughter of cattle will drop in the next year or two. For 1957, total beef output will drop below 1956 and total meat consumption will fall to 158 to 160 pounds.

The big question mark in the pork industry, however, is the strength of consumer demand. Consumers spent only 1.7 per cent of their incomes for pork in 1956. In 1952 they spent 2.3 per cent.

The economists reason that while the downward trend in pork demand is of a lasting nature, yet the very weak demand lately may reflect the over-abundant total meat supply. They say it is reasonable to assume that with less beef available demand for pork will stiffen.

The department predicts prices of hogs will be seasonally high this summer, averaging higher than a year ago. The supply may not be changed much but more sows and gilts probably will be withheld for breeding.

Seasonal price declines this fall probably will be sharper than last fall but prices stand a good chance of remaining above 1956 until near the end of the year.

Conviction Of Matusow Ruled Valid By Court

NEW YORK, May 11 (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals yesterday upheld the perjury conviction and five-year prison sentence of turnabout witness Harvey M. Matusow.

Matusow, a former Communist, was tried for perjury after recanting testimony he gave against 13 secondlstring Reds in a 1952 trial and for claiming Roy M. Cohn, then an assistant U.S. attorney, coached him to give false testimony.

Matusow once termed himself a "vicious liar" and said he had denounced 44 Americans as Communists or Red sympathizers without a shred of evidence.

In appealing his perjury conviction, he claimed he was deprived of a fair trial because the Communist issue was injected into the case and said defense cross-examination of government witnesses was unduly limited. The Appeals Court unanimously rejected all his contentions.

Papers will be prepared calling for Matusow to surrender and begin his term. He has been living in New York, free on $10,000 bail.
